Pilots Bag Red Plane

Red Frontlines Blasted and Ground Fighting Is Increased

Seoul, Feb. 17 (AP)—U. S. Sabre jet pilots today shot down one Communist MIG fighter and damaged another in the fourth straight day of air battles over war-torn Korea, the air force said.

Allied fighter-bombers blasted the Red frontlines and supply routes. Pilots reported destruction of 43 buildings, five trucks and 13 caves.

The tempo of ground fighting also increased.

Today's MIG bag boosted the four-day total to 28—seven destroyed, five probably destroyed and 16 damaged.

Lt. John L. McKee, Ashland, Ky., said he saw the Red warplanes explode and the pilot bail out. The battle pitted a flight of Sabres against four MIGs deep in northwest Korea.

Attack Hurled Back

On the freezing warfront, allied soldiers hurled back an attack by about 175 Chinese Reds near Kelly Hill on the western front. Sharp, bloody fights erupted in eight other clashes across the battleline.

At sea, U. S. navy ships and planes blasted anew the besieged Red port of Wonsan on the east coast yesterday in a fierce, day-long bombardment.

Red guns returned the fire, but the navy made no mention of Communist hits.

U. S. B-29 Superforts and B-26 light bombers smashed a fiery, 200-plane raid against a Red troop and supply area south of Pyongyang, North Korean capital.

Posts Taken by Reds

United Nations infantrymen quickly halted the Red attack southwest of Kelly Hill. But the Reds poured down on two listening posts northeast of Kelly and wrested them from the allies in sharp, bloody fights.

Allied foot soldiers retook one post shortly after and UN artillery drove the Communists off the second.

Roaring UN artillery also cut down a Communist squad attack near Jane Russell Hill on the central front, killing an estimated 22 Chinese.

On the eastern front, South Koreans beat back four Red probes in the pre-dawn darkness and reported 17 North Koreans dead or wounded.

Mines Touched Off

South Koreans also touched off flaming napalm mines near Christmas Hill in the eastern sector, stopping about 40 advancing Chinese Reds in their tracks.

Behind the Red lines, pilots from the U. S. carrier Valley Forge reported North Korean highways jammed with Communist truck traffic in the pre-dawn darkness today.

Comdr. George C. Duncan, Coronado, Calif., leader of a jet squadron on a dawn mission over the eastern front, indicated at least some of the Red trucks were getting through.

The navy announced the escort carrier Bataan has returned to Korean waters for its third tour of duty. The Bataan had left the area last August.

Pilot Says Planes Opened Fire on Thunderjets on Sight

Tokyo, Feb. 17 (AP) — Russian planes started that 10-minute air battle with American Thunderjets over northern Japan yesterday, the U. S. Air Force declared today.

The two LA-11 prop-driven fighters were intercepted about three miles inside Japan's aerial boundary off Hokkaido, FEAF added.

Lt. Benedict A. Lacombe of Pineville, La., one of the U. S. pilots, said the intruders turned immediately and roared toward the Thunderjets, their machine guns firing.

Neither Thunderjet was hit.

Lacombe said he pumped 300 bullets into one of the Soviet planes and set it afire. Both LA-11s fled toward the Kuriles, only 4½ miles from Hokkaido. Lacombe indicated the damaged plane may not have made it.

Lacombe and his wingman, 2nd Lt. James T. Holmes, Rye, N. Y., said they didn't get close enough to determine the nationality of the intruding airmen. But they described them as "well qualified, experienced pilots."

Fired by Russians

Far-East Air Forces (FEAF) spokesman said flatly that the first shots were fired by the Russian planes.

That touched off the first air battle between American and Soviet fighter planes over northern Japan.

The skirmish opened up at 16,000 feet near Nemuro, a town situated on a cape jutting out from eastern Hokkaido.

U. S. radar operators spotted the invading planes and guided Lacombe and Holmes toward them.

"We intercepted them as they bore south toward Nemuro," Lacombe said. He described them as "greenish black," and they said turned immediately and opened fire.

"They were flying at about 250 miles per hour but after contact was made, speeds went up to 400," Lacombe said.

Two More Passes

"I maneuvered to get on the tail of the wingman. They were flying a widespread battle formation. They flew tight circles inside me and by the time I had one in my sights, they had made two more passes."

Lacombe said he got in one good burst of 300 rounds "into the wings and fuselage" of the wingman.

"I could see the bullets rip into him," Lacombe related. "He began to smoke and the last time I saw him he was losing altitude. I can't say for sure if the plane went down or limped home."

The Thunderjets broke off the chase under their standing orders to avoid violation of Russian territory.

Fred Saito, AP staff writer, reported from the scene today that searchlights from a Russian island just off Hokkaido were beamed on the village of Nosappu seven times during a nine-hour period last night.

Saito said that happens quite frequently and did not perturb Nosappu's 4,000 residents.

Japan's Communist party today charged that the shooting actually took place over Soviet-held territory.

Started With Democrats

Washington, Feb. 17 (AP)—President Eisenhower declared today that declining farm prices are a serious problem, but he expressed confidence the new administration will be able to handle it. The President at his first news conference said the difficulties represented by falling farm prices were largely inherited from the Democratic administration. He added that the Republicans have been in office only a few weeks and farm prices have been falling for two years.

May Send Arms

Washington, Feb. 17 (AP)—The United States may step up military shipments to Indochina as part of President Eisenhower's new strategy to try to defeat Communist aggression in the Far East. No final decision has been made yet. But top administration leaders are reported ready to listen sympathetically to French Premier Rene Mayer. They expect him to make such a request next month during a White House visit.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, Feb. 17 (AP) — The position of the Treasury on Feb. 13: Net budget receipts, $239,402,211.41; budget expenditures, $265,046,492.29; cash balance, $6,050,242,454.35; customs receipts for month, $22,357,034.43; budget receipts, fiscal year(July 1, $35,018,673,417.99; budget expenditures fiscal year, $44,850,555,951.82; budget deficit, $9,831,882,533.83; total debt, $267,479,208,830.59; increase over previous day, $70,282,415.49; gold assets, $22,771,184,471.80.

Up to Citizens, Is Chamber's View on Attracting Industry

A public meeting to launch the Kingston Industrial Development Corporation will be held Tuesday, Feb. 24, at 8 p. m. in the supervisor's room at the county court house on Wall street. All persons who want to see Kingston expand industrially are urged to be present by the Chamber of Commerce.

Should there be a poor attendance at the meeting next Tuesday or any lack of interest in organizing the Kingston Industrial Corporation, the Chamber committee will take it as evidence that there is no real community desire at this time to launch an aggressive program of industrial expansion, a spokesman said. Those who find it impossible to attend are invited to leave word at the Kingston Chamber of Commerce office.

The meeting is sponsored by a special industrial committee of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce. This committee has developed proposed by-laws and policies for the corporation and will present them at the meeting next Tuesday. The final by-laws and policies will be adopted by the members or stockholders of the corporation later at the same meeting when directors are elected.

Rosenbergs Get Stay to March 30

U. S. Court of Appeals Acts to Allow New Petition to Supreme Court for Review

New York, Feb. 17 (AP)—The U. S. Court of Appeals today granted a stay of execution to March 30 to atom spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg to permit them to petition the Supreme Court for a review of their case.

Their execution originally was set for Jan. 14 but a stay was granted pending a presidential decision on an appeal for clemency. President Eisenhower rejected the appeal last Wednesday and a new execution date of the week of March 9 had been set only yesterday.

The execution date now may be delayed even beyond March 30.

The Appeals Court ruled that, if Defense Attorney Emanuel H. Bloch filed his petition with the Supreme Court before March 30, the stay would remain in effect indefinitely pending Supreme Court action on the petition.

Comprising the Appeals Court were Judges Learned Hand, Augustus N. Hand and Jerome N. Frank.

To Begin Immediately

Bloch told the court he would begin work immediately on his petition to the nation's highest court.

Federal Judge Irving R. Kaufman set the new execution time yesterday. Kaufman presided at the Rosenbergs' trial and pronounced the death sentence. He has no power to commute the sentence.

William A. Carroll, United States marshal, said he would go to Sing Sing today to make arrangements for the execution.

He said a representative from each of the three major news services would be admitted to the death chamber to witness the executions. Other press representatives, he said, will be required to wait outside and will receive briefings from the news service men before any stories are transmitted.

Official witnesses will be the marshal, two assistants, the Sing Sing warden and two prison physicians.

Ulster Not Part Of Early Letting

Action on Thruway Might Come Late in March, Says State Spokesman

Ulster county is not included in the next letting of New York State Thruway contracts on March 5, but may be included in a letting scheduled for March 26, a spokesman for the state public works department said today.

The next contract in Ulster county will probably be for the section between The Onteora Trail (Route 28) and Whiteport and will include the building of a traffic interchange system at the point where the super highway will intersect Route 28.

Most of the lettings, scheduled for March 5, the department indicated, will be for sections further upstate. It is expected also that the lettings on March 26 will include sections in the Newburgh and New Paltz areas.

Meanwhile, John Arborio Inc., of Poughkeepsie, contractor for the strip between Sawkill and Route 28, favored by mild winter weather, has been progressing with hauling fill and with some excavation. A spokesman for the contractor said full-scale operations would soon be resumed.

Several owners of farmlands taken for the project are preparing to move, but most of them will remain pending completion of hotbed plantings.

Search Still On

Buffalo, N. Y., Feb. 17 (AP)—Air force and volunteer pilots returned to the air today to look for a quartet of Niagara University students missing since Friday in a rented plane. But it appeared that full-scale air search efforts would be abandoned soon.

Holland Fund Is Headed for Excess Of $4,500 Amount

Feye Overwhelmed by Way Kingstonians Respond; Contributions Are Still Pouring In

Kingston-Holland Flood Relief Committee heads, obviously more than pleased by last night's collection, today predicted the eventual total of the "Queen's Fund" will exceed $4,500.

The total collected for the fund up to 11 p. m. Monday reached $4,383.91, the committee announced this morning. Of this amount, $3,280.35 was raised in the city-wide canvass last night; $939 has been received by mail prior to solicitation, and the Old Dutch Church had notified the committee that $164.56 had been obtained in a special collection on Sunday.

Additional contributions were being received this morning from persons not at home during the solicitation or who were otherwise denied the opportunity to participate.

Exceeds Fondest Hopes

Jack Feye, chairman of the committee, said this morning, "I am overwhelmed. While I had no doubt of the generosity of Kingstonians, quite frankly these results exceed my fondest hopes. I don't quite know where to start thanking. The committee worked long and hard, every organization who assisted in the canvass cooperated 100 per cent, and the public at large opened up their hearts and, I am sure, gave to the very limit of their capacity. I can only repeat, Kingston is a town of which I am proud to be a citizen."

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, honorary chairman, stated, "Our folks have rung the bell again. In addition to thanks to each and every citizen, I want to offer special thanks to Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions, American Legion, the Sacred Heart Society of the Immaculate Conception Church, Cordts Hose, Knights of Columbus, Kingston Powerboat Association, Rapid Hose, Moose, VFW, YWCA, Excelsior Hose, the Teachers Federation, B'nai B'rith and their members who rang doorbells last night. Thanks also go to The Freeman, the News-Leader, WKNY and the Ford Letter Shop for their splendid publicity prior to our solicitation. The splendid teamwork of all these people made

President Plans No China Moves

President Would Go Slow on Cut

Eisenhower Says Budget Should Be Balanced First or Levies Might Go Higher Later

Washington, Feb. 17 (AP)—President Eisenhower said today a tax reduction ought to be deferred until a balanced budget is in sight.

The President reaffirmed at a news conference the position he has taken all along on the tax cut question. It gained special significance, however because of the drive among some Republican members of Congress for a cut in personal income taxes next July 1.

Eisenhower said a tax cut now might mean higher taxes later.

A tax-cutting bill cleared its first congressional hurdle yesterday. There are signs, however, that it faces a rocky path of parliamentary roadblocks, delay and eventual tough opposition.

Eisenhower brought up the subject of taxes himself before reporters had a chance to question him about his attitude toward this bill.

Never Promised Reduction

He said he never has promised to reduce taxes, but that he does believe it is an essential objective.

Later, in reply to questions, the President would not go so far as to say he would veto a tax cut bill. Reporters had framed questions in a way aimed to draw such a statement from him.

Eisenhower told them he did not know in what form such a bill might reach his desk, and he could not possibly predict what his decision would be.

At one point in the exchange, the President indicated that the administration is studying a substitute for the excess profits tax law, which is scheduled to expire June 30.

He was asked whether the administration was going to sponsor a bill to retain the excess profits measure beyond that date.

Would Never Agree

The President replied that he would never agree to the elimination of any tax law which would result in a reduction of revenue at this time.

Asked then if he was thinking along the line of a substitute for the excess profits tax, Eisenhower said his advisers were giving some study to that. He did not elaborate.

Some backers of the pending bill to cut individual income taxes have cited the scheduled expiration date of the excess profits levy on business and have argued that individuals also should have their taxes eased at the same time.

New Items Listed

Washington, Feb. 17 (AP)—Cigarettes, cosmetics, coal, lumber and major household appliances today topped a government list of items likely to be freed of price controls this week. Office of Price Stabilization officials predicted cigarettes generally would rise a penny a pack and cosmetics up to 10 per cent on the heels of decontrol. They said such increases would cost the public perhaps 300 million dollars a year—200 million for tobacco, 100 million for cosmetics.

Against Quick Tax Cuts

Washington, Feb. 17 (AP)—President Eisenhower spoke up sharply today against tax cutting until his administration has had a chance to trim government spending. A tax cut now might mean higher taxes later, he declared.

President Believes Russia Has A-Bombs

Washington, Feb. 17 (AP) — President Eisenhower said today he believes it is absolutely true that Soviet Russia has exploded atomic weapons.

He told a news conference he agrees with a statement by Gordon Dean, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, that the Russians have achieved three explosions of atomic weapons.

Dean made the statement recently after former President Truman expressed doubt that the Soviet Union had a workable atomic bomb.

Eisenhower read Dean's statement to reporters. Then he said that so far as he is concerned Dean's statement is absolutely true, word for word.

Ruzzo Alley May Be Sold

Impending Deal Said to Be Underway—Others on Tap

Several sources usually considered well informed, were predicting today that three significant local real estate transactions will be completed within the next month or two.

A large New York banking or insurance firm, was reported to be negotiating for the purchase of the former Ruzzo Bowlatorium building on Grand street. Belief is that if the deal is completed the company will use the building for a record depository, similar to that maintained by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company on South Prospect street.

Salvation Army Mentioned

The Salvation Army has been reported reliably to be negotiating for the simultaneous sale of its North Front street property, and purchase of other quarters in the same general section of the city. Salvation Army authorities as long ago as three years, were known to have been contemplating a possible change away from the North Front street location, that has become a growing business section of increasing importance.

The third report current in Kingston concerns the still prevalent belief that a department store is interested in locating a branch here.

Williams Bombs Reds

With Marine Air Group 33, Korea, Feb. 17 (AP)—Marine Capt. Ted. Williams, former Boston Red Sox baseball star, went to bat against the Communists a second time today on a bombing mission—one day after his first mission ended in a crash-landing. Williams was in a flight of four marine Pantherjet fighter bombers hitting Red supply routes south of the Red Korean capital, Pyongyang. He unloaded his two 500-pound bombs and four 250 pounders on Communist roads with undetermined results.

Gives Hint Others May Take Action

Eisenhower Tells Press He Personally Has Not Given Consideration to Blockade

Washington, Feb. 17 (AP)—President Eisenhower said today that he personally is not giving consideration at this time to the question of either an embargo or a blockade of Red China. His news conference statement left open the possibility that they were under study by other government officials.

The matter of possible new moves against the Chinese Communists was brought up several times in this first meeting Eisenhower has had with reporters since taking office.

On the first occasion, the President was asked whether he was giving any consideration to imposition of either an embargo or a naval blockade of Red China.

Not Discussed With Him

He replied the matter had not been discussed with him, except—as he put it—in the newspapers.

A few minutes later, a reporter brought up the subject again, saying he wanted to make sure he understood the President.

Did the President mean that neither a blockade nor an embargo had been discussed at all? the newsman asked.

Eisenhower said such steps had not been brought up officially, to him.

Seeking clarification, a reporter asked whether the situation was that Eisenhower personally had given no consideration to such action.

The President replied that was right—no consideration by him.

Then he went on to say he supposed the subject had been under consideration in several departments of government. He did not specify the departments.

256 Attend Parley

Today's news conference brought out a crowd of 256.

The conference room in the old State Department building which seats 215, was jammed to the doors.

The attendance compares with a record of 347 for a presidential news conference—set at the first meeting President Truman had with reporters.

However, the White House had taken steps to limit the attendance at today's meeting. It barred most of the government public relations men, always a sizeable group at previous presidential news conferences.

As it was, some reporters were unable to get in today. The doors of the conference room were closed at 10:10 a. m., EST.—20 minutes before the start of the conference.

Welcomes Newsmen

At the outset, Eisenhower—natty in a blue business suit with blue shirt and blue figured tie—told the newsmen he welcomed the opportunity to meet with them. He remarked that he had many old friends in the gathering.

He said too that he was looking forward to many more news conferences during the next four years and that they would be conducted on the same basis as heretofore under the Truman and Roosevelt administrations.

Breaks Tradition

Then he immediately departed from the usual custom by saying he had four or five subjects he wanted to discuss before any questions were put. He proceeded to talk about farm policy, taxes, the atomic bomb, economic controls, and secret international agreements.

The President also broke tradition when at the end of about 32 minutes he announced that the first news conference was over.

The tradition has been that presidential news conferences end when the senior regular White House correspondent speaks up, "Thank you, Mr. President."

Eisenhower appeared to be at ease throughout, answering all questions put to him without a single no comment.

Upholds Valente Ban

New York, Feb. 17 (AP)—A state Supreme Court justice today refused to order General Sessions Judge Francis L. Valente to open the Minot Jelke vice trial to the public and press. Justice Benjamin F. Schreiber held that the Supreme Court "has no right or power" to decide whether the judge "should or should not have ordered the exclusion of the public and press" from the trial.

Grand Jury Sifts Evidence Of N. Y. Police Brutality

New York, Feb. 17 (AP)—A federal grand jury today sifted evidence in cases of alleged brutality by New York city police amid reports of a secret unprecedented agreement freeing officers here from FBI investigation in such cases.

The report of a secret agreement also stirred demands by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) that Police Commissioner George P. Monaghan resign.

While Monaghan was not available for comment, Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri said yesterday he knew nothing about the report.

Several policemen were understood to have been subpoenaed to appear today before the federal grand jury, which yesterday opened a civil rights probe into the case of Negro truck driver Jacob Jackson, 31.

Jackson, who was the panel's first witness, was arrested last summer when police broke up a sidewalk dice game. Jackson claims he was not involved in the game and that he was beaten by police when he protested. He says he underwent two brain operations as a result. He is free in $500 bail on an assault charge.

Word of the grand jury probe, published reports said, resulted in Monaghan and an aid going to Washington yesterday to confer with U. S. Justice Department officials.

It was reported that Monaghan last summer had made an agreement with U. S. Assistant Attorney General James M. McInerney

Federal Judge Irving R. Kaufman set the new execution time yesterday. Kaufman presided at the Rosenbergs' trial and pronounced the death sentence. He has no power to commute the sentence.

William A. Carroll, United States marshal, said he would go to Sing Sing today to make arrangements for the execution.

He said a representative from each of the three major news services would be admitted to the death chamber to witness the executions. Other press representatives, he said, will be required to wait outside and will receive briefings from the news service men before any stories are transmitted.

Official witnesses will be the marshal, two assistants, the Sing Sing warden and two prison physicians.

Ulster Not Part Of Early Letting

Action on Thruway Might Come Late in March, Says State Spokesman

Ulster county is not included in the next letting of New York State Thruway contracts on March 5, but may be included in a letting scheduled for March 26, a spokesman for the state public works department said today.

The next contract in Ulster county will probably be for the section between The Onteora Trail (Route 28) and Whiteport and will include the building of a traffic interchange system at the point where the super highway will intersect Route 28.

Most of the lettings, scheduled for March 5, the department indicated, will be for sections further upstate. It is expected also that the lettings on March 26 will include sections in the Newburgh and New Paltz areas.

Meanwhile, John Arborio Inc., of Poughkeepsie, contractor for the strip between Sawkill and Route 28, favored by mild winter weather, has been progressing with hauling fill and with some excavation. A spokesman for the contractor said full-scale operations would soon be resumed.

Several owners of farmlands taken for the project are preparing to move, but most of them will remain pending completion of hotbed plantings.

Search Still On

Buffalo, N. Y., Feb. 17 (AP)—Air force and volunteer pilots returned to the air today to look for a quartet of Niagara University students missing since Friday in a rented plane. But it appeared that full-scale air search efforts would be abandoned soon.

Holland Fund Is Headed for Excess Of $4,500 Amount

Feye Overwhelmed by Way Kingstonians Respond; Contributions Are Still Pouring In

Kingston-Holland Flood Relief Committee heads, obviously more than pleased by last night's collection, today predicted the eventual total of the "Queen's Fund" will exceed $4,500.

The total collected for the fund up to 11 p. m. Monday reached $4,383.91, the committee announced this morning. Of this amount, $3,280.35 was raised in the city-wide canvass last night; $939 has been received by mail prior to solicitation, and the Old Dutch Church had notified the committee that $164.56 had been obtained in a special collection on Sunday.

Additional contributions were being received this morning from persons not at home during the solicitation or who were otherwise denied the opportunity to participate.

Exceeds Fondest Hopes

Jack Feye, chairman of the committee, said this morning, "I am overwhelmed. While I had no doubt of the generosity of Kingstonians, quite frankly these results exceed my fondest hopes. I don't quite know where to start thanking. The committee worked long and hard, every organization who assisted in the canvass cooperated 100 per cent, and the public at large opened up their hearts and, I am sure, gave to the very limit of their capacity. I can only repeat, Kingston is a town of which I am proud to be a citizen."

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, honorary chairman, stated, "Our folks have rung the bell again. In addition to thanks to each and every citizen, I want to offer special thanks to Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions, American Legion, the Sacred Heart Society of the Immaculate Conception Church, Cordts Hose, Knights of Columbus, Kingston Powerboat Association, Rapid Hose, Moose, VFW, YWCA, Excelsior Hose, the Teachers Federation, B'nai B'rith and their members who rang doorbells last night. Thanks also go to The Freeman, the News-Leader, WKNY and the Ford Letter Shop for their splendid publicity prior to our solicitation. The splendid teamwork of all these people made

Eisenhower Says Budget Should Be Balanced First or Levies Might Go Higher Later

Washington, Feb. 17 (AP)—President Eisenhower said today a tax reduction ought to be deferred until a balanced budget is in sight.

The President reaffirmed at a news conference the position he has taken all along on the tax cut question. It gained special significance, however because of the drive among some Republican members of Congress for a cut in personal income taxes next July 1.

Eisenhower said a tax cut now might mean higher taxes later.

A tax-cutting bill cleared its first congressional hurdle yesterday. There are signs, however, that it faces a rocky path of parliamentary roadblocks, delay and eventual tough opposition.

Eisenhower brought up the subject of taxes himself before reporters had a chance to question him about his attitude toward this bill.

Never Promised Reduction

He said he never has promised to reduce taxes, but that he does believe it is an essential objective.

Later, in reply to questions, the President would not go so far as to say he would veto a tax cut bill. Reporters had framed questions in a way aimed to draw such a statement from him.

Eisenhower told them he did not know in what form such a bill might reach his desk, and he could not possibly predict what his decision would be.

At one point in the exchange, the President indicated that the administration is studying a substitute for the excess profits tax law, which is scheduled to expire June 30.

He was asked whether the administration was going to sponsor a bill to retain the excess profits measure beyond that date.

Would Never Agree

The President replied that he would never agree to the elimination of any tax law which would result in a reduction of revenue at this time.

Asked then if he was thinking along the line of a substitute for the excess profits tax, Eisenhower said his advisers were giving some study to that. He did not elaborate.

Some backers of the pending bill to cut individual income taxes have cited the scheduled expiration date of the excess profits levy on business and have argued that individuals also should have their taxes eased at the same time.

New Items Listed

Washington, Feb. 17 (AP)—Cigarettes, cosmetics, coal, lumber and major household appliances today topped a government list of items likely to be freed of price controls this week. Office of Price Stabilization officials predicted cigarettes generally would rise a penny a pack and cosmetics up to 10 per cent on the heels of decontrol. They said such increases would cost the public perhaps 300 million dollars a year—200 million for tobacco, 100 million for cosmetics.

Against Quick Tax Cuts

Washington, Feb. 17 (AP)—President Eisenhower spoke up sharply today against tax cutting until his administration has had a chance to trim government spending. A tax cut now might mean higher taxes later, he declared.

President Believes Russia Has A-Bombs

Washington, Feb. 17 (AP) — President Eisenhower said today he believes it is absolutely true that Soviet Russia has exploded atomic weapons.

He told a news conference he agrees with a statement by Gordon Dean, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, that the Russians have achieved three explosions of atomic weapons.

Dean made the statement recently after former President Truman expressed doubt that the Soviet Union had a workable atomic bomb.

Eisenhower read Dean's statement to reporters. Then he said that so far as he is concerned Dean's statement is absolutely true, word for word.

Ruzzo Alley May Be Sold

Impending Deal Said to Be Underway—Others on Tap

Several sources usually considered well informed, were predicting today that three significant local real estate transactions will be completed within the next month or two.

A large New York banking or insurance firm, was reported to be negotiating for the purchase of the former Ruzzo Bowlatorium building on Grand street. Belief is that if the deal is completed the company will use the building for a record depository, similar to that maintained by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company on South Prospect street.

Salvation Army Mentioned

The Salvation Army has been reported reliably to be negotiating for the simultaneous sale of its North Front street property, and purchase of other quarters in the same general section of the city. Salvation Army authorities as long ago as three years, were known to have been contemplating a possible change away from the North Front street location, that has become a growing business section of increasing importance.

The third report current in Kingston concerns the still prevalent belief that a department store is interested in locating a branch here.

Williams Bombs Reds

With Marine Air Group 33, Korea, Feb. 17 (AP)—Marine Capt. Ted. Williams, former Boston Red Sox baseball star, went to bat against the Communists a second time today on a bombing mission—one day after his first mission ended in a crash-landing. Williams was in a flight of four marine Pantherjet fighter bombers hitting Red supply routes south of the Red Korean capital, Pyongyang. He unloaded his two 500-pound bombs and four 250 pounders on Communist roads with undetermined results.

Grand Jury Sifts Evidence Of N. Y. Police Brutality

New York, Feb. 17 (AP)—A federal grand jury today sifted evidence in cases of alleged brutality by New York city police amid reports of a secret unprecedented agreement freeing officers here from FBI investigation in such cases.

The report of a secret agreement also stirred demands by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) that Police Commissioner George P. Monaghan resign.

While Monaghan was not available for comment, Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri said yesterday he knew nothing about the report.

Several policemen were understood to have been subpoenaed to appear today before the federal grand jury, which yesterday opened a civil rights probe into the case of Negro truck driver Jacob Jackson, 31.

Jackson, who was the panel's first witness, was arrested last summer when police broke up a sidewalk dice game. Jackson claims he was not involved in the game and that he was beaten by police when he protested. He says he underwent two brain operations as a result. He is free in $500 bail on an assault charge.

Word of the grand jury probe, published reports said, resulted in Monaghan and an aid going to Washington yesterday to confer with U. S. Justice Department officials.

It was reported that Monaghan last summer had made an agreement with U. S. Assistant Attorney General James M. McInerney

Gives Hint Others May Take Action

Eisenhower Tells Press He Personally Has Not Given Consideration to Blockade

Washington, Feb. 17 (AP)—President Eisenhower said today that he personally is not giving consideration at this time to the question of either an embargo or a blockade of Red China. His news conference statement left open the possibility that they were under study by other government officials.

The matter of possible new moves against the Chinese Communists was brought up several times in this first meeting Eisenhower has had with reporters since taking office.

On the first occasion, the President was asked whether he was giving any consideration to imposition of either an embargo or a naval blockade of Red China.

Not Discussed With Him

He replied the matter had not been discussed with him, except—as he put it—in the newspapers.

A few minutes later, a reporter brought up the subject again, saying he wanted to make sure he understood the President.

Did the President mean that neither a blockade nor an embargo had been discussed at all? the newsman asked.

Eisenhower said such steps had not been brought up officially, to him.

Seeking clarification, a reporter asked whether the situation was that Eisenhower personally had given no consideration to such action.

The President replied that was right—no consideration by him.

Then he went on to say he supposed the subject had been under consideration in several departments of government. He did not specify the departments.

256 Attend Parley

Today's news conference brought out a crowd of 256.

The conference room in the old State Department building which seats 215, was jammed to the doors.

The attendance compares with a record of 347 for a presidential news conference—set at the first meeting President Truman had with reporters.

However, the White House had taken steps to limit the attendance at today's meeting. It barred most of the government public relations men, always a sizeable group at previous presidential news conferences.

As it was, some reporters were unable to get in today. The doors of the conference room were closed at 10:10 a. m., EST.—20 minutes before the start of the conference.

Welcomes Newsmen

At the outset, Eisenhower—natty in a blue business suit with blue shirt and blue figured tie—told the newsmen he welcomed the opportunity to meet with them. He remarked that he had many old friends in the gathering.

He said too that he was looking forward to many more news conferences during the next four years and that they would be conducted on the same basis as heretofore under the Truman and Roosevelt administrations.

Breaks Tradition

Then he immediately departed from the usual custom by saying he had four or five subjects he wanted to discuss before any questions were put. He proceeded to talk about farm policy, taxes, the atomic bomb, economic controls, and secret international agreements.

The President also broke tradition when at the end of about 32 minutes he announced that the first news conference was over.

The tradition has been that presidential news conferences end when the senior regular White House correspondent speaks up, "Thank you, Mr. President."

Eisenhower appeared to be at ease throughout, answering all questions put to him without a single no comment.

Upholds Valente Ban

New York, Feb. 17 (AP)—A state Supreme Court justice today refused to order General Sessions Judge Francis L. Valente to open the Minot Jelke vice trial to the public and press. Justice Benjamin F. Schreiber held that the Supreme Court "has no right or power" to decide whether the judge "should or should not have ordered the exclusion of the public and press" from the trial.

Pair Admits No Further Thefts

Authorities said today they had gained no further admissions of theft from Kenneth Joseph Banks and Frank Banks, Jr., the 17-year-old cousins of 491 Wilbur avenue, who were caught in a police trap at the Supreme Beverage Co., building at Barmann and South Clinton avenue early yesterday.

Detective Clarence Brophy said the two still said they were innocent of the theft of about $2,500 from Rose's Super Market on Franklin street last week, and County Investigator Arthur Brown said they had admitted to no other thefts in the county other than the break-in and theft at Ann's Delicatessen, Woodstock, and the break-in at the Warren VanKleeck gas station, Port Ewen.

Say They Bought Car

Authorities, however, claim a confession from the youths, to the effect that they had purchased the Chevrolet car found near the Supreme Beverage Co., building, with stolen money.

It was this car, left running outside of the building, which attracted the interest of Patrolmen Carl Janasiewicz and Thomas Tomshaw, who had been working in plain clothes, and who set the police trap.

Two Made Arrest

Authorities claim solution of about a dozen thefts in the city and county as a result of the arrests. It was also revealed today that Detective Frank Sammons, and Officer John Crespino, who went up a ladder after the two, were the arresting officers.

The boys waived examination and were held for the grand jury yesterday.

Police records on the two show that they were arrested by Detective Clarence Brophy and former Detective Wesley Cramer for juvenile delinquency on July 9, 1946.

Dislikes Criticism

Atlantic City, N. J., Feb. 17 (AP)—Liberty of conscience is endangered by proposed congressional investigations of American universities and lower schools, Mrs. Agnes E. Meyer declared today. Mrs. Meyer, wife of Eugene Meyer, chairman of the board of the Washington Post, accused the heads of three congressional investigating bodies of "demagogic methods" by which, she said, "the security of our public school teachers will be completely destroyed" if teachers are exposed to investigation.

Red Cross Assists Soldier Worried About Family Here

Pvt. Paul Medley of 50 Meadow street anxiously awaited word from his wife in Kingston. Distraught over worry about his family in Kingston Private Medley could not put his entire mind to the task at hand in Korea.

Paul knew he was about to become a daddy and his wife Emma back in Kingston was his one concern.

On December 27, 1952, the big event took place. Everything was fine except that Private Medley in Korea knew nothing of it. Mrs. Medley knew her husband would be anxious to learn of the birth of Dina Medley but she was at a loss to know how to quickly get word to him.

Thought of Red Cross

The Red Cross came to her mind. It was the one agency which could contact servicemen all over the world.

Mrs. Ethel K. Wood, Home Service Director at the Ulster County Chapter, National Red Cross, was contacted. A telegram was sent to National Headquarters in Washington to be cabled overseas to Korea. Three days later Private Medley wrote to his wife he had received the good news through Reporting Service of the Red Cross and his anxiety relieved he was able to turn his entire attention to the task at hand in Korea. His wife and family in Kingston were doing nicely and thanks to the Red Cross he knew it.

Scott Reported 'Fair', Under Police Guard

Frank Scott, 43, of Milton, was reported in "fair" condition at Kingston Hospital, where he is under a sheriff's office guard while awaiting a hearing on a disorderly conduct charge.

Both the arrest and injury, said to be a broken jaw, stemmed from an incident in Milton home about midnight last night, state police of Highland reported. Scott was accused of entering a home in Milton and becoming involved in a fight with the householder when the latter tried to persuade Scott to leave. Charged with disorderly conduct, Scott was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Fred C. Woolsey, and entered a plea of innocent. A hearing was scheduled for February 23 and Scott was placed in the custody of the sheriff in lieu of $200 bail.

Missing Boy, 3, Is Found Unhurt

Chappaqua, Feb. 17 (AP)—A three-year-old boy, missing from his home here since yesterday afternoon, was found "alive and well" shortly before noon today, police reported.

The boy was found under a rock about 11:30 a. m., police said, about 20 hours after he disappeared from his home.

Police said the boy, object of an all-night search by hundreds of police and volunteers through the snow-covered hills, apparently had crawled under the rock for shelter and spent the night there.

The rock was a protecting ledge not far from the boy's home. He was taken home immediately.

SHOKAN

Shokan, Feb. 16—The WSCS of the Ashokan Methodist Church will hold a food sale this coming Saturday at the Wiese general store.

Rudolph Rossman is adding still another unit to his chain of cabins in the immediate environs of the Rossman large summer boarding house in the west end. The Rossman place is the one-time John D. Ennist farm, childhood home of Jay Ennist of Highland and Mrs. Donald Everett of St. Petersburg, Fla.

Dr. Abraham Rottkov, his wife, and daughter Linda former resident of Ashokan, reportedly will return to Fleischmanns March 1 following a three-week vacation sojourn at Nassau in the Bahamas.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Kiernan of the Phoenicia section of Shandaken were numbered among callers in the hub of the reservoir country Friday.

Old Timer while deploring the acquisition of so much "good farmland down there on the Kingston Flats" for Thruway purposes, nevertheless is inclned to concede that this fertile tract of land has contributed more than its share of succulent edibles over a period of many years. O. T. recalls how in his boyhood days, mountain farmers were wont to toss on a few dozen heads of cabbages at five cents a throw (big ones, too), when returning home on an all-day trip to town with team and wagon. This for making sauerkraut; and if, perchance, they had time enough, they'd go out to the Flatbush fishing ground and get a hundred or more sizeable herring, also for salting in barrels for winter use. For the herring, they had to shell out about five cents a piece (hard on the old wallet, such high prices!).

Note the overhead street lights on the Onteora Trail opposite the big central school at Boiceville. These, together with neon signs at nearby business places, lend an urban air to what only a few short years ago was just a wide spot in a narrow road.

Court Aids Coed, 48

Boston (AP)—The Massachusetts Supreme Court recently upheld a lower court ruling requiring a man to pay $15 a week to his estranged 48-year-old wife while she is a Boston University coed. In 1948 a lower court decreed a $20 a week support payment with the provision that it might be reduced as soon as she was able to work. The court upheld continued payments because her schooling is designed to enable her to resume her teaching career.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Feb. 17 (AP)—Quietly but insistently, the stock market declined today.

There were no particular points of weakness uncovered on the fall, but at the same time no areas of strength were apparent to cushion the slide.

The decline at the outside extended to between 1 and 2 points with the bulk of the minus signs in the small fractions. Gains were limited.

Trading volume was at a rate even less than the total of 1,330,000 shares yesterday.

General motors was a focal point of selling and appeared on the tape in blocks as large as 1,500 shares at a time. It was down around a point at the worst.

The activity in GM, and the fact that it has been on the list of ten most active issues in the last four sessions, gave rise to conjecture in Wall Street whether Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson was now disposing of his General Motors holdings in the open market. Wilson owned some 40,000 shares of GM which he agreed to sell in order to sever any connection with a firm that sells supplies to the government. There was, however, no definite indication that the selling came from the Wilson holdings.

Provoo Is Given Life in Prison

New York, Feb. 17 (AP)—John David Provoo was sentenced to life imprisonment today for the crime of treason.

The former army sergeant, who was accused of going over to the Japanese side after the fall of Corregidor, could have received the death sentence.

Federal Judge Gregory F. Noonan said he spared the tall, square-jawed Provoo death because of medical opinions that he was emotionally unstable.

32 Men Complete Police Exams to Fill 16 Positions

Thomas J. Finnerty, president of the Municipal Civil Service Commission, said today that 32 men completed the civil service examination Saturday for positions as local patrolmen.

The test was held to compile an eligibility list for the appointment of 16 patrolmen to the police department when the 40-hour work week becomes effective.

Finnerty said it will take from 30 to 90 days before the local commission gets the results of the examination back from Albany. This list will be submitted to the Board of Police Commissioners for appointments.

The commission received 38 completed applications for the examination. Of these the state disqualified two, another three failed to appear, and one left the room before the test was completed.

purchase stock later. All those who signed the original pledges and all other persons interested in the industrial expansion of Kingston and the area should attend. Only those who sign legal pledges will be eligible to vote for directors to manage the affairs of the corporation.

The committee believes that this is the meeting which should be attended by all those interested in the expansion of employment opportunities, particularly for men. "It will have to be a real community project to be successful," a spokesman for the committee said. "A few interested Chamber of Commerce members cannot do the job required, he stressed, it needs the united support of merchants, business and professional people, taxpayers and workers themselves; anyone who would benefit by increased employment and larger gross payrolls, and that means everybody. We must have enthusiastic support now to put it over."

Sites Main Concern

The committee spokesman also said "In the past various unidentified interests have been accused of keeping industry out of Kingston. We have found no tangible evidence that this was the case. We have found a lack of suitable sites and buildings of the type demanded by modern industries and believe that this is the principal cause, combined with relatively unfavorable transportation facilities, of our slow but sound industrial development." He concluded, "We believe steps should be taken now to complete the organization of an industrial development corporation. Other towns have done it after being confronted with serious loss of payrolls by industries moving away or closing down. We should be foresighted and take aggressive steps to attract new industries, rather than wait until unemployment of skilled workers stares us in the face. We must develop adequate sites with public services, especially water under pressure, if we are to attract smaller industries employing less than 500 persons. Other localities are doing it and that's why we do not get those industries which are relocating their plants or developing branch plants."

Berkowitz Serves On Art Committee

Woodstock, Feb. 17—Sidney Berkowitz, of this village, is one of the members of the board of trustees and of the committee of sponsors for an exhibition of paintings to be presented by the American Federation of Arts, Thursday, Feb. 26, at the Wildenstein Galleries. The 60 great American paintings from the Colonial period to the present day is titled Landmarks in American Art.

The exhibit spans neary 300 years of American Art, offering an aesthetic appraisal rather than a detailed historical survey. It presents a fresh view of the beauties of our national art, which is partly dependent upon the influences of European culture; but clearly and delightfully shows those native qualities that grew with the shaping of America into a great nation. The collection is also a surprising index of the richness and spread of American painting in public and private collections throughout the country.

Landmarks in American Art is a concensus of opinion drawn from the combined knowledge and authoritative taste of the well known specialists in American Art who served on the committee of selection. The 60 great paintings which they chose date as early as 1670 from the well-known portrait of Alice Mason whose creator remains anonymous. This was lent by the Department of the Interior of the United States. Gilbert Stuart's portrait of Mrs. Yates has been lent by the National Gallery in Washington, D. C. John Singleton Copley's painting of Mr. and Mrs. Mifflin done in 1773 has been lent by the Historical Society of Philadelphia.

Paintings from the Hudson River School are represented by such famous artists as Henry Inman and Frederick Edwin Church.

The Expatriots—Whistler, Sargent and Cassatt are at home with their fine examples of The Falling Rocket, Madam X and La Toilette, respectively.

The great triumvirate at the end of the nineteenth century Ryder, Homer and Eakins are shown in their famous works: Ryder's Temple of the Mind; Winslow Homer's Fox Hunt and Eakin's dramatic portrayal of The Biglen Brothers turning the Stake are included of course.

Works of the 20th century cover at least one-third of the works in the show. This proportion was considered in the light of the last 50 years of American Art which have been more active than any other period of our history.

The choice of individual contemporaries from among so many living artists of merit was made largely because of major accepted influences by outstanding artists. The list includes William Glackens, George Bellows, John Sloan, Charles Sheeler, Max Weber, Stuart Davis, Edward Hopper, Ben Shahn through Jackson Pollock.

It also insures community service, providing free diagnosis tests and procedures for Ulster County persons who are referred by their physician as in need of this service.

Mrs. Lindin Speaks On Tapestry Weaving

Woodstock, Feb. 17—On Thursday, Feb. 12, Mrs. Louise Lindin gave an interesting talk on tapestry weaving to the members of the weaving class at the Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen. She displayed some of her own beautiful tapestries to illustrate her talk. Her study of this fascinating craft was done in Sweden.

Mrs. Lindin has loaned her tapestry loom to the Guild in order that members of the weaving class may experiment with this type of weaving which is quite different from the work they are now doing. After the talk there was a surprise celebration in honor of Miss Therese Kessel's birthday, February 13. Mrs. William Hand donated the cake with candles and the class finally closed with best wishes to Miss Kessel for many happy years of weaving to come.

Pair Admits No Further Thefts

Authorities said today they had gained no further admissions of theft from Kenneth Joseph Banks and Frank Banks, Jr., the 17-year-old cousins of 491 Wilbur avenue, who were caught in a police trap at the Supreme Beverage Co., building at Barmann and South Clinton avenue early yesterday.

Detective Clarence Brophy said the two still said they were innocent of the theft of about $2,500 from Rose's Super Market on Franklin street last week, and County Investigator Arthur Brown said they had admitted to no other thefts in the county other than the break-in and theft at Ann's Delicatessen, Woodstock, and the break-in at the Warren VanKleeck gas station, Port Ewen.

Say They Bought Car

Authorities, however, claim a confession from the youths, to the effect that they had purchased the Chevrolet car found near the Supreme Beverage Co., building, with stolen money.

It was this car, left running outside of the building, which attracted the interest of Patrolmen Carl Janasiewicz and Thomas Tomshaw, who had been working in plain clothes, and who set the police trap.

Two Made Arrest

Authorities claim solution of about a dozen thefts in the city and county as a result of the arrests. It was also revealed today that Detective Frank Sammons, and Officer John Crespino, who went up a ladder after the two, were the arresting officers.

The boys waived examination and were held for the grand jury yesterday.

Police records on the two show that they were arrested by Detective Clarence Brophy and former Detective Wesley Cramer for juvenile delinquency on July 9, 1946.

Dislikes Criticism

Atlantic City, N. J., Feb. 17 (AP)—Liberty of conscience is endangered by proposed congressional investigations of American universities and lower schools, Mrs. Agnes E. Meyer declared today. Mrs. Meyer, wife of Eugene Meyer, chairman of the board of the Washington Post, accused the heads of three congressional investigating bodies of "demagogic methods" by which, she said, "the security of our public school teachers will be completely destroyed" if teachers are exposed to investigation.

Red Cross Assists Soldier Worried About Family Here

Pvt. Paul Medley of 50 Meadow street anxiously awaited word from his wife in Kingston. Distraught over worry about his family in Kingston Private Medley could not put his entire mind to the task at hand in Korea.

Paul knew he was about to become a daddy and his wife Emma back in Kingston was his one concern.

On December 27, 1952, the big event took place. Everything was fine except that Private Medley in Korea knew nothing of it. Mrs. Medley knew her husband would be anxious to learn of the birth of Dina Medley but she was at a loss to know how to quickly get word to him.

Thought of Red Cross

The Red Cross came to her mind. It was the one agency which could contact servicemen all over the world.

Mrs. Ethel K. Wood, Home Service Director at the Ulster County Chapter, National Red Cross, was contacted. A telegram was sent to National Headquarters in Washington to be cabled overseas to Korea. Three days later Private Medley wrote to his wife he had received the good news through Reporting Service of the Red Cross and his anxiety relieved he was able to turn his entire attention to the task at hand in Korea. His wife and family in Kingston were doing nicely and thanks to the Red Cross he knew it.

Scott Reported 'Fair', Under Police Guard

Frank Scott, 43, of Milton, was reported in "fair" condition at Kingston Hospital, where he is under a sheriff's office guard while awaiting a hearing on a disorderly conduct charge.

Both the arrest and injury, said to be a broken jaw, stemmed from an incident in Milton home about midnight last night, state police of Highland reported. Scott was accused of entering a home in Milton and becoming involved in a fight with the householder when the latter tried to persuade Scott to leave. Charged with disorderly conduct, Scott was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Fred C. Woolsey, and entered a plea of innocent. A hearing was scheduled for February 23 and Scott was placed in the custody of the sheriff in lieu of $200 bail.

Missing Boy, 3, Is Found Unhurt

Chappaqua, Feb. 17 (AP)—A three-year-old boy, missing from his home here since yesterday afternoon, was found "alive and well" shortly before noon today, police reported.

The boy was found under a rock about 11:30 a. m., police said, about 20 hours after he disappeared from his home.

Police said the boy, object of an all-night search by hundreds of police and volunteers through the snow-covered hills, apparently had crawled under the rock for shelter and spent the night there.

The rock was a protecting ledge not far from the boy's home. He was taken home immediately.

SHOKAN

Shokan, Feb. 16—The WSCS of the Ashokan Methodist Church will hold a food sale this coming Saturday at the Wiese general store.

Rudolph Rossman is adding still another unit to his chain of cabins in the immediate environs of the Rossman large summer boarding house in the west end. The Rossman place is the one-time John D. Ennist farm, childhood home of Jay Ennist of Highland and Mrs. Donald Everett of St. Petersburg, Fla.

Dr. Abraham Rottkov, his wife, and daughter Linda former resident of Ashokan, reportedly will return to Fleischmanns March 1 following a three-week vacation sojourn at Nassau in the Bahamas.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Kiernan of the Phoenicia section of Shandaken were numbered among callers in the hub of the reservoir country Friday.

Old Timer while deploring the acquisition of so much "good farmland down there on the Kingston Flats" for Thruway purposes, nevertheless is inclned to concede that this fertile tract of land has contributed more than its share of succulent edibles over a period of many years. O. T. recalls how in his boyhood days, mountain farmers were wont to toss on a few dozen heads of cabbages at five cents a throw (big ones, too), when returning home on an all-day trip to town with team and wagon. This for making sauerkraut; and if, perchance, they had time enough, they'd go out to the Flatbush fishing ground and get a hundred or more sizeable herring, also for salting in barrels for winter use. For the herring, they had to shell out about five cents a piece (hard on the old wallet, such high prices!).

Note the overhead street lights on the Onteora Trail opposite the big central school at Boiceville. These, together with neon signs at nearby business places, lend an urban air to what only a few short years ago was just a wide spot in a narrow road.

Court Aids Coed, 48

Boston (AP)—The Massachusetts Supreme Court recently upheld a lower court ruling requiring a man to pay $15 a week to his estranged 48-year-old wife while she is a Boston University coed. In 1948 a lower court decreed a $20 a week support payment with the provision that it might be reduced as soon as she was able to work. The court upheld continued payments because her schooling is designed to enable her to resume her teaching career.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Feb. 17 (AP)—Quietly but insistently, the stock market declined today.

There were no particular points of weakness uncovered on the fall, but at the same time no areas of strength were apparent to cushion the slide.

The decline at the outside extended to between 1 and 2 points with the bulk of the minus signs in the small fractions. Gains were limited.

Trading volume was at a rate even less than the total of 1,330,000 shares yesterday.

General motors was a focal point of selling and appeared on the tape in blocks as large as 1,500 shares at a time. It was down around a point at the worst.

The activity in GM, and the fact that it has been on the list of ten most active issues in the last four sessions, gave rise to conjecture in Wall Street whether Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson was now disposing of his General Motors holdings in the open market. Wilson owned some 40,000 shares of GM which he agreed to sell in order to sever any connection with a firm that sells supplies to the government. There was, however, no definite indication that the selling came from the Wilson holdings.

Provoo Is Given Life in Prison

New York, Feb. 17 (AP)—John David Provoo was sentenced to life imprisonment today for the crime of treason.

The former army sergeant, who was accused of going over to the Japanese side after the fall of Corregidor, could have received the death sentence.

Federal Judge Gregory F. Noonan said he spared the tall, square-jawed Provoo death because of medical opinions that he was emotionally unstable.

32 Men Complete Police Exams to Fill 16 Positions

Thomas J. Finnerty, president of the Municipal Civil Service Commission, said today that 32 men completed the civil service examination Saturday for positions as local patrolmen.

The test was held to compile an eligibility list for the appointment of 16 patrolmen to the police department when the 40-hour work week becomes effective.

Finnerty said it will take from 30 to 90 days before the local commission gets the results of the examination back from Albany. This list will be submitted to the Board of Police Commissioners for appointments.

The commission received 38 completed applications for the examination. Of these the state disqualified two, another three failed to appear, and one left the room before the test was completed.

purchase stock later. All those who signed the original pledges and all other persons interested in the industrial expansion of Kingston and the area should attend. Only those who sign legal pledges will be eligible to vote for directors to manage the affairs of the corporation.

The committee believes that this is the meeting which should be attended by all those interested in the expansion of employment opportunities, particularly for men. "It will have to be a real community project to be successful," a spokesman for the committee said. "A few interested Chamber of Commerce members cannot do the job required, he stressed, it needs the united support of merchants, business and professional people, taxpayers and workers themselves; anyone who would benefit by increased employment and larger gross payrolls, and that means everybody. We must have enthusiastic support now to put it over."

Sites Main Concern

The committee spokesman also said "In the past various unidentified interests have been accused of keeping industry out of Kingston. We have found no tangible evidence that this was the case. We have found a lack of suitable sites and buildings of the type demanded by modern industries and believe that this is the principal cause, combined with relatively unfavorable transportation facilities, of our slow but sound industrial development." He concluded, "We believe steps should be taken now to complete the organization of an industrial development corporation. Other towns have done it after being confronted with serious loss of payrolls by industries moving away or closing down. We should be foresighted and take aggressive steps to attract new industries, rather than wait until unemployment of skilled workers stares us in the face. We must develop adequate sites with public services, especially water under pressure, if we are to attract smaller industries employing less than 500 persons. Other localities are doing it and that's why we do not get those industries which are relocating their plants or developing branch plants."

Conant Reaches Berlin

Berlin, Feb. 17 (AP)—America's new high commissioner for Germany, Dr. James Bryant Conant, arrived here by special train today for his first visit to Berlin. The former president of Harvard University was accompanied by his wife. They will remain here overnight. During his stay, Conant will discuss the Berlin situation with the allied city commandants and will meet West Berlin's lord mayor, Ernst Reuter. Tomorrow he will pay a courtesy call on the chief of the Soviet Control Commission, Gen. Vassily Chuikov.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

Berkowitz Serves On Art Committee

Woodstock, Feb. 17—Sidney Berkowitz, of this village, is one of the members of the board of trustees and of the committee of sponsors for an exhibition of paintings to be presented by the American Federation of Arts, Thursday, Feb. 26, at the Wildenstein Galleries. The 60 great American paintings from the Colonial period to the present day is titled Landmarks in American Art.

The exhibit spans neary 300 years of American Art, offering an aesthetic appraisal rather than a detailed historical survey. It presents a fresh view of the beauties of our national art, which is partly dependent upon the influences of European culture; but clearly and delightfully shows those native qualities that grew with the shaping of America into a great nation. The collection is also a surprising index of the richness and spread of American painting in public and private collections throughout the country.

Landmarks in American Art is a concensus of opinion drawn from the combined knowledge and authoritative taste of the well known specialists in American Art who served on the committee of selection. The 60 great paintings which they chose date as early as 1670 from the well-known portrait of Alice Mason whose creator remains anonymous. This was lent by the Department of the Interior of the United States. Gilbert Stuart's portrait of Mrs. Yates has been lent by the National Gallery in Washington, D. C. John Singleton Copley's painting of Mr. and Mrs. Mifflin done in 1773 has been lent by the Historical Society of Philadelphia.

Paintings from the Hudson River School are represented by such famous artists as Henry Inman and Frederick Edwin Church.

The Expatriots—Whistler, Sargent and Cassatt are at home with their fine examples of The Falling Rocket, Madam X and La Toilette, respectively.

The great triumvirate at the end of the nineteenth century Ryder, Homer and Eakins are shown in their famous works: Ryder's Temple of the Mind; Winslow Homer's Fox Hunt and Eakin's dramatic portrayal of The Biglen Brothers turning the Stake are included of course.

Works of the 20th century cover at least one-third of the works in the show. This proportion was considered in the light of the last 50 years of American Art which have been more active than any other period of our history.

The choice of individual contemporaries from among so many living artists of merit was made largely because of major accepted influences by outstanding artists. The list includes William Glackens, George Bellows, John Sloan, Charles Sheeler, Max Weber, Stuart Davis, Edward Hopper, Ben Shahn through Jackson Pollock.

Mrs. Simmons Named To Head Heart Fund

Woodstock, Feb. 17—Mrs. Birge Simmons of Bearsville has been appointed chairman of the 1953 Heart Fund for this township. Once more the Ulster County Heart Committee has made its annual appeal for funds to help provide for further research—to seek out further the diagnosis, treatment and prevention of heart disease. The fund also helps with health education the year round in order that the people of the county may know the facts regarding the cause, prevention, and treatment of heart disease. It also insures community service, providing free diagnosis tests and procedures for Ulster County persons who are referred by their physician as in need of this service.

Checks may be made payable to Heart Fund, and mailed to Heart Chapter, 74 John street, Kingston.

Mrs. Lindin Speaks On Tapestry Weaving

Woodstock, Feb. 12, Mrs. Louise Lindin gave an interesting talk on tapestry weaving to the members of the weaving class at the Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen. She displayed some of her own beautiful tapestries to illustrate her talk. Her study of this fascinating craft was done in Sweden.

Mrs. Lindin has loaned her tapestry loom to the Guild in order that members of the weaving class may experiment with this type of weaving which is quite different from the work they are now doing. After the talk there was a surprise celebration in honor of Miss Therese Kessel's birthday, February 13. Mrs. William Hand donated the cake with candles and the class finally closed with best wishes to Miss Kessel for many happy years of weaving to come.

Benefit Is Planned

Square Club to Meet

Woodstock, Feb. 17—The Woodstock Square Club will meet Thursday evening at 8 p. m. at the fire hall. A special program has been prepared by George Laws, president of the club.

Village Notes

Woodstock, Feb. 17—Mrs. Walter Weyl and Miss Mauri Bollman are leaving Florida and are expected to arrive in this village February 28.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wolven, who have been on a trip to Florida, are staying at Lakeland where Mrs. Wolven has been ill with the flu.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Floyd Simmons have signed the contract for the purchase of the B. G. Waters place at Parnassus Square. The property which includes eight and one-half acres of land will be developed by the Simmons who expect to build several moderately priced houses there.

Your Magic Lantern

By FRANK TRIPP

Starting off at what once was movie time, after the evening paper has been read and the dishes washed. Mom moves in, plunks herself into the favorite chair and asks: "What's on tonight?" You turn the knob on your new magic lantern.

The first scene is, "Don't adjust your receiver." Next a lady from the advertising agency says: "Don't scour your life away in a dishpan; don't redden your hands and ruin your manicure. See your Sousemclean Automatic Dishwasher man tomorrow. And when you do, tell him that Little Tessie Delrose sent you." One plus for the diswasher, two for Tessie.

Mom walks over brisklike, pokes her hands under your nose and says: "Just look at those hands, you tightwad. It's just like the lady says. Tomorrow I'm going to see that man and—"

You know what's coming but you have a stopper. You say, "You ain't going to see anybody; not until we get the television paid for." Mom goes back and sits down.

LITTLE TESSIE shows up next right when the villain has the heroine hanging over a cliff. This time Tessie has a box of something in her hand. It's a water softener that outsofts rain water once a mite is poured into your iodized, fluorinated, doped-up tap water. A case comes free with every Sousemclean.

Mom is on her feet again, saying: "That reminds me. What about that water softener service that you were going to order so fast a month ago?"

You trot out the alibi, "We ain't going to order anything till the television is paid for."

MEANTIME you've missed the climax where the hero rushes up, rescues the heroine and throws the villain into the canyon. Mom asks, "What happened?"

You say: "How could I know what happened? If you got up every two minutes in a movie, they'd throw you out. Sit down!"

"And I suppose you'd like to throw me out. Well just try it, you old grouch." You don't.

The Sousemclean's thriller is over by now. Two king-size cigarettes and a carpet sweeper have made a pass at the family budget, and you take a seventh inning stretch while Channel 12 swishes through the browned out directory of whodunits and credits for clothes, shoes and electric light bulbs.

IT'S A MAN doing the commercial next time. He's got a box too; another washing powder. In one minute flat he knocks everything that Tessie said about hers into a cocked hat. By fight time you'd settle for a washboard and a scrubbing brush.

It was about like last night, only last night was the battle of the tooth pastes. By your scoring that was a draw, except to prove that chlorophyl is what makes grass green, cows' milk white—and ad writers screwy.

All this time you've been waiting for the fights. You only had to use the TV alibi once more, when Mom mentioned a new refrigerator. She knew that the refrigerator was on your mind.

SHE KNEW that the man would say: "Now friends, go fetch a delicious cold bottle of Mossy Tub Brew, your ticket to the fight, and enjoy a glorious evening as the guest of Mossy Tub Inc., brewers by appointment to King Tutankhamen since 1358 B.C."

You go for your bottle of Mossy Tub; only you're really after four bottles of Old Copper Vat (Harry Truman, 1950 A.D.) which you like better. Alas, the cupboard is bare.

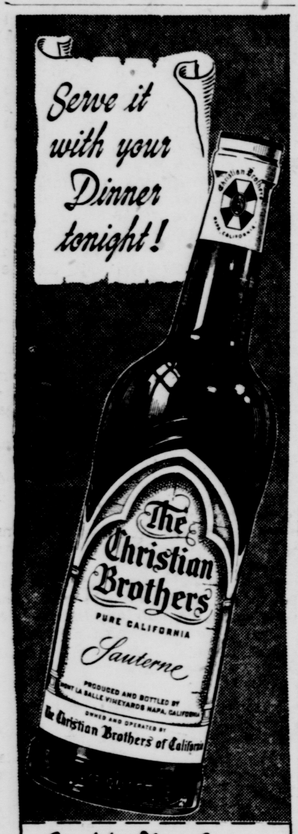

"Didn't you order that case of Old Copper Vat like I told you this morning?" you yell from the kitchen. Back comes the answer:

"We ain't going to buy any more beer till the television is paid for—besides, the man said Mossy Tub, you cheap gate-crasher!"

It was a hell of a fight that night. No matter, you were going to read what the Freeman said about it tomorrow anyway.

One plug for the magic lantern, two for the newspaper? Yep—just like Tessie.

Three Hurt in Accident

Mrs. Myra Watts, 32, of Mount Marion and her children, George, 13, and Gertrude, 7, were injured in a two-car collision on the Eddyville road 100 feet east of the Route 32 intersection at DeWitt Corners about 1:45 p. m. Sunday, state police reported. George, who troopers said suffered a lacerated forehead, and Mrs. Watts, who received contusions to her right side and face and right leg, were admitted to the hospital, where their conditions were reported as "good" today. Gertrude was released after treatment for a lacerated tongue. Troopers reported the automobile driven by Mrs. Watts was in collision with one driven by Harold Seidel of Kingston. No arrest was made.

Area Schools, Auto Dealers, Receive Awards Wednesday

Nine schools and nine automobile dealers in Ulster county will receive certificates of commendation this week for their part in the high school driver education program. The certificates will be awarded by the Automobile Club of New York in recognition of outstanding service to the community.

Among those to receive certificates will be Kingston High School and the Bev. Anderson Chevrolet, Inc., of Kingston. Edward J. Rieger, safety director of the auto club, will present the colorful blue and white parchments in special ceremonies at 11:45 a. m. Wednesday in the office of Principal Theron Culver at the high school.

The dealers, who provide dual-control training cars for use by the schools for one-year periods, are being commended for making an "important contribution to traffic safety and the reduction of accidents on the highway."

Certificates to the schools are being awarded in recognition of their "sound and practical contribution towards reducing accidents on the highway and equipping students with the knowledge and training that will make them safe and sportsmanslike drivers."

The high school driver education program, pioneered by the AAA since 1936, offers both behind-the-wheel and classroom instruction to teenagers.

Certificates are to be presented to the following Ulster county schools and the dealers who provide them with dual-control cars:

Orchid Named for Mamie

Boone, Ia. (AP)—A new variety of orchid developed by florist Art Smith of Boone, birthplace of Mrs. Dwight Eisenhower, has been named the "Mamie Eisenhower." The chamber of commerce sent a generous sample of the orchids, which took seven years to produce, to Mrs. Eisenhower for the inauguration of her husband as President.

GOING TO THE ROOT OF INFLATION

With all wage controls and many price curbs removed President Eisenhower has begun what he hopes will be an orderly transition to a freer national economy. He believes the balance of natural market forces is sufficiently good to prevent any strong new inflationary currents.

The only issue now is whether Congress will simply let the outmoded controls law die April 30, or follow the suggested lead of Senate Banking Committee Chairman Capehart and vote standby controls for the President to have in an emergency.

Mr. Eisenhower didn't request such authority. He thinks he can meet an emergency even if he must seek a new controls law from scratch. Capehart says Congress can't produce one in less than three months and it takes another four to get controls working.

Congress must decide where the greater wisdom lies.

The President acted because he believes direct controls should apply only in all-out war, not in peace or the semi-war we have now.

This feeling is founded on two factors. One is his conviction that "the character of our people resists artifical and arbitrary controls of any kind." The other is his belief that direct controls deal with the symptoms rather than the causes of inflation, and hence are only partially effective.

He is on pretty sound ground in both cases. Americans dislike controls heartily, and submit to them willingly only when the need for sacrifice is abundantly clear.

The record of the war and postwar years, as told by economists, supports the argument that direct controls don't go to the root of the matter. They don't cure inflation; they merely defer its effects until a later date.

What really fuels the inflationary engine is credit expansion and any other device of monetary policy which adds to the general money supply. Most economists agree that it is the vastly increased volume of money in circulation—set against periodic shortages of goods—that has produced the truly powerful inflationary pressures.

Mr. Eisenhower believes with them that to control inflation you must have federal credit and monetary policies which keep the money supply in check and do not allow it to outdistance the available supply of goods.

This is not a field that the average citizen finds romantic or exciting or easily understandable. It involves such things as the size of the national debt, the interest rate on government bonds, the monetary reserve requirements fixed by the Federal Reserve banking system.

Labor leaders and other self-appointed champions of the consumer seem to put greater store by the more obvious direct price and wage controls. But it is the credit and money matters which are basic. And insofar as the President can fashion and enforce really sound policies in this field he will be grappling with the real heart of the inflation problem.

TURMOIL IN RUSSIA

The purge in Russia, always in operation, has of late become violent. The anti-Jewish crusade is becoming ever more intense, and will probably wipe out the millions of Russian Jews, except those who manage to escape across the border. Nineteen thousand refugees from Russian Germany have made their way into the West German zone. Many of these are Jews.

In addition, the official newspapers are recording an extraordinary amount of deviation from orthodox Marxism, evidently a justification for further wholesale slayings. The attacks have hit as prominent a Communist as Lavrenti Beria, head of the secret police.

All this indicates something seriously wrong with the Soviet state. It has even been conjectured that the 73-year-old Stalin may be dead or incapacitated. This could easily happen without its leaking out for some time. When that event does occur, there will probably be just such turmoil as is now taking place, or more.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

THE TROUBLES OF ISRAEL

In troubled times, every disturbance among nations affects all countries. No one can foretell where Soviet Russia will strike or where Soviet Russia intends to develop disturbed areas.

The state of Israel is small and new, having been recognized in 1948. It is the first Jewish state to come in existence since 70 A.D., when the Romans burned the Temple dedicated to God in Jerusalem.

The Jews are a curious people, because they have survived dispersion, enforced assimilation and relentless persecution. This survival has nothing to do with nationalism because in the nearly 2000 years of the Diaspora, Jews have been absorbed into many nations. It has nothing to do with race, for anthropologically and ethnologically, existing Jews are of many races, including Asiatic and African. Wars, rape, enforced and willful assimilation over this long period have altered the racial measurements of this people.

The Jews survived as a monotheistic, unitarian religion basing their beliefs upon the Old Testament, as interpreted by sages and rabbis in an encyclopedic work which goes by the generic term, "the Talmud."

The essence of the Jewish faith is that there is one God and that He revealed His moral law to Moses, who transmitted it to his people. The legal basis for the moral law is that it comes from God. This law of life is the foundation of Christianity and Islam. Jesus Christ was a Jew as were most, if not all, of the Apostles.

The deep and profound love of the Jew for the Torah, for the fundamental moral law revealed by God, the acceptance of the Law as a culture and a civilization, kept the Jews together throughout all their historic vicissitudes. As Rabbi Solomon Freehof said a year ago at the Natural Law Institute of Notre Dame University:

". . . If men believe that the law is essentially natural and God-given, then with even a minimum of police power, order will reign. If men understand the legal foundations of their own government, they are the intelligent citizenry against which no tyranny can prevail. This is the experience and the universal meaning of Divine-Natural Law in Jewish history. . . ."

In this adherence to the Law and in the literature of the Jews, which includes the Psalms and the Prophets, the small land in the Crescent of Fertility became tremendously important. At every historic heart-break, the Jew turned his face toward Zion. One wall of the Temple stood as a reminder of the days of glory, but a more passionate adherence was to Mount Sinai and to Jerusalem.

Political Zionism is a comparatively new movement in Jewish history, having been introduced by Dr. Theodore Herzl, a Viennese journalist, after the Dreyfus trial in France. The first Basle congres, laying down a program for political Zionism, for the restoration of a Jewish political state in Palestine, took place in 1897. It was not, however, until Dr. Chaim Weizmann succeeded in obtaining the Balfour Declaration, in 1917, that this movement took on political reality.

The establishment of the Jewish state of Israel, at the time it occurred, was as much a reflex to the genocide of Hitlerism as to Zionism. Many who were not deeply concerned with Jewish problems as such were shamed by the ugliness and brutality of anti-Semitism, and supported the concept of an area upon the Earth to which homeless Jews could go under their own auspices to re-establish their lives.

The founding of a new state, in an unprotectable area, in troubled times, is fraught with danger and difficulties. Actually, Israel exists legally by the authority of recognition by the United Nations. Soviet Russia voted for this recognition. The small state faced destruction from the start, in the conflict between Soviet Russia and the United States and the opposition of the various Arab countries.

There can be no doubt that Soviet Russia had hoped that because so many of these people were refugees from Hitlerism, they would be favorably disposed toward Stalin. This has not happened. Instead, Jewish culture reasserted itself in Israel, a culture based upon the Natural Law of God. No Soviet enclave appeared in Israel.

The antipathy of Soviet Russia for Israel has been marked during the past two years. Their relations are now ended. Stalin will intrigue for the destruction of Israel, but with no greater success than Antiochus Epiphanes, Titus, or Stalin's predecessor, the Procurator Pobyedonostzev.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

GLAND OVERWEIGHT

Physicians doing special work on overweight and underweight find that in about one case in twenty of overweights, one of four glands is not manufacturing enough juice or extract and allows the excess fat to accumulate in certain definite parts of the body. These glands are the thyroid in the neck, the pituitary lying on the floor of the skull, the adrenals, one above each kidney, and the gonads or sex glands.

However, notwithstanding that these glands are not manufacturing enough juice, these weight specialists put every overweight on a reducing diet, the idea being that even if a gland or glands are at fault, the overweight is eating more food than his body needs.

The weight, or gland specialist, can often tell from looking at the overweight what gland (or glands) is underactive, he may find it difficult to tell which glands are at fault.

Generally speaking, when the thyroid gland is underactive, and the thyroid is the commonest gland at fault, the excess fat is deposited everywhere on the body, giving the individual a "billowy" appearance. When the pituitary gland is underactive, the excess fat accumulates across shoulders, upper arms, chest, abdomen, hips, but forearms and legs may have no excess fat, and feet and hands are small. When the adrenal glands are at fault, the excess fat is difficult to distinguish from those with defects of pituitary gland. However, excess fat is about the upper part of the body—face, neck, upper arms, and trunk while hips and thighs remain thin and in women may be accompanied by a masculine appearance. When the sex glands are underactive, there is increase in weight. Overweight developing at this time is very common. The distribution of fat in females due to such underactivity is over the lower abdomen, hips and thighs. In males, the excess fat is in these same regions.

While excess fat is "always" treated by a reduction of the food intake, the weight specialist, when the reduction in weight ceases or even before, begins to use small quantities of the gland extract or extracts which he considers are most to blame for the failure to further reduce weight..

As stated before, when the patient has faithfully followed the reduction diet and fails to decrease further in weight, he or she is justified in asking the physician about the use of gland extracts. It must not be forgotten that although gland extracts help gland cases of overweight, they must be prescribed by a physician as changes in the appearance of the body may not always be favorable from their use.

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA) — Recent drops in beef cattle and other farm prices have put Congress in a somewhat jittery mood. Letters, telegrams and phone calls are beginning to snow down from the farm belt. Individual farmers and representatives of the farm organizations are demanding personally that something be done about it.

All this pressure isn't necessary to impress some of the farm state solons. Take the case of Sen. Clinton P. Anderson of New Mexico, who used to be a secretary of agriculture himself.

Last year he bought range cattle averaging 400 pounds at 24 cents a pound—$96 a head. Fattened to 800 and 900 pounds at a cost of $50 or more a head, these feeders are now ready for market. The current offering price is 16 cents a pound—$128 to $144 a head—or a net loss of $2 to $18 on each critter.

This experience, repeated with variations in feed lots all over the country, is what bothers the farmers and the congressmen.

From the livestock men it has brought charges that this is a packer's holiday. With prices dropping, there is extra heavy marketing. It is charged that the packing houses are using this to depress prices further.

Meantime, consumers' retail prices have not dropped proportionately. Beef prices have come down somewhat on the eastern markets, but the drop nowhere near covers the decline in livestock prices. This further heightens the charge that the packing houses are making two or three killings instead of the usual one.

Putting Up Their Defenses

As if anticipating criticism of this kind, the packers are already putting up their defenses. The annual report of Armour and Co., for instance, is cited to show that this packer lost 7/100 of a cent on each dollar of food sales last year. The company ended the year with a total profit of 33/100 of a cent on each dollar of sales only because of the profit on by-product operations, so it says.

A letter which F. W. Specht, president of Armour, has sent to all congressmen, cites price controls as one of the main reasons why the packers have not made more money on food sales. Nevertheless, under these same controls in 1951, Armour reported profits of 18/100 of a cent on every dollar of food sales and 72/100 of a cent profit per dollar of sales on all operations.

The price controls are now being removed by the Office of Price Stabilization, which will probably go completely out of business by April 30. In connection with the meat price ceiling removal, however, there is a curious psychological twist.

Livestock men believe that with OPS ceilings removed, beef cattle prices will firm up a little. This will save their skins, if it happens. If the consumer gets no benefit out of this whole business, why that's apparently unimportant.

Department of Agriculture under the new Eisenhower administration is trying to calm everybody down on this situation. In a recent statement, Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson told cattlement to drop their unwarranted pessimism.

More Stable Cattle Prices

"Employment and income are higher than ever before," Secretary Benson declared. "This promises more stability to cattle prices, particularly since reductions due this year in the supply of pork will bolster the market for cattle."

As if in support of Secretary Benson's statement, O. V. Wells, head of the Bureau of Agriculture Economics appeared before the Senate Agriculture Committee and presented a picture of just what has happened to the cattle market.

In June, 1950, before the Korean war started, beef cattle were selling to the packers at an average of 25 cents a pound. The price rose to nearly 32 cents in April, 1951, dropped gradually to 20 cents in December, 1952.

The index on all prices received by farmers stood at 247 before Korea, rose to 313 in February, 1951, and has declined since then to 267 in January. Farm income in 1953 may be as much as 5 per cent below what it was in 1952, Mr. Wells told the senators.

The reasons for the decline, he says, are bumper crops in 1952, an improved foreign agricultural supply situation creating less demand for American farm products, a drop in the foreign aid programs and a general shift from inflationary to deflationary economy.

While farmers would like to believe all these reassuring things, a falling market, as in beef cattle prices, is hard to take. Consequently, agitation is already beginning for increased price-support programs, government subsidies on agricultural exports, or other props to restore higher prices. All this in spite of President Eisenhower's plan to stop inflation by a return to a free market.

Stevenson's Crack About GM Gives Broad Inkling as to Why He Was Defeated

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Feb. 17.—Adlai Stevenson has had three months, several days, several hours and several minutes since he conceded the election of General Eisenhower to find out just what caused his defeat—but the speech the Democratic nominee delivered at the Jackson Day dinner shows he hasn't yet found out.

The entire lesson of the election can be derived by the former governor of Illinois from a careful rereading of a single paragraph in his own address, in which he said.

"There is always the tendency to mistake the particular interest for general interest—to suppose, in the immortal thought recently uttered before a committee of Congress, that what is good for General Motors is good for the country."

The mistake of the Truman regime was exactly what the governor himself would now attribute to his opponents—a favoritism for the particular interest of the subsidized groups to whom special privileges were handed out as against the general interest of all the taxpayers who paid the bills.

Mr. Stevenson, moreover, didn't realize that the trouble with the Truman administration was that it didn't take seriously the true meaning of the phrase: "What is good for General Motors is good for the country."

Actually, when Charles E. Wilson, the new secretary of defense, was testifying he added the statement that "What was good for the country was also good for General Motors," but Mr. Stevenson ommitted that clause from his quotation. Maybe he was right in omitting it, because what the Truman administration mistakenly thought was good for the country wasn't really good for General Motors or any other business enterprise in the last several years—especially the insidious attack on the whole system of private initiative which happens to have built America's industrial power. Mr. Truman thought it was all right, for example, to confiscate private property without due process of law—to seize steel plants and order wages fixed while under seizure—and it took a command from the Supreme Court of the United States to repudiate that destructive policy, which, if allowed to stand, would have undermined the entire business structure of the country and imperiled the savings of investors.

So the statement which does effectively convey the most constructive advice, after all, is that what is good for General Motors is really good for the country.

For it can be demonstrated that General Motors operates so efficiently that it makes nearly $700,000,000 annually in taxes for the federal government. That would make quite a dent in the treasury collections if the government didn't gather in these tax revenues, and other taxpayers had to pay increased taxes to make it up. Here are some other things, too, that show that what is good for General Motors is good for the country:

1. General Motors doesn't waste money as does the federal government. It has an intensive system of budgeting departments and auditing expenditures.

2. General Motors not only balances its budget but actually has a surplus fund each year out of which it gives money back to its stockholders. What a wonderful thing it would be if the U. S. Treasury could have a surplus and give a refund to taxpayers!

3. General Motors doesn't subsidize the inefficient but fires them if they are incompetent.

4. General Motors doesn't cater to one group of people but to the entire public. It has maintained for years a "customers relations department" which studies constantly the reaction of the people generally to its products. General Motors owes its success to its responsiveness to the tastes and conveniences of the buying public.

5. General Motors pays high wages and has an escalator clause in its wage contracts with hundres of thousands of employes so that when the cost of living goes up, wages go up automatically. This enlightened policy was sponsored by Charles E. Wilson over the objections of many business men, but he thought it was good for the country and for his company, too, and even the labor leaders acclaimed it as forward-looking and as good for the country.

There are many more things that this company does which it would be well for the government to emulate. In fact, if the statement by Mr. Wilson that "what is good for General Motors is good for the country" is taken literally as a slogan, the federal government could benefit the entire public immeasurably by taking many pages out of the book of experience of the largest corporation in the world.

For 20 years it has been fashionable hereabouts to scorn the experience of business and to introduce the idea that government exists for a special group of voters to whom go all the privileges and the subsidies and that taxes are collected only to be spent and budgets are made only to be kept unbalanced, because the votes of the recipients of government cash are supposedly enough to win an election. It happens, as the election showed, that the total number of citizens injured by such fiscal policies outnumbers those benefited, and today an administration is in power in Washington which doesn't hesitate to say that it would like to run the government as efficiently in the general interest as General Motors is run.

'Go Home,' Troops Urged

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Bill La Hiff was a nice, quiet little blondish man from somewhere up in Rhode Island, who ran one of those historic restaurants in New York in the era of wonderful nonsense. It was called The Tavern. Toots Shor, who now runs another place which will be historic, too, in the same way, was a bouncer for Bill and served a while as general manager after La Hiff died. Like the Shor's of today, Bill's Tavern was a steak-and-potatoes place and the patronage was run-of-the-crowd in a theatrical neighborhood but with a heavy list of prizefighters and managers and sports writers from the new Garden nearby who made a sort of office or town pump of the Tavern.

I don't suppose any other place has ever housed as many homicidal grudges with so few blows struck. Some of them dated back so far that the parties thereto had forgotten what they were sore at but they went on hating just the same, in some cases until the sod grew green above them.

Fowler was an exception. I doubt that Fowler ever hated anyone. Yet Gene had a wild fight with Bill Gibson, the manager of Benny Leonard and Gene Tunney, one night in which Gibson slashed Fowler's face very badly with a diamond ring. Not that Gibson was a dirty fighter. It just happened that the ring was home from the cleaners when the trouble broke out. That crazy Fowler, tall and strong and hilarious, stood up there laughing, actually laughing, and belting Gibson back until the waiters went between them.

They were very good men at this type of emergency, somewhat, I am told, on the order of the old flying wedge that used to dump the Princetons and Yales and other obstreperous characters out of Jack Dunstan's on Sixth avenue. I never was in Jack's except for a drink on one or two occasions because I was getting only $25 a week and you didn't get very far from Childs' on that. Jack's was a hangout for Bat Masterson, whom I knew slightly in his last years as a garrulous old blow-hard. They humored him because of his great record as a gunfighter in Dodge City, but custom forbade shooting in Jack's so Bat became a sort of moosehead. Some of La Hiff's wedge of waiters, Spooner and Johnson, went over to Billingsley's Stork after La Hiff's tavern finally took the count.

The causes of such tumults may be lost in the commotion even before the contestants can be pulled apart, but Fowler got under Bill's hide by whispering to some other guy that Bill had been taking umbrage. He had seen him.

Considering the amount of money that rode on many a deal in the great days of the fight racket, the wonder is that no lives were taken. But such fellows as Gibson, Jack Kearns, Jimmy Johnston, Dan McKetrick, Leo P. Flynn and Jimmy Bronson were thoroughbreds. I am not sure we appreciated their class until the ratty underworld characters of recent years came along. These riff-raff undoubtedly would have played the sack-trick on a few of their irritable company in similar circumstances.

La Hiff's was a speakeasy, of course, as almost all good restaurants had to be. Bill sold the best needled beer to be had, probably Owney Madden's from the bewry, as they called it, down on the lower west side. A party of fight-managers and fight-writers went down there for a beer-abend one night and all of us like to died of colic because the hoodlums hadn't the patience to mature it.

One night in the tavern, Julius Tannen, a wonderful monologist who travelled the big-time vaudeville circuit for years, on a sudden silly impulse said that, old as he was, he could still do a handstand. To prove it, up he went, waving his long skinny legs on high with his change, fountain-pen and other junk clattering all over. The hams around sat on their hands, absolutely ignoring this unprofessional display, and Bugs Baer, walking to his table with the beautiful Louise on his arm, said in the most matter-of-fact way, "Got a hole in your shoe, Julius."

After Kearns and Dempsey split, Kearns had a hard time get-

GOING TO THE ROOT OF INFLATION

With all wage controls and many price curbs removed President Eisenhower has begun what he hopes will be an orderly transition to a freer national economy. He believes the balance of natural market forces is sufficiently good to prevent any strong new inflationary currents.

The only issue now is whether Congress will simply let the outmoded controls law die April 30, or follow the suggested lead of Senate Banking Committee Chairman Capehart and vote standby controls for the President to have in an emergency.

Mr. Eisenhower didn't request such authority. He thinks he can meet an emergency even if he must seek a new controls law from scratch. Capehart says Congress can't produce one in less than three months and it takes another four to get controls working.

Congress must decide where the greater wisdom lies.

The President acted because he believes direct controls should apply only in all-out war, not in peace or the semi-war we have now.

This feeling is founded on two factors. One is his conviction that "the character of our people resists artifical and arbitrary controls of any kind." The other is his belief that direct controls deal with the symptoms rather than the causes of inflation, and hence are only partially effective.

He is on pretty sound ground in both cases. Americans dislike controls heartily, and submit to them willingly only when the need for sacrifice is abundantly clear.

The record of the war and postwar years, as told by economists, supports the argument that direct controls don't go to the root of the matter. They don't cure inflation; they merely defer its effects until a later date.

What really fuels the inflationary engine is credit expansion and any other device of monetary policy which adds to the general money supply. Most economists agree that it is the vastly increased volume of money in circulation—set against periodic shortages of goods—that has produced the truly powerful inflationary pressures.

Mr. Eisenhower believes with them that to control inflation you must have federal credit and monetary policies which keep the money supply in check and do not allow it to outdistance the available supply of goods.

This is not a field that the average citizen finds romantic or exciting or easily understandable. It involves such things as the size of the national debt, the interest rate on government bonds, the monetary reserve requirements fixed by the Federal Reserve banking system.

Labor leaders and other self-appointed champions of the consumer seem to put greater store by the more obvious direct price and wage controls. But it is the credit and money matters which are basic. And insofar as the President can fashion and enforce really sound policies in this field he will be grappling with the real heart of the inflation problem.

TURMOIL IN RUSSIA

The purge in Russia, always in operation, has of late become violent. The anti-Jewish crusade is becoming ever more intense, and will probably wipe out the millions of Russian Jews, except those who manage to escape across the border. Nineteen thousand refugees from Russian Germany have made their way into the West German zone. Many of these are Jews.

In addition, the official newspapers are recording an extraordinary amount of deviation from orthodox Marxism, evidently a justification for further wholesale slayings. The attacks have hit as prominent a Communist as Lavrenti Beria, head of the secret police.

All this indicates something seriously wrong with the Soviet state. It has even been conjectured that the 73-year-old Stalin may be dead or incapacitated. This could easily happen without its leaking out for some time. When that event does occur, there will probably be just such turmoil as is now taking place, or more.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

THE TROUBLES OF ISRAEL

In troubled times, every disturbance among nations affects all countries. No one can foretell where Soviet Russia will strike or where Soviet Russia intends to develop disturbed areas.

The state of Israel is small and new, having been recognized in 1948. It is the first Jewish state to come in existence since 70 A.D., when the Romans burned the Temple dedicated to God in Jerusalem.

The Jews are a curious people, because they have survived dispersion, enforced assimilation and relentless persecution. This survival has nothing to do with nationalism because in the nearly 2000 years of the Diaspora, Jews have been absorbed into many nations. It has nothing to do with race, for anthropologically and ethnologically, existing Jews are of many races, including Asiatic and African. Wars, rape, enforced and willful assimilation over this long period have altered the racial measurements of this people.

The Jews survived as a monotheistic, unitarian religion basing their beliefs upon the Old Testament, as interpreted by sages and rabbis in an encyclopedic work which goes by the generic term, "the Talmud."

The essence of the Jewish faith is that there is one God and that He revealed His moral law to Moses, who transmitted it to his people. The legal basis for the moral law is that it comes from God. This law of life is the foundation of Christianity and Islam. Jesus Christ was a Jew as were most, if not all, of the Apostles.

The deep and profound love of the Jew for the Torah, for the fundamental moral law revealed by God, the acceptance of the Law as a culture and a civilization, kept the Jews together throughout all their historic vicissitudes. As Rabbi Solomon Freehof said a year ago at the Natural Law Institute of Notre Dame University:

". . . If men believe that the law is essentially natural and God-given, then with even a minimum of police power, order will reign. If men understand the legal foundations of their own government, they are the intelligent citizenry against which no tyranny can prevail. This is the experience and the universal meaning of Divine-Natural Law in Jewish history. . . ."

In this adherence to the Law and in the literature of the Jews, which includes the Psalms and the Prophets, the small land in the Crescent of Fertility became tremendously important. At every historic heart-break, the Jew turned his face toward Zion. One wall of the Temple stood as a reminder of the days of glory, but a more passionate adherence was to Mount Sinai and to Jerusalem.

Political Zionism is a comparatively new movement in Jewish history, having been introduced by Dr. Theodore Herzl, a Viennese journalist, after the Dreyfus trial in France. The first Basle congres, laying down a program for political Zionism, for the restoration of a Jewish political state in Palestine, took place in 1897. It was not, however, until Dr. Chaim Weizmann succeeded in obtaining the Balfour Declaration, in 1917, that this movement took on political reality.

The establishment of the Jewish state of Israel, at the time it occurred, was as much a reflex to the genocide of Hitlerism as to Zionism. Many who were not deeply concerned with Jewish problems as such were shamed by the ugliness and brutality of anti-Semitism, and supported the concept of an area upon the Earth to which homeless Jews could go under their own auspices to re-establish their lives.

The founding of a new state, in an unprotectable area, in troubled times, is fraught with danger and difficulties. Actually, Israel exists legally by the authority of recognition by the United Nations. Soviet Russia voted for this recognition. The small state faced destruction from the start, in the conflict between Soviet Russia and the United States and the opposition of the various Arab countries.

There can be no doubt that Soviet Russia had hoped that because so many of these people were refugees from Hitlerism, they would be favorably disposed toward Stalin. This has not happened. Instead, Jewish culture reasserted itself in Israel, a culture based upon the Natural Law of God. No Soviet enclave appeared in Israel.

The antipathy of Soviet Russia for Israel has been marked during the past two years. Their relations are now ended. Stalin will intrigue for the destruction of Israel, but with no greater success than Antiochus Epiphanes, Titus, or Stalin's predecessor, the Procurator Pobyedonostzev.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

GLAND OVERWEIGHT

Physicians doing special work on overweight and underweight find that in about one case in twenty of overweights, one of four glands is not manufacturing enough juice or extract and allows the excess fat to accumulate in certain definite parts of the body. These glands are the thyroid in the neck, the pituitary lying on the floor of the skull, the adrenals, one above each kidney, and the gonads or sex glands.

However, notwithstanding that these glands are not manufacturing enough juice, these weight specialists put every overweight on a reducing diet, the idea being that even if a gland or glands are at fault, the overweight is eating more food than his body needs.

The weight, or gland specialist, can often tell from looking at the overweight what gland (or glands) is underactive, he may find it difficult to tell which glands are at fault.

Generally speaking, when the thyroid gland is underactive, and the thyroid is the commonest gland at fault, the excess fat is deposited everywhere on the body, giving the individual a "billowy" appearance. When the pituitary gland is underactive, the excess fat accumulates across shoulders, upper arms, chest, abdomen, hips, but forearms and legs may have no excess fat, and feet and hands are small. When the adrenal glands are at fault, the excess fat is difficult to distinguish from those with defects of pituitary gland. However, excess fat is about the upper part of the body—face, neck, upper arms, and trunk while hips and thighs remain thin and in women may be accompanied by a masculine appearance. When the sex glands are underactive, there is increase in weight. Overweight developing at this time is very common. The distribution of fat in females due to such underactivity is over the lower abdomen, hips and thighs. In males, the excess fat is in these same regions.

While excess fat is "always" treated by a reduction of the food intake, the weight specialist, when the reduction in weight ceases or even before, begins to use small quantities of the gland extract or extracts which he considers are most to blame for the failure to further reduce weight..

As stated before, when the patient has faithfully followed the reduction diet and fails to decrease further in weight, he or she is justified in asking the physician about the use of gland extracts. It must not be forgotten that although gland extracts help gland cases of overweight, they must be prescribed by a physician as changes in the appearance of the body may not always be favorable from their use.

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA) — Recent drops in beef cattle and other farm prices have put Congress in a somewhat jittery mood. Letters, telegrams and phone calls are beginning to snow down from the farm belt. Individual farmers and representatives of the farm organizations are demanding personally that something be done about it.

All this pressure isn't necessary to impress some of the farm state solons. Take the case of Sen. Clinton P. Anderson of New Mexico, who used to be a secretary of agriculture himself.

Last year he bought range cattle averaging 400 pounds at 24 cents a pound—$96 a head. Fattened to 800 and 900 pounds at a cost of $50 or more a head, these feeders are now ready for market. The current offering price is 16 cents a pound—$128 to $144 a head—or a net loss of $2 to $18 on each critter.

This experience, repeated with variations in feed lots all over the country, is what bothers the farmers and the congressmen.

From the livestock men it has brought charges that this is a packer's holiday. With prices dropping, there is extra heavy marketing. It is charged that the packing houses are using this to depress prices further.

Meantime, consumers' retail prices have not dropped proportionately. Beef prices have come down somewhat on the eastern markets, but the drop nowhere near covers the decline in livestock prices. This further heightens the charge that the packing houses are making two or three killings instead of the usual one.

Putting Up Their Defenses

As if anticipating criticism of this kind, the packers are already putting up their defenses. The annual report of Armour and Co., for instance, is cited to show that this packer lost 7/100 of a cent on each dollar of food sales last year. The company ended the year with a total profit of 33/100 of a cent on each dollar of sales only because of the profit on by-product operations, so it says.

A letter which F. W. Specht, president of Armour, has sent to all congressmen, cites price controls as one of the main reasons why the packers have not made more money on food sales. Nevertheless, under these same controls in 1951, Armour reported profits of 18/100 of a cent on every dollar of food sales and 72/100 of a cent profit per dollar of sales on all operations.

The price controls are now being removed by the Office of Price Stabilization, which will probably go completely out of business by April 30. In connection with the meat price ceiling removal, however, there is a curious psychological twist.

Livestock men believe that with OPS ceilings removed, beef cattle prices will firm up a little. This will save their skins, if it happens. If the consumer gets no benefit out of this whole business, why that's apparently unimportant.

Department of Agriculture under the new Eisenhower administration is trying to calm everybody down on this situation. In a recent statement, Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson told cattlement to drop their unwarranted pessimism.

More Stable Cattle Prices

"Employment and income are higher than ever before," Secretary Benson declared. "This promises more stability to cattle prices, particularly since reductions due this year in the supply of pork will bolster the market for cattle."

As if in support of Secretary Benson's statement, O. V. Wells, head of the Bureau of Agriculture Economics appeared before the Senate Agriculture Committee and presented a picture of just what has happened to the cattle market.

In June, 1950, before the Korean war started, beef cattle were selling to the packers at an average of 25 cents a pound. The price rose to nearly 32 cents in April, 1951, dropped gradually to 20 cents in December, 1952.

The index on all prices received by farmers stood at 247 before Korea, rose to 313 in February, 1951, and has declined since then to 267 in January. Farm income in 1953 may be as much as 5 per cent below what it was in 1952, Mr. Wells told the senators.

The reasons for the decline, he says, are bumper crops in 1952, an improved foreign agricultural supply situation creating less demand for American farm products, a drop in the foreign aid programs and a general shift from inflationary to deflationary economy.

While farmers would like to believe all these reassuring things, a falling market, as in beef cattle prices, is hard to take. Consequently, agitation is already beginning for increased price-support programs, government subsidies on agricultural exports, or other props to restore higher prices. All this in spite of President Eisenhower's plan to stop inflation by a return to a free market.

'Go Home,' Troops Urged

San Francisco (AP) — The Communists are "distributing" 1953 diaries to U. S. and British troops at the front with such mottoes as "Go home! Don't fill a grave in far-away Korea," says Peiping radio. The Chinese Communist broadcast heard here did not say how the diaries were being "distributed." Presumably, they are left in front of Allied positions by Chinese Communist patrols. The Communists even borrowed Shakespeare for this little propaganda stunt. Says Peiping of the diary: "It is capped, on the facing page, with Shakespeare's homely advice, 'East or west, home is best!'"

Stevenson's Crack About GM Gives Broad Inkling as to Why He Was Defeated

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Feb. 17.—Adlai Stevenson has had three months, several days, several hours and several minutes since he conceded the election of General Eisenhower to find out just what caused his defeat—but the speech the Democratic nominee delivered at the Jackson Day dinner shows he hasn't yet found out.

The entire lesson of the election can be derived by the former governor of Illinois from a careful rereading of a single paragraph in his own address, in which he said.

"There is always the tendency to mistake the particular interest for general interest—to suppose, in the immortal thought recently uttered before a committee of Congress, that what is good for General Motors is good for the country."

The mistake of the Truman regime was exactly what the governor himself would now attribute to his opponents—a favoritism for the particular interest of the subsidized groups to whom special privileges were handed out as against the general interest of all the taxpayers who paid the bills.

Mr. Stevenson, moreover, didn't realize that the trouble with the Truman administration was that it didn't take seriously the true meaning of the phrase: "What is good for General Motors is good for the country."

Actually, when Charles E. Wilson, the new secretary of defense, was testifying he added the statement that "What was good for the country was also good for General Motors," but Mr. Stevenson ommitted that clause from his quotation. Maybe he was right in omitting it, because what the Truman administration mistakenly thought was good for the country wasn't really good for General Motors or any other business enterprise in the last several years—especially the insidious attack on the whole system of private initiative which happens to have built America's industrial power. Mr. Truman thought it was all right, for example, to confiscate private property without due process of law—to seize steel plants and order wages fixed while under seizure—and it took a command from the Supreme Court of the United States to repudiate that destructive policy, which, if allowed to stand, would have undermined the entire business structure of the country and imperiled the savings of investors.

So the statement which does effectively convey the most constructive advice, after all, is that what is good for General Motors is really good for the country.

For it can be demonstrated that General Motors operates so efficiently that it makes nearly $700,000,000 annually in taxes for the federal government. That would make quite a dent in the treasury collections if the government didn't gather in these tax revenues, and other taxpayers had to pay increased taxes to make it up. Here are some other things, too, that show that what is good for General Motors is good for the country:

1. General Motors doesn't waste money as does the federal government. It has an intensive system of budgeting departments and auditing expenditures.

2. General Motors not only balances its budget but actually has a surplus fund each year out of which it gives money back to its stockholders. What a wonderful thing it would be if the U. S. Treasury could have a surplus and give a refund to taxpayers!

3. General Motors doesn't subsidize the inefficient but fires them if they are incompetent.

4. General Motors doesn't cater to one group of people but to the entire public. It has maintained for years a "customers relations department" which studies constantly the reaction of the people generally to its products. General Motors owes its success to its responsiveness to the tastes and conveniences of the buying public.

5. General Motors pays high wages and has an escalator clause in its wage contracts with hundres of thousands of employes so that when the cost of living goes up, wages go up automatically. This enlightened policy was sponsored by Charles E. Wilson over the objections of many business men, but he thought it was good for the country and for his company, too, and even the labor leaders acclaimed it as forward-looking and as good for the country.

There are many more things that this company does which it would be well for the government to emulate. In fact, if the statement by Mr. Wilson that "what is good for General Motors is good for the country" is taken literally as a slogan, the federal government could benefit the entire public immeasurably by taking many pages out of the book of experience of the largest corporation in the world.

For 20 years it has been fashionable hereabouts to scorn the experience of business and to introduce the idea that government exists for a special group of voters to whom go all the privileges and the subsidies and that taxes are collected only to be spent and budgets are made only to be kept unbalanced, because the votes of the recipients of government cash are supposedly enough to win an election. It happens, as the election showed, that the total number of citizens injured by such fiscal policies outnumbers those benefited, and today an administration is in power in Washington which doesn't hesitate to say that it would like to run the government as efficiently in the general interest as General Motors is run.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Bill La Hiff was a nice, quiet little blondish man from somewhere up in Rhode Island, who ran one of those historic restaurants in New York in the era of wonderful nonsense. It was called The Tavern. Toots Shor, who now runs another place which will be historic, too, in the same way, was a bouncer for Bill and served a while as general manager after La Hiff died. Like the Shor's of today, Bill's Tavern was a steak-and-potatoes place and the patronage was run-of-the-crowd in a theatrical neighborhood but with a heavy list of prizefighters and managers and sports writers from the new Garden nearby who made a sort of office or town pump of the Tavern.

I don't suppose any other place has ever housed as many homicidal grudges with so few blows struck. Some of them dated back so far that the parties thereto had forgotten what they were sore at but they went on hating just the same, in some cases until the sod grew green above them.

Fowler was an exception. I doubt that Fowler ever hated anyone. Yet Gene had a wild fight with Bill Gibson, the manager of Benny Leonard and Gene Tunney, one night in which Gibson slashed Fowler's face very badly with a diamond ring. Not that Gibson was a dirty fighter. It just happened that the ring was home from the cleaners when the trouble broke out. Saugerties Woman Held Legal Widow

Ulster County Surrogate John Sterley held yesterday that Mrs. Anna Houck Wood of Saugerties was the legal widow of a truck driver killed in a highway crash.

Sterley said that Mrs. Jean Patricelli Wood of Schaghticoke had no legal claim on the estate of Eugene Wood of Menands who was killed last Sept. 30 in a wreck at Paramus, N. J.

Sterley said the Saugerties widow was entitled to limited letters as administratrix of the estate.

Each woman had sought designation as the legal widow, to press negligence suits in connection with Wood's death.

Sterley ruled that Wood's marriage to Ann Houck in Saugerties in 1941 was valid when he entered an "illegal and unlawful" marriage with Miss Patricelli in Albany in 1945.

Four children of Wood and the Saugerties widow can share in the estate, Sterley ruled. They are Linda Anna, 10; Jean Dale, 9, Harry 5 and Marcia 1.

Companies Would Increase Expenses To Assist Agents

Albany, Feb. 17 (AP)—Life insurance companies would be permitted to increase their maximum operating expenses under terms of a bill before the Legislature.

The primary purpose in increasing the legal expense limit would be to permit the companies to provide security benefits for their agents.

One provision of the bill would allow insurance companies, to make extra payments, up to five years, to agents opening new territories to help them get started. This was designed mostly for smaller and medium-sized companies.

The bill also would permit companies to give new agents training allowances, up to a total of $175,000 a year for each company. This was designed to cut down on the high rate of turnover of new agents.

The measure stipulates that the over-all total of these increased expense items may not go more than 7½ per cent above the present legal expense limit.

Result of Work

The measure is the result of four years' work by the Joint Legislative Committee on Insurance Rates and Regulation. It was introduced last night by the committee chairman, Republican Sen. William F. Condon of Yonkers, and Assemblyman Samuel Rabin, Jamaica Republican.

Insurance companies have contended they are unable to provide security benefits, such as health, accident and pension programs, to their agents because the expense limits set by present law do not allow them enough operating margin.

Present law permits life insurance companies to pay agents commissions of 55 per cent of a premium for the first year, nine renewals at 7½ per cent and five renewals at 5 per cent—for a total of 115 years.

The Condon-Rabin Bill would raise this commission allowance by 1 per cent for the first eight years of renewals.

The company would have to apply two-thirds of this additional expense toward security benefits for the agent.

A second bill would require life insurance companies to submit uniform reports of income and allocation of expenses to the state superintendent of insurance. This rule now applies only to fire insurance companies, under a law enacted in 1947.

Special Plates May Cost an Extra Fee

Albany, Feb. 17 (AP)—Distinctive initials or low numbers on automobile license plates may cost motorists an extra $10 a year, according to a reported agreement between Gov. Dewey and leading GOP legislators.

Original plans, mapped by the governor and Republican lawmakers at a meeting Feb. 7, called for a progressive rate, with fees ranging from $5 to $25 on special requests for numbers or initials.

However, a flat charge of $10 was agreed upon at another conference, it was reported last night.

The bureau of motor vehicles has sought for several years to fill all requests for distinctive plates. This year it received nearly 200,000 such applications and the flood delayed distribution of many 1953 plates.

Testimony Closed On Station Matters

Testimony was closed Monday afternoon in the hearing before the Public Service Commission on the application of the New York Central Railroad to close the Ulster Park station. Testimony taken will be reviewed by the commission and a determination made in the matter.

During the hearing it developed, under cross examination of railroad witnesses, that much of the passenger traffic using the station originated at other stations and that passenger ticket sales were credited to the station where the ticket was sold. Ulster Park station, although the destination of travelers and used to considerable extent in summer by passengers coming from Weehawken and other points, does not get credit for any portion of this revenue. It was testified to, however, that any sale at the Ulster Park station of a ticket for travel from any point other than Ulster Park was credited to Ulster Park revenues. Instances of sale of tickets from Poughkeepsie to Buffalo and other points, where the sale was made by the Ulster Park agent, were cited.

Exhibits Are Received

Revised exhibits of traffic, fares, freight, express, etc., handled through Ulster Park station were received in evidence to replace exhibits of the prior hearing session last January. These revised exhibits showed business for the entire year while the exhibits of last January were for a period from January 1, 1952 through September 30, 1952.

Frederick Stang, counsel for the town of Esopus and opposing the closing of the station, dwelt on the fact that the revised figures showed there had been error in the first figures submitted and he stated it was possible there was also error in the new figures. He called attention of the commission to the fact that the errors discovered were "all in favor of the railroad," indicating less revenue and greater operating costs.

Vincent G. Connelly appeared for the petitioner.

Saugerties Woman Held Legal Widow

Ulster County Surrogate John Sterley held yesterday that Mrs. Anna Houck Wood of Saugerties was the legal widow of a truck driver killed in a highway crash.

Sterley said that Mrs. Jean Patricelli Wood of Schaghticoke had no legal claim on the estate of Eugene Wood of Menands who was killed last Sept. 30 in a wreck at Paramus, N. J.

Sterley said the Saugerties widow was entitled to limited letters as administratrix of the estate.

Each woman had sought designation as the legal widow, to press negligence suits in connection with Wood's death.

Sterley ruled that Wood's marriage to Ann Houck in Saugerties in 1941 was valid when he entered an "illegal and unlawful" marriage with Miss Patricelli in Albany in 1945.

Four children of Wood and the Saugerties widow can share in the estate, Sterley ruled. They are Linda Anna, 10; Jean Dale, 9, Harry 5 and Marcia 1.

The surrogate said three children born to the Schaghticoke woman and Wood were not entitled to any claim on the estate.

Gaise to Conduct Lenten Services

The service of Holy Communion on Ash Wednesday evening at 7:45 o'clock will usher in the series of mid-week Lenten devotions each Wednesday at the Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, Wurts and Rogers streets. The general theme for the vesper meditations was announced yesterday by the pastor, the Rev. David C. Gaise, as Who Is This Saviour? The Communion meditation, the first in the series will be on the subject, High Priest of Sacrifice, followed on successive Wednesdays by talks on Man of Courage, Seeker After the Lost, Burdenbearer for All, Heir to a Throne and Servant of the Most High.

The pastor also announced that the Sunday morning services during the Lenten period would be built around the thoughts of the Epistle lessons on the general theme, The Christian in His World. The first of these on Sunday, Feb. 22, will also be a service of Holy Communion with a meditation on the Christian, Recipient of Grace. These services are open to all who seek an opportunity for worship and spiritual enrichment.

Snell Announces Lenten Addresses

The first in a series of Lenten devotional addresses will be presented at 7:30 p. m. tomorrow at the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church by the Rev. Dr. Clyde Herbert Snell, pastor.

The general theme of the addresses will be Essentials of Discipleship.

The series schedule is as follows: February 18, Enlistment; February 25, Integrity; March 4, Adventuresomeness; March 11, Imagination; March 18, Maturity, and March 25, Hopefulness.

Each of the addresses will be preceded by a brief worship service conducted by the minister. Services will begin promptly at 7:30 p. m. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Would Require Defrosters

Albany, Feb. 17 (AP)—A bill was before the Assembly today that would require approved-type windshield defrosters on all new cars licensed in New York state after Jan. 1, 1956. The measure, introduced by Republican Sen. Carlo A. Lanzillotti of Long Island city, was passed by the Senate last night.

Companies Would Increase Expenses To Assist Agents

Albany, Feb. 17 (AP)—Life insurance companies would be permitted to increase their maximum operating expenses under terms of a bill before the Legislature.

The primary purpose in increasing the legal expense limit would be to permit the companies to provide security benefits for their agents.

One provision of the bill would allow insurance companies, to make extra payments, up to five years, to agents opening new territories to help them get started. This was designed mostly for smaller and medium-sized companies.

The bill also would permit companies to give new agents training allowances, up to a total of $175,000 a year for each company. This was designed to cut down on the high rate of turnover of new agents.

The measure stipulates that the over-all total of these increased expense items may not go more than 7½ per cent above the present legal expense limit.

Result of Work

The measure is the result of four years' work by the Joint Legislative Committee on Insurance Rates and Regulation. It was introduced last night by the committee chairman, Republican Sen. William F. Condon of Yonkers, and Assemblyman Samuel Rabin, Jamaica Republican.

Insurance companies have contended they are unable to provide security benefits, such as health, accident and pension programs, to their agents because the expense limits set by present law do not allow them enough operating margin.

Present law permits life insurance companies to pay agents commissions of 55 per cent of a premium for the first year, nine renewals at 7½ per cent and five renewals at 5 per cent—for a total of 115 years.

The Condon-Rabin Bill would raise this commission allowance by 1 per cent for the first eight years of renewals.

The company would have to apply two-thirds of this additional expense toward security benefits for the agent.

A second bill would require life insurance companies to submit uniform reports of income and allocation of expenses to the state superintendent of insurance. This rule now applies only to fire insurance companies, under a law enacted in 1947.

Special Plates May Cost an Extra Fee

Albany, Feb. 17 (AP)—Distinctive initials or low numbers on automobile license plates may cost motorists an extra $10 a year, according to a reported agreement between Gov. Dewey and leading GOP legislators.

Original plans, mapped by the governor and Republican lawmakers at a meeting Feb. 7, called for a progressive rate, with fees ranging from $5 to $25 on special requests for numbers or initials.

However, a flat charge of $10 was agreed upon at another conference, it was reported last night.

The bureau of motor vehicles has sought for several years to fill all requests for distinctive plates. This year it received nearly 200,000 such applications and the flood delayed distribution of many 1953 plates.

Testimony Closed On Station Matters

Testimony was closed Monday afternoon in the hearing before the Public Service Commission on the application of the New York Central Railroad to close the Ulster Park station. Testimony taken will be reviewed by the commission and a determination made in the matter.

During the hearing it developed, under cross examination of railroad witnesses, that much of the passenger traffic using the station originated at other stations and that passenger ticket sales were credited to the station where the ticket was sold. Ulster Park station, although the destination of travelers and used to considerable extent in summer by passengers coming from Weehawken and other points, does not get credit for any portion of this revenue. It was testified to, however, that any sale at the Ulster Park station of a ticket for travel from any point other than Ulster Park was credited to Ulster Park revenues. Instances of sale of tickets from Poughkeepsie to Buffalo and other points, where the sale was made by the Ulster Park agent, were cited.

Exhibits Are Received

Revised exhibits of traffic, fares, freight, express, etc., handled through Ulster Park station were received in evidence to replace exhibits of the prior hearing session last January. These revised exhibits showed business for the entire year while the exhibits of last January were for a period from January 1, 1952 through September 30, 1952.

Frederick Stang, counsel for the town of Esopus and opposing the closing of the station, dwelt on the fact that the revised figures showed there had been error in the first figures submitted and he stated it was possible there was also error in the new figures. He called attention of the commission to the fact that the errors discovered were "all in favor of the railroad," indicating less revenue and greater operating costs.

Vincent G. Connelly appeared for the petitioner.

PROPPED-UP ECONOMY

America's economy is all propped up. Some of our prosperity in 1953 has foundations that remind me of the 1927-28-29 prosperity. In 1930, we discovered that the economic well-being of the late twenties was too much based on (1) overcapitalized industry, (2) over-extended real estate loans and (3) brokers' advances which ran into billions of dollars with call money going to 16, 18 and 20 per cent.

Until there is an orderly descent from that high plateau of inflation I have been discussing lately in this column, I shall periodically remind my readers of the economic supports that are propping up our current prosperity. I am not a bear in America—far from it. Neither am I an exuberant bull. For, as I shall show, economic props that produce prosperity are substantial in size and significant in proportion.

The first prop I wish to mention is the cold war. The financial well-being of countless enterprises is based to a greater or lesser degree on orders emanating from this source. Many economists who can rationalize anything discount the dangers of this type of prosperity. They say that peace-time America can take up the slack when these orders fade out.

To me, cold war orders artificially stimulate production and generate within the national economy a false prosperity which leaves the country open to deflationary attacks. A person who buys a $2,000 automobile with his current income or his accumulated capital sets in motion different economic machinery than a government which, by borrowing and taxation, finances a $20,000,000,000 cold war program.

Yes, I think cold war economics is a dangerous prosperity prop.

The second prop is consumers' loans. These are at an all-time high, of about $23,000,000,000. That means, if all these loans were uniform (as they are not), that 10,000,000 heads of families have each borrowed $2,300 to finance washing machines, television sets, automobiles and the numerous other gadgets that give people a high standard of living.

Now, who are these people who are borrowing $2,300 each and what is their economic status? Most of them have families of four (thus representing 40,000,000 people altogether). Furthermore, many of them have (1) small savings, (2) inadequate insurance and (3) hazardous employment. They are, indeed, only a few steps ahead of the bill collector.

Twenty-five years ago in my university classes, I frequently discussed brokers' loans when they were 7 and 8 billions of dollars. In those days, people borrowed money at 16 and 18% to buy stocks on margin that were paying 3 and 4%. And as today, economics rationalized that unsound business. Right now, I feel about the country's 23 billions of consumer loans as I felt in 1929 when brokers' loans were 8 billions. They are bad props to our prosperity.

A third prop is the price-subsidy program. With Uncle Sam's vast financial responsibilities demanding Federal budgets of 70 billions of dollars yearly, these subsidies are necessary. But however necessitous they are, they do furnish a prop to our prosperity.

Uncle Sam, through his Commodity Credit Corporation, supports the price levels of wheat, cotton, corn, oats, butter, eggs, cheese, milk, linseed oil, tobacco, peanuts and any of the other scores of agricultural products.

On the one hand, everything is done to keep the cost of living to millions of American consumers down; and, on the other hand, millions of dollars of the taxpayers' money goes into the commodity price program to keep prices up. Uncle Sam is carrying water on both shoulders in this respect. Living costs are tied to wages and they must be kept down. But farm prosperity must be maintained and hence basic agricultural prices must remain high.

Investors with $100 or $1,000 or $1,000,000 are completely engulfed in the national economy. It is well occasionally to get a picture of the nature of our prosperity. We are part and parcel of a propped-up economy. But don't let that destroy habits of thrift and saving.

Put dollars in banks. Buy insurance contracts. Become a stockholder. And don't let deflationary and inflationary tides discourage you from following a self-reliant economic plan.

(Q) "I am 38 years of age. I own $20,000 of good stocks that, during 1952, paid me over $1400 in dividends which my wife and I spent. I carry $2,000 of life insurance. Is this a sound program?

(A) No. You are greatly underinsured. For 1953, determine to put at least half of your dividend income into a 30 year endowment policy. Search out a good insurance man and find out how big a policy (due at age 68) you can buy with about $700 a year. Also, sell half of the most speculative stock you own, pay the capital gains tax, and deposit the rest of the money in a good savings bank. Repeat this, if possible, in 1954.

Magician Is Coming To Broadway Theatre

The Broadway Theatre announces that Blackstone, world-famous magician, with his big magic company, consisting of mostly girls, and a carload of new illusions and magical effects will appear here on Friday night, February 20, and on Saturday matinee and night, February 21.

It is said that everyone likes to be fooled, if it is accomplished in the manner employed by Blackstone, who has become a national institution to millions of American theatregoers.

Imitation is said to be the sincerest form of flattery and if this be so, then Blackstone must indeed feel flattered for, this great magician has originated and brought before the American public more original tricks and illusions than any contemporary or magician before him, which have been copied throughout the world by other mystifiers.

Meld According to Game Rule

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"In a game of Canasta last week," writes a Portland correspondent, "we ran into quite a peculiar situation. My partner took the discard pile, which was a good one, and cleared out her hand so I could go out if possible before our opponents could get their initial meld down.

"However, the player to my right melded and made a canasta out of his small meld. He put down four eights and four deuces. Now, tell me, was this a legal meld? All the rules say that only three wild cards may be used in a canasta. (The opponents needed a count of 120 points for their first meld.)

"When we objected to their melding in that way, the opponents wanted to put two eights and two deuces in one meld and then put the other two eights and the other pair of deuces in a separate meld. We objected to that, too. Were we wrong?"

No, you were right. You are never allowed to use four wild cards in a canasta. Moreover, you are never allowed to make two separate melds of the same rank in the game of Canasta. (You are allowed to do so in Samba, the three-pack game, but not in Canasta, the two-pack game.)

In short, the opponents could not make any legal meld that included four eights and four deuces.

From Chicago comes a request for a ruling on two points connected with black threes: "When three or four black threes are used to end a hand, do these black threes count as an extra 100 points in addition to the 100 received for going out?

"If the player has only three black threes in his hand, can he go out without having an additional discard?"

There is no extra bonus for melding black threes. Each black three is worth precisely 5 points, never more and never less.

The question about the discard with black threes is usually asked the opposite way. Many people think that you aren't allowed to discard when you meld out with black threes. The truth is that melding out with black threes is no different from any other way of melding out.

Depending on your hand, you may make a discard or not—exactly as though you had not melded the black threes. The black threes are just a red herring and should not be allowed to confuse the issue.

Mr. Jacoby is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked questions in his column.

The Broadway Theatre announces that Blackstone, world-famous magician, with his big magic company, consisting of mostly girls, and a carload of new illusions and magical effects will appear here on Friday night, February 20, and on Saturday matinee and night, February 21.

It is said that everyone likes to be fooled, if it is accomplished in the manner employed by Blackstone, who has become a national institution to millions of American theatregoers.

Imitation is said to be the sincerest form of flattery and if this be so, then Blackstone must indeed feel flattered for, this great magician has originated and brought before the American public more original tricks and illusions than any contemporary or magician before him, which have been copied throughout the world by other mystifiers.

Jacoby on Canasta

Meld According to Game Rule

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"In a game of Canasta last week," writes a Portland correspondent, "we ran into quite a peculiar situation. My partner took the discard pile, which was a good one, and cleared out her hand so I could go out if possible before our opponents could get their initial meld down.

"However, the player to my right melded and made a canasta out of his small meld. He put down four eights and four deuces. Now, tell me, was this a legal meld? All the rules say that only three wild cards may be used in a canasta. (The opponents needed a count of 120 points for their first meld.)

"When we objected to their melding in that way, the opponents wanted to put two eights and two deuces in one meld and then put the other two eights and the other pair of deuces in a separate meld. We objected to that, too. Were we wrong?"

No, you were right. You are never allowed to use four wild cards in a canasta. Moreover, you are never allowed to make two separate melds of the same rank in the game of Canasta. (You are allowed to do so in Samba, the three-pack game, but not in Canasta, the two-pack game.)

In short, the opponents could not make any legal meld that included four eights and four deuces.

From Chicago comes a request for a ruling on two points connected with black threes: "When three or four black threes are used to end a hand, do these black threes count as an extra 100 points in addition to the 100 received for going out?

"If the player has only three black threes in his hand, can he go out without having an additional discard?"

There is no extra bonus for melding black threes. Each black three is worth precisely 5 points, never more and never less.

The question about the discard with black threes is usually asked the opposite way. Many people think that you aren't allowed to discard when you meld out with black threes. The truth is that melding out with black threes is no different from any other way of melding out.

Depending on your hand, you may make a discard or not—exactly as though you had not melded the black threes. The black threes are just a red herring and should not be allowed to confuse the issue.

Mr. Jacoby is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked questions in his column.

Schedule Airlines Complete the Year Without Fatality

In a report received by Greenwald's Travel Service, the Air Transport Association, composed of all scheduled domestic airlines, announced that on February 11, the scheduled domestic scheduled airlines of the United States completed a full 12 months' period of operation without a single passenger fatality. During this 12-month period, they flew 13,150,000,000 revenue passenger miles, which is equivalent to one passenger making 2,548,449 round trips between New York and San Francisco.

During this 12-month period, the scheduled domestic airlines averaged a landing or takeoff every 7 seconds, or approximately 13,000 per day.

In each month during this period while the safety record was being made, the domestic airlines flew more passengers and more passenger miles than they did during the entire year of 1938. In fact, during each of the months of August, September, and October of 1952, the domestic scheduled passenger miles flown were double those flown during the entire year of 1938.

In the 15 years since 1938, the plane miles flown by the domestic scheduled airlines have increased 560%; the passengers carried have jumped 1,751%; and the revenue passenger miles have skyrocketed 2,245%.

"These figures," said Admiral Emory S. Land, president of the Air Transport Association, "highlighted the trend of expansion which has taken place in the U. S. domestic scheduled passenger service over a period of 15 years. In addition, they clearly show that flight safety has more than kept pace with the growth in operations".

Not included in the report of the Air Transport Association is the phenomenal record of the scheduled U. S. flag carriers crossing the North Atlantic to Europe whose record of safe flying now encompasses over 29 consecutive months without a passenger fatality. This record of safety on domestic and trans-Atlantic service is attributable, according to Greenwald, to the concerted effort of the airlines, the airplane manufacturers and our civil aeronautics authority to bring fast, safe and comfortable transportation to the pleasure-bound and business traveler.

Red Cross Field Director Writes Of Work in Korea

A letter of appreciation for the fine work which is being done by the Red Cross for the men in Korea, has been received by Mrs. Evelyn Hubbard, executive secretary of the Ulster County Chapter, American Red Cross, from Byron B. Kelley, Red Cross field director with the 31st Infantry Regiment.

In the letter Kelley tells of the problems which face the men in Korea, of the rugged country where the terrain and the temperature makes travel almost impossible except by jeep and on foot. In summer the temperature rises to 110 degrees and in winter the winds blow through the narrow passes in the mountains with temperatures dropping to 40 below at times.

Confronted with these problems, Kelley states that the Red Cross is doing everything possible for the welfare and morale of the men.

Last year the boys who are doing the fighting in Korea voluntarily raised $262,000 for the American Red Cross.

"No doubt your Chapter has found that in order to get a health and welfare report on a man over here, it will take a minimum of three weeks and sometimes a month. This isn't due to mail, but to the rugged terrain and the difficulty our field directors have in traveling and locating the serviceman.

Field Directors average about 1,000 miles a month, traveling at five to 15 miles an hour over the difficult terrain and frequently are able to see but one man a day. Many times a field director is able to locate but one man in a day and that is particularly true when the man is "on the line" or stationed at a forward bunker post which may be under fire at various times from enemy artillery. Messages however are taken to the men in the line and delivered personally. Birth announcements which come by wire from National are one of the greatest morale factors. With no commercial facilities in Korea for sending or receiving such messages, a man is quite worried when he knows he is to become a father. He instinctively turns to the Red Cross to get such messages through.

Men at the front, in bunkers and dugouts have little chance to get messages home and they depend on facilities of the Red Cross. Letters must be written by candlelight for brilliant lights cannot be used. Recently 427,750 candles were contributed by a Dallas, Texas, and Syracuse, N. Y. manufacturing concern and were distributed by Red Cross to the men in front line bunkers.

Kelley also pays tribute to the American Red Cross girls who are in the Army hospitals bringing cheer to the wounded. His thanks for the work of the local Chapter and Kingston volunteers concludes his letter with the remark, "thanks again for your wonderful cooperation."

ting his gears to mesh. He just couldn't pair up any cards and so he disappeared for a long time. At last he made a tap somewhere and came into La Hiff's with a gorgeous, though more than slightly dumb girl from Hollywood, ordered a lot of expensive food and the customary tea-pot full of hootch and asked La Hiff what was the best show in town. Bill said there was only one show, that thing next door.

Jack said, "What's that? I'm out of touch."

"A thing called 'The Ladder'," Bill said, "but it's awful hard to get in."

"Musical?" Well, some music.

"The Ladder" was the goofiest phenomenon in the history of the drama. A nut who believed in spiritualism had it written to order, expounding some theory of his, and put it on and kept it going for months—maybe years—to empty seats except a straggle of strangers or victims of morbid curiosity. When La Hiff told Kearns he probably couldn't get into "The Ladder," Kearns told him to get him two, somewhere, no matter how. Dragging his heels, Bill came back triumphant with two on the aisle, Row B. Kearns paid him $50, the scalper's price, and La Hiff sneaked out when Kearns and the Babe went next door. That feud lasted for years.

Bill had a spikeful of tabs for meals hung up by busted people, which must have amounted to many thousands. He didn't exactly advertise the fact, but we all understood that if you had eaten your meal and just told the waiter you couldn't pay just then, Bill would hang you up.

A very pretty little red-head used to bounce in and out of the tavern, a niece of Bill's. People said she would go somewhere if she ever got a chance. She did, too. She was Nancy Carroll, who had two careers as a star in Hollywood. She is still as beautiful and sweet as ever, too, though I would figure Nancy must be close onto 30 now.

Such places rise and fall, rise and fall. Thousands of restaurants get along quietly and successfully but without "personality." Some of the most successful phenomena, like Shor's, Billingsley's and Al Schacht's, are personal ventures of individuals who started without the slightest knowledge of food except that they liked to eat it.

Susie Fumfit is a horseback rider! She's lovely! She's engaged! She can't sit down!

On answering his doorbell a man found an old friend and a large dog standing on his porch.

Man—Come in! Come in!

His friend came in and sat down, while the dog put the man's cat to flight, knocked over a bridge lamp and several vases, and finally made himself comfortable in his best chair.

When the guest rose to leave, the host said with a touch of sarcasm in his voice:

Man — Aren't you forgetting your dog?

Guest—Dog? I have no dog. I thought he was yours.

He—Yes, Sweets, today!

She—Will you buy me a washing machine?

He—Yes, Honey. Now let's get married.

She—Nothing doing! You don't want a wife—you want a cook and a wash-woman!

Naples, Italy, Feb. 17 (AP)—Firemen pumped thousands of gallons of water into holds of the French passenger and cargo ship Ferdinand De Lesseps today and put out a fire that forced the 11,150-ton vessel to make an emergency run into Naples harbor. The ship, en route from Djibouti, French Somaliland, to Marseille, France, with 460 passengers and a 1,977-ton cargo of sugar, peanuts, rice and coffee, arrived with smoke billowing from her two forward holds. Oriental Rugs, Topic At YW Women's Club, Fashion Show Reports

Sarkis Isbrian of Poughkeepsie, a native of Persia, discussed the subject of oriental rugs, Thursday afternoon at a meeting of the YWCA Women's Club.

Mrs. Robert H. Pixley, president appointed committee chairmen for the 17th annual Fashion Show to be held at the Governor Clinton Hotel on Wednesday, March 11. Mrs. Ralph Shultis was named general chairman; Mrs. Philip Brande, co-chairman, Mrs. A. Noble Graham, Mrs. Ralph Harper and Mrs. Richard Morse, tickets.

Mr. Isbrian's talk contained general information concerning the weaving and coloring of the 385 different types of oriental rugs. He said over eight million persons are engaged in this industry. "Persian rugs are of harsh colors and have to be washed in chemicals, then redyed in vegetable coloring. He described the "prayer rugs," and said each person has his own. These are passed on from one generation to the next, or left in the Temple.

The speaker described the prevailing religion in Persia as being Mohammedan. The houses he said are made of baked mud and cooking is done out-of-doors. Mr. Isbrian concluded his talk by telling the women, "we should be happy we live in this land of the free, which we do not fully appreciate."

Mrs. Ralph Harper, chaplain, and Mrs. Ella Ochs also took part in the afternoon's program. Mrs. Harper's subject was Lent. She discussed its meaning. Mrs. Ochs chose Abraham Lincoln for her topic.

Oriental Rugs, Topic At YW Women's Club, Fashion Show Reports

Sarkis Isbrian of Poughkeepsie, a native of Persia, discussed the subject of oriental rugs, Thursday afternoon at a meeting of the YWCA Women's Club.

Mrs. Robert H. Pixley, president appointed committee chairmen for the 17th annual Fashion Show to be held at the Governor Clinton Hotel on Wednesday, March 11. Mrs. Ralph Shultis was named general chairman; Mrs. Philip Brande, co-chairman, Mrs. A. Noble Graham, Mrs. Ralph Harper and Mrs. Richard Morse, tickets.

Mr. Isbrian's talk contained general information concerning the weaving and coloring of the 385 different types of oriental rugs. He said over eight million persons are engaged in this industry. "Persian rugs are of harsh colors and have to be washed in chemicals, then redyed in vegetable coloring. He described the "prayer rugs," and said each person has his own. These are passed on from one generation to the next, or left in the Temple.

The speaker described the prevailing religion in Persia as being Mohammedan. The houses he said are made of baked mud and cooking is done out-of-doors. Mr. Isbrian concluded his talk by telling the women, "we should be happy we live in this land of the free, which we do not fully appreciate."

Mrs. Ralph Harper, chaplain, and Mrs. Ella Ochs also took part in the afternoon's program. Mrs. Harper's subject was Lent. She discussed its meaning. Mrs. Ochs chose Abraham Lincoln for her topic.

MRS. GEORGE HERBERT DRIGGS

The former Miss Joan Lucretia Buchholtz was married Saturday, Feb. 14, in St. John's Episcopal Church. The bride is a member of the faculty at Milbrook High School. (Brentwood photo)

Joan L. Buchholtz, George H. Driggs Nuptials, Feb. 14

The marriage of Miss Joan Lucretia Buchholtz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Basten Buchholtz, 61 Washington avenue, to George Herbert Driggs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Driggs, 295 Post Road, Darien, Conn., took place at 2 p. m. Saturday, Feb. 14, in St. John's Episcopal Church. The Rev. Robert T. Shellenberger, pastor, officiated at the double ring ceremony. A reception for 70 guests was held at Ye Nieuw Dorp, Hurley.

White gladioli, stocks, snapdragons and carnations were used to decorate the church. Traditional wedding selections were played by Dr. O. Lincoln Igou, organist. Miss Gretchen Bence was the soloist. She sang The Lord's Prayer, and O, Perfect Love.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a princess style white satin gown which terminated in a train. The yoke of the bodice of the gown was trimmed with antique rosepoint lace. Her fingertip length veil, also trimmed with rosepoint lace, was secured to a Juliet cap of rosepoint lace. She carried a cascade bouquet of white orchids, stephanotis and ivy leaves.

Mrs. Donald E. Currier of Newfields, N. H., was the matron of honor. With her mauve pink satin taille gown, she carried a bouquet of yellow roses and heather.

The bridesmaids were Miss Rose Abernethy, 139 Pearl street, and Mrs. Maxon Crandall Jr. of Rowayton, Conn., the bridegroom's cousin. They wore gowns of mauve pink satin faille and carried violet nosegays.

Harold Cantrell of Springdale, Conn., was best man. Serving as ushers were Albert Dolbec Jr., Schenectady; and Donald E. Currier, Newsfields, N. H.

Upon their return from a wedding trip to the White Mountains, N. H., the couple will reside in Noroton, Conn. For traveling, the bride chose a chartreuse Kasha ensemble, brown accessories, and a white orchid corsage.

Mrs. Driggs was graduated from Kingston High School, class of '45; from St. Lawrence University, class of '49, and did graduate work at Columbia University. She is a member of Alpha Delta Pi Sorority, and a teacher of mathematics at Millbrook High School in Millbrook.

Mr. Driggs was graduated from Darien (Conn.) High School, attended New Haven State Teachers College and is assistant manager of the Darien Garage. He has served for two years with the United States Navy.

RETURNING WEDDING GIFTS AFTER DIVORCE

A very unpleasant facet of divorce is brought out in the following letter: "I have recently divorced my husband. Our marriage lasted less than two years. My ex-husband feels that I should return the wedding presents sent by members of his family and, in particular, a sterling silver tea service which was a gift from his parents. His mother has also written me demanding the return of the tea set and stating that 'Emily Post says this is the correct thing to do.' In view of the fact that the tea service was not a family heirloom but was bought just before the wedding and sent to me directly, I do not believe I have any obligation to return it. Will you please answer this promptly as it has become quite an unpleasant issue."

If the tea set were a family heirloom, you certainly should return it. But as it is a new one bought expressly for you, it is definitely yours to keep.

First-Name Problem

Dear Mrs. Post: I am always at a loss to know what to say when someone asks me to call them by their first name. I guess I am plain old-fashioned, for I can't bring myself to get "familiar" with people I hardly know. Can you tell me how I can handle this situation tactfully and yet not appear snobbish?

Answer: Personally, I am in sympathy with your point of view. But I do think that you will lose many friendships if you refuse to conform with today's almost universal use of first names.

Out of Season

Dear Mrs. Post: My fiance and I had planned to be married this past summer, but due to illness the wedding had to be postponed. At that time I had bought a white suit in which to be married. We are going to be married the end of this month, and I would like to know if it would be proper to wear this suit now with white shoes and hat?

Answer: If you are living in the far south, yes; but not in a northern climate.

How should the men in the bridal party be dressed for a formal evening wedding? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail, but her leaflet E-3, "Clothes of the Bridal Party," answers this and many other questions on evening weddings. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to her, in care The Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Hooked Rugs

The first training school on hooked rugs was given Monday, Feb. 9 at the First Baptist Church Hall by Miss Everice Parsons, county home demonstration agent.

The leaders attending were Mrs. David DuBois, Forest Glen; Mrs. Alvin Stiller, Highland; Mrs. Westervelt Clarke, Milton; Mrs. Frank Coy, Modena; Mrs. Marie Gunther, Mrs. William Delaney, Mrs. Joseph Scholar, Wiltwyck; Mrs. Alice Gannon, Mrs. J. K. Hartfuer, Woodstock.

Since leaders learned the technique of hooking by making hooked mats before enrolling for hooked rugs, they are now turning their attention to making designs for rugs, designs that will fit into the rooms and particular spaces for which the rugs are planned. As a source of inspiration the leaders visited the Colonial Carpet Company to see commercial designs of rugs.

The next meeting will be held at the same place on Wednesday, Feb. 25.

Farm and Home

Cornell Farm and Home Week will be held from March 23 to March 27, according to announcements received at the Ulster County Home Bureau. Highlights of the program may be seen at the Home Bureau Office.

Building, Remodeling

Anyone interested in receiving help on plans for building and remodelling their homes or landscaping home grounds is invited to call the Home Bureau. A questionnaire will be mailed out to secure a complete statement of the problem and will then go to the appropriate specialist at the New York State Colleges of Agriculture and Home Economics for the required information.

Fair Committee

The fair committee will meet at 10 a. m., Feb. 20 at the Home Bureau Office to revise the premium list for the home department of the Ulster County Fair. Suggestions from any county resident on changes or additions will be welcomed.

Cereal Buys

According to the Ulster County Home Bureau, many of the breakfast cereals are bargain buys nutritionally although breakfast cereals take only a tiny fraction of the food budget.

The outstanding bargains in food value are oatmeal and uncooked whole wheat cereals. You get a good start on your daily recommended quota of iron and thiamine from two-thirds cup of these cereals after cooking. An average serving of ready-to-eat cereal is lower in nutrients than a serving of uncooked cereal.

A serving of cereal costs you between one and a half cents and three cents. You may pay more for iron and thiamine in ready-to-eat cereals that are not enriched.

The labels on cereal packages will help you buy and cook cereal. If the cereal is enriched, the label tells you. One also finds the weight of the contents on the container to guide one in cost comparisons. The way the cereal has been processed before you buy it may change your usual cooking methods—so read the directions carefully.

Lomontville Unit

The Lomontville unit of the Home Bureau will hold a meeting on Thursday at 1:30 p. m. in the community hall. Miss Everice Parsons will be guest speaker.

KBA Announces 30 Prize-Winning Teams of 1953 Tournament

Record Melon Is Split Following Five-Man Events

Doubles, Singles Set For Next Weekend

Thirty city association teams will split a record $1,225 melon in team prizes, Irwin J. Thomas, Kingston Bowling Association secretary, announced today.

The $1,225 mark is part of the record-breaking $1,751 in prizes up for taking during the major and minor events of the 16th annual city championships.

Meanwhile, the KBA secretary also reported that the doubles and singles events are scheduled to be rolled next weekend at Ferraro's Bowlodrome. The minor events will start at 7 p. m. Saturday and will continue through Sunday with the last squad going on the alleys at 7 p. m.

The opening night's lineup of teams will be announced later this week.

Topping the award list was Herzog's. Supply of the Central Rec League whose last-minute 5158 gross triple hauled down the biggest plum of all—the $125 guaranteed first place prize for high gross series.

The Economy Excavators, recognized as the city tournament championships for their 2970 net score rolled last Thursday night, also came in for a good share of the prize melon—$100 for a second place gross score of 3147 and $15 for the 2970 team high series net score of the five-man events.

Fixer Testifies He Schooled Ref

New York, Feb. 17 (AP)—A convicted fixer testified yesterday he gave Referee Sol Levy a short course in how to fix basketball games.

Levy is on trial on charges of bribery in connection with alleged attempts to fix National Basketball Association games.

The witness was Ed Gard, former Long Island University basketball player who served eight months in jail for conspiracy in the college basketball fix scandals.

Gard, under direct questioning by the prosecution, repeated many of the arrangements described last week by Salvatore T. Sollazzo who says he gave Levy $3,000 to rig NBA results during the 1950-51 season.

Serving Eight Years

Sollazzo is serving an eight to 16 year sentence for his part in the college fixes.

Gard said he showed Levy how a referee could help determine the outcome of games and then introduced the referee to Sollazzo. He testified that Sollazzo arranged with Levy to have six results fixed but that on three occasions the deals backfired and Sollazzo lost money.

The trial will continue tomorrow.

Glasco Scrappers Get Ready for Golden Gloves

605 Net Is First Of Bowling Career

Doug Harvey, who divides his sports time between softball pitching in the summer months and throwing bowling balls during the winter, emerged from last week's five-man event in the 16th annual city association tournament as the No. 1 gross triple bowler with a nifty 707 score.

Harvey, a 154-average bowler with the First Baptist Church trundlers of the YMCA Federation League, achieved the high point of his career and it came during a tournament at that.

Up until Sunday afternoon when he exploded for the solid 707 gross triple, Harvey had never quite been able to go over the 600 mark.

231 in Opener

Opening on Alleys 3-4 (they turned out to be the graveyard for some of the tournament bowlers) Harvey riddled the pot-bellied maples for 231. Shifting to 5 and 6, he came back strong with 212.

Experiencing a little tough luck on the famed 7-8 drives, Harvey slipped to 162, giving him a 605 net triple.

Added to a 102-pin handicap, Harvey's 605 net triple zoomed into a pace-setting 707 which held up during the final assaults on the drives Sunday night.

Sparked by Harvey's steady pinning, the First Baptist wound up with a surprisingly high 3117 gross score that eventually captured the fourth payoff spot in the tournament.

Two Had 699 Triples

Harvey's startling 707 gross mark eclipsed two other fine scores turned in by Ralph Halbert and Ed Thomas.

Halbert, bowling on the opening night squad a week ago, fashioned a blazing 699 gross triple which stood up well under the blasting until Harvey's explosion.

Would Make Hunters Get Written Okay

Albany, Feb. 17 (AP)—Hunters would be required to obtain written permission from the owners of all private lands they crossed, under terms of legislation introduced last night.

The measure stems from heavy criticism levied by farmers and other property owners against those hunters who are careless or damage fences and other property.

Under present law, a hunter may cross private lands unless the owner has posted signs forbidding it.

Beaver Abundant For Coming Season

Albany, Feb. 17 (AP)—The State Conservation commissioner says "an overabundance of beaver" has led the state to make this spring's season "the most liberal beaver trapping season in half a century."

Perry B. Duryea yesterday announced March and April dates for the beaver season, an open season on otter and closing dates for the current muskrat season.

Duryea said recent surveys, made mostly by air, showed "an overabundance of beaver, particularly in the Adirondacks. This is all the more remarkable because in 1900 there probably weren't more than a dozen beaver left in the whole state."

Opens March 15

The beaver season, Duryea said, would be open March 15-25 in 32 western and Catskill counties, with a limit of six pelts; March 20-April 10 in 13 other counties with a limit of eight; and March 20-April 20 in all or parts of six Adirondack counties, with no limit.

The otter season will coincide with the beaver dates in 21 counties, mostly in the Adirondacks and Catskills, with a six-pelt limit.

Closing dates for trapping muskrat will be April 20 in the northern zone and March 25 in the rest of the state, where trapping has been underway since Feb. 1.

Leicester, England—Randy Turpin, Great Britain, outpointed Duggie Miller, South Africa (10). (Weights not announced).

Woodstock Cops Pair From Hudson

The Woodstock quintet defeated Hudson 72 to 69 last night in a hotly contested game on the Woodstock court.

The game was cracked in the last two minutes of play when Holdridge and Van Wagenen scored their only field goals of the evening, two outside shots which fell neatly to break a 67-67 tie. Kleine added another point with a foul shot.

Woodstock outscored the visitors by 17 to 9 in the first quarter but were swamped in the second quarter when Hudson found the basket and ran up 27 points to six for Woodstock, the half ending 36 to 23 in favor of the visiting five. Woodstock took off its wraps in the third quarter to get themselves back in the game, outscoring Hudson 25 to 14, and went on in the fourth quarter to win.

The Woodstock Jayvees defeated the Kingston Globe Trotters by a score of 52 to 46 in the first game of the twin bill. Friday night Lincoln Center of Poughkeepsie will bring two teams to Woodstock. The first game will begin at 7:30 p. m.

Fights Last Night

Po'keepsie Wrestler Slated On Pat O'Connor Card, 20th

Ed King, of Poughkeepsie, who once played basketball for Seton Hall, will appear in the opening match of Friday night's wrestling show at Kingston Municipal Auditorium, it was announced today.

King is scheduled to take on Johnny Barend, clever young grappler from Rochester, in the one fall, 30-minute bout that will get the Pat O'Connor-Pedro Godoy show underway at 8:45 o'clock.

Although he will be giving away weight to Barend, King who throws caution to the winds—and the wrestling rules with it—figures to make it an interesting half an hour for Barend, once regarded as one of the outstanding prospects in the game. Barend, of course, isn't through, but thus far has failed to live up to the promise he showed a couple of years ago.

The co-feature sends Jim Auster, known as the Little Big Man, against Jack Bence, a Massachusetts product, for two out of three falls.

O'Connor, one of wrestling's most colorful performers, and Godoy, a good workman from South America, then take over the ring for their two out of three fall tussle which is expected to draw a capacity audience.

O'Connor's specialties are the flying drop kick, back breaker, flying tackle and airplane spin. Godoy features leg and arm holds as well as a good forearm clout.

Russ Meyer Is Main Trade, May Help Dodgers Keep Flag

Brooklyn, Feb. 17 (AP) — The home folks think the Brooklyn Dodgers traded themselves into a second straight National League pennant by picking up pitcher Russ Meyer.

The temperamental righthander was the biggest name in a six-player three way swap late yesterday which shook up National League talent on four clubs.

It probably will take a season's play to figure out who got the best deal.

The Philadelphia Phillies started the merry-go-round by trading Meyer and some cash to the Boston Braves for first baseman Earl Torgeson. The Braves promptly sent Meyer to Brooklyn in exchange for infielder Rocky Bridges and shortstop Jim Pendleton, then swapped Bridges to Cincinnati for first baseman Joe Adcock. The Braves included another as yet unnamed player in the Cincinati deal.

The shuffling may not be all over yet since the Reds have been trying to get outfielder Ralph Kiner from Pittsburgh. Branch Rickey supposedly is interested in young infielders. So Bridges may end up with the Pirates.

Needed Starting Pitcher

Brooklyn supporters figure they got a starting pitcher while giving up only Bridges, a good fielder who hasn't proved he can hit, and Pendleton, a hot prospect from Montreal but still untried in the majors.

The Dodgers sorely needed another starting pitcher. If he can produce, Meyer, who had a 13-14 record with the Phillies last season, will be taking his turn with Preacher Roe, Billy Loes and Carl Erskine. They will leave rookie of the year Joe Black to perform relief chores, the job he handled so well last season.

If Brooklyn was happy so was Boston. A Braves spokesman said the club had been eyeing Pendleton for a long time but that last year the Dodgers wanted players and a lot of cash.

For a net outlay of one slump-ridden first baseman and one other player the Braves acquired Pendleton, Adcock and cash. Adcock had made no bones about being unhappy in Cincinnati. He wants to play first base instead of the outfield where the Reds used him. His 1952 average was .278.

Maroons Play Po'keepsie High Cagers Here Tonight

NFA After 36th Win On Ellenville Court

DUSO Basketball takes a step nearer the finish line tonight with a full schedule of games for the 10-team wheel.

Here in Kingston, Coach G. Warren Kias' Kingston High School cagers will entertain Poughkeepsie High at municipal auditorium. Game time is scheduled for 7:45 p. m. with a prelim getting things underway at 6:30 p. m.

With all hopes of a DUSO championship just about dashed following its upset defeat by Middletown Friday night, Kingston now must concentrate on cementing its hold on second place. The Maroons currently hold down second place by 1½ games.

Poughkeepsie, which has shown considerable strength at times during the present campaign, overpowered Liberty by 80 to 49 last Friday night. The Bridge City Blues are only two games out of second place.

NFA MEETS ELLIES

Newburgh methodically grinding out a patch to its fourth straight DUSO title, travels to Ellenville tonight to meet the ninth place entry. From all indications it looks like Newburgh's 36th straight victory and its 14th in a row for this year's labors.

Newburgh's 35th win and Kingston's third loss Friday night took some of the color off the much looked forward to duel between the two arch rivals on Tuesday, Feb. 24, in Kingston.

Before Friday night the game appeared to be the "big" one of the year. At the present time it appears just to be another game to complete the schedule.

The complete slate of tonight's games follows:

Poughkeepsie at Kingston.
Newburgh at Ellenville.
Monticello at Middletown.
Fallsburg at Beacon.
Port Jervis at Liberty.

Baker Hands Brion His Worst Beating

New York, Feb. 17 (AP)—Pittsburgh's Bob Baker, ranked eighth in the latest ring heavyweight ratings, has given Argentine Cesar Brion one of his worst beatings.

The 210¾ pound Baker accomplished what Joe Louis, Ezzard Charles, Rex Layne and Roland La Starza were unable to do—put Brion on the floor. He couldn't keep him there after dropping him in the first and second rounds, but he pounded out an easy, unanimous 10-round decision last night at Brooklyn's Eastern Parkway. Bob Dunlap and Bernie Reynolds were the only other fighters to deck the 200½ pound Brion.

Can Take Punch

"He takes a punch better than anybody I ever fought," said Baker.

"Cesar didn't even know he was knocked down the second time," said Brion's manager Hymie Wollman. "He didn't shake off that first round punch until the fifth."

Koenig, Former KHS Cager, Is Promoted To Siena Varsity

Frank Koenig, Kingston freshman, is batting 1.000 for Siena College's cagers. The lanky 6 foot 4 center took one shot in a varsity uniform and made it.

Koenig hooked in a shot against Fordham Saturday night while only in the game for a minute and a half. Koenig had been elevated from the jayvees to third string varsity center.

He saw his first action against Seton Hall last Wednesday at South Orange, N. J., in a reserve role also. Koenig played only about a minute as the Indians lost to the top-ranked Pirates 62-49.

Against Fordham, however, Koenig's shot was more important. It helped the Indians upset favored Fordham, 61-57.

Koenig takes his second Siena trip this Thursday when the Indians travel to Philadelphia to play Villanova in the second half of a doubleheader. Syracuse and Penn play the opener.

Kias Gives Dates For Tournament; To Start in March

Coach G. Warren Kias, director of athletics at Kingston High School, today announced the dates for the annual intersectional basketball championships scheduled to get underway early in March.

Kias said that the local dates would be March 6, 7, 10 and 14. The finals are scheduled on March 14 in Kingston.

Class A teams from this area competing in the tournament will be Kingston, Middletown and Newburgh.

Section 2 teams include Mont Pleasant, Nott Terrace of Schenectady, Albany, Amsterdam and Troy.

Tournament pairings will be announced.

U. S. Davis Cup Chiefs Get Blast

New York, Feb. 17 (AP)—Lefty Art Larsen, levelled a blast at the United States' Davis Cup chieftains today and said America would never win back the cup until it "gets some organization."

"The Australians work and plan on their Davis Cup teams—they're always building," the 27-year-old southpaw stylist from San Leandro, Calif., added. "That's where they have it over us.

"We don't know until five minutes before a match sometimes who's going to play for us. Then a guy is picked and the others get their morale shattered. We have no system, no organization."

Larsen, 1950 national champion and now third-ranked nationally, is here for the national indoor championships. Seeded No. 1, he won his opening match handily last night over 54-year-old J. Gilbert Hall of New York, 6-4, 6-2.

"I once wanted to play on the Davis Cup team more than anything in the world," Art said. "I thought it would be a great honor, a great thing for my tennis. But now it no longer matters—I don't care whether I ever play on the team."

Triangles Turn Back Pinos in Late Rally

The Y Triangles made a gallant last period rally to remain unbeaten by scoring a 76 to 73 victory over Pino's All Stars at the YMCA court Saturday.

The Triangles, trailing throughout, came to life with 30 points in the final canto to turn the tide.

Turck and Nagel were the big guns for the Triangles with 17 points each. Joe Pino scored 39 for the losers.

Triangles (76)—Johnson, f, 1-0-2; Smith, 7-2-16; Alecca, f, 1-0-2; Turck, f, 7-3-17; Simmons, c, 0-1-1; Whelan, c, 5-3-13; Richards, g, 1-1-3; Redmond, g, 1-0-2; Roos, g, 1-1-3; Nagele, g, 8-1-17.

Record Melon Is Split Following Five-Man Events

Doubles, Singles Set For Next Weekend

Thirty city association teams will split a record $1,225 melon in team prizes, Irwin J. Thomas, Kingston Bowling Association secretary, announced today.

The $1,225 mark is part of the record-breaking $1,751 in prizes up for taking during the major and minor events of the 16th annual city championships.

Meanwhile, the KBA secretary also reported that the doubles and singles events are scheduled to be rolled next weekend at Ferraro's Bowlodrome. The minor events will start at 7 p. m. Saturday and will continue through Sunday with the last squad going on the alleys at 7 p. m.

The opening night's lineup of teams will be announced later this week.

Topping the award list was Herzog's. Supply of the Central Rec League whose last-minute 5158 gross triple hauled down the biggest plum of all—the $125 guaranteed first place prize for high gross series.

The Economy Excavators, recognized as the city tournament championships for their 2970 net score rolled last Thursday night, also came in for a good share of the prize melon—$100 for a second place gross score of 3147 and $15 for the 2970 team high series net score of the five-man events.

11 Over 3000

Eleven teams shot over the 3000 mark during last week's five-man events at the Central Rec drives topped by Herzog's 3158 which came during the final shift on the final night of bowling.

Fixer Testifies He Schooled Ref

New York, Feb. 17 (AP)—A convicted fixer testified yesterday he gave Referee Sol Levy a short course in how to fix basketball games.

Levy is on trial on charges of bribery in connection with alleged attempts to fix National Basketball Association games.

The witness was Ed Gard, former Long Island University basketball player who served eight months in jail for conspiracy in the college basketball fix scandals.

Gard, under direct questioning by the prosecution, repeated many of the arrangements described last week by Salvatore T. Sollazzo who says he gave Levy $3,000 to rig NBA results during the 1950-51 season.

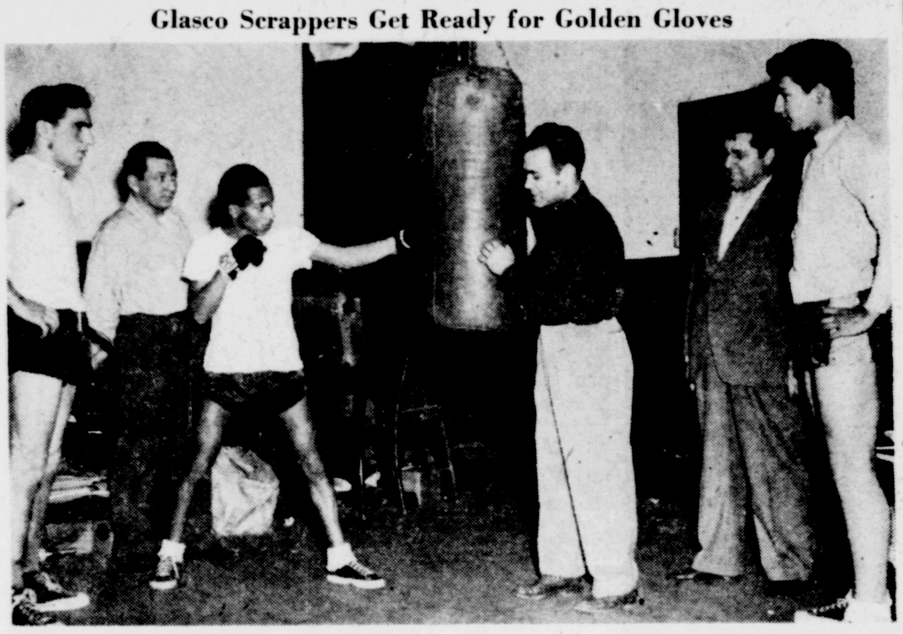

Serving Eight Years

Sollazzo is serving an eight to 16 year sentence for his part in the college fixes.

Gard said he showed Levy how a referee could help determine the outcome of games and then introduced the referee to Sollazzo. He testified that Sollazzo arranged with Levy to have six results fixed but that on three occasions the deals backfired and Sollazzo lost money.

The trial will continue tomorrow.

605 Net Is First Of Bowling Career

Doug Harvey, who divides his sports time between softball pitching in the summer months and throwing bowling balls during the winter, emerged from last week's five-man event in the 16th annual city association tournament as the No. 1 gross triple bowler with a nifty 707 score.

Harvey, a 154-average bowler with the First Baptist Church trundlers of the YMCA Federation League, achieved the high point of his career and it came during a tournament at that.

Up until Sunday afternoon when he exploded for the solid 707 gross triple, Harvey had never quite been able to go over the 600 mark.

231 in Opener

Opening on Alleys 3-4 (they turned out to be the graveyard for some of the tournament bowlers) Harvey riddled the pot-bellied maples for 231. Shifting to 5 and 6, he came back strong with 212.

Experiencing a little tough luck on the famed 7-8 drives, Harvey slipped to 162, giving him a 605 net triple.

Added to a 102-pin handicap, Harvey's 605 net triple zoomed into a pace-setting 707 which held up during the final assaults on the drives Sunday night.

Sparked by Harvey's steady pinning, the First Baptist wound up with a surprisingly high 3117 gross score that eventually captured the fourth payoff spot in the tournament.

Two Had 699 Triples

Harvey's startling 707 gross mark eclipsed two other fine scores turned in by Ralph Halbert and Ed Thomas.

Halbert, bowling on the opening night squad a week ago, fashioned a blazing 699 gross triple which stood up well under the blasting until Harvey's explosion.

Would Make Hunters Get Written Okay

Albany, Feb. 17 (AP)—Hunters would be required to obtain written permission from the owners of all private lands they crossed, under terms of legislation introduced last night.

The measure stems from heavy criticism levied by farmers and other property owners against those hunters who are careless or damage fences and other property.

Under present law, a hunter may cross private lands unless the owner has posted signs forbidding it.

Beaver Abundant For Coming Season

Albany, Feb. 17 (AP)—The State Conservation commissioner says "an overabundance of beaver" has led the state to make this spring's season "the most liberal beaver trapping season in half a century."

Perry B. Duryea yesterday announced March and April dates for the beaver season, an open season on otter and closing dates for the current muskrat season.

Duryea said recent surveys, made mostly by air, showed "an overabundance of beaver, particularly in the Adirondacks. This is all the more remarkable because in 1900 there probably weren't more than a dozen beaver left in the whole state."

Opens March 15

The beaver season, Duryea said, would be open March 15-25 in 32 western and Catskill counties, with a limit of six pelts; March 20-April 10 in 13 other counties with a limit of eight; and March 20-April 20 in all or parts of six Adirondack counties, with no limit.

The otter season will coincide with the beaver dates in 21 counties, mostly in the Adirondacks and Catskills, with a six-pelt limit.

Closing dates for trapping muskrat will be April 20 in the northern zone and March 25 in the rest of the state, where trapping has been underway since Feb. 1.

Woodstock Cops Pair From Hudson

The Woodstock quintet defeated Hudson 72 to 69 last night in a hotly contested game on the Woodstock court.

The game was cracked in the last two minutes of play when Holdridge and Van Wagenen scored their only field goals of the evening, two outside shots which fell neatly to break a 67-67 tie. Kleine added another point with a foul shot.

Woodstock outscored the visitors by 17 to 9 in the first quarter but were swamped in the second quarter when Hudson found the basket and ran up 27 points to six for Woodstock, the half ending 36 to 23 in favor of the visiting five. Woodstock took off its wraps in the third quarter to get themselves back in the game, outscoring Hudson 25 to 14, and went on in the fourth quarter to win.

The Woodstock Jayvees defeated the Kingston Globe Trotters by a score of 52 to 46 in the first game of the twin bill. Friday night Lincoln Center of Poughkeepsie will bring two teams to Woodstock. The first game will begin at 7:30 p. m.

Fights Last Night

By The Associated Press

San Francisco — World light heavyweight champion Archie Moore, 179, St. Louis, stopped Leonard Dugan, 209, Oakland (8, non-title).

Brooklyn — Bob Baker, 210¾, Pittsburgh, outpointed Cesar Brion, 200½, Argentina (10).

Russ Meyer Is Main Trade, May Help Dodgers Keep Flag

Brooklyn, Feb. 17 (AP) — The home folks think the Brooklyn Dodgers traded themselves into a second straight National League pennant by picking up pitcher Russ Meyer.

The temperamental righthander was the biggest name in a six-player three way swap late yesterday which shook up National League talent on four clubs.

It probably will take a season's play to figure out who got the best deal.

The Philadelphia Phillies started the merry-go-round by trading Meyer and some cash to the Boston Braves for first baseman Earl Torgeson. The Braves promptly sent Meyer to Brooklyn in exchange for infielder Rocky Bridges and shortstop Jim Pendleton, then swapped Bridges to Cincinnati for first baseman Joe Adcock. The Braves included another as yet unnamed player in the Cincinati deal.

The shuffling may not be all over yet since the Reds have been trying to get outfielder Ralph Kiner from Pittsburgh. Branch Rickey supposedly is interested in young infielders. So Bridges may end up with the Pirates.

Needed Starting Pitcher

Brooklyn supporters figure they got a starting pitcher while giving up only Bridges, a good fielder who hasn't proved he can hit, and Pendleton, a hot prospect from Montreal but still untried in the majors.

The Dodgers sorely needed another starting pitcher. If he can produce, Meyer, who had a 13-14 record with the Phillies last season, will be taking his turn with Preacher Roe, Billy Loes and Carl Erskine. They will leave rookie of the year Joe Black to perform relief chores, the job he handled so well last season.

If Brooklyn was happy so was Boston. A Braves spokesman said the club had been eyeing Pendleton for a long time but that last year the Dodgers wanted players and a lot of cash.

For a net outlay of one slump-ridden first baseman and one other player the Braves acquired Pendleton, Adcock and cash. Adcock had made no bones about being unhappy in Cincinnati. He wants to play first base instead of the outfield where the Reds used him. His 1952 average was .278.

Po'keepsie Wrestler Slated On Pat O'Connor Card, 20th

Ed King, of Poughkeepsie, who once played basketball for Seton Hall, will appear in the opening match of Friday night's wrestling show at Kingston Municipal Auditorium, it was announced today.

King is scheduled to take on Johnny Barend, clever young grappler from Rochester, in the one fall, 30-minute bout that will get the Pat O'Connor-Pedro Godoy show underway at 8:45 o'clock.

Although he will be giving away weight to Barend, King who throws caution to the winds—and the wrestling rules with it—figures to make it an interesting half an hour for Barend, once regarded as one of the outstanding prospects in the game. Barend, of course, isn't through, but thus far has failed to live up to the promise he showed a couple of years ago.

The co-feature sends Jim Auster, known as the Little Big Man, against Jack Bence, a Massachusetts product, for two out of three falls.

O'Connor, one of wrestling's most colorful performers, and Godoy, a good workman from South America, then take over the ring for their two out of three fall tussle which is expected to draw a capacity audience.

O'Connor's specialties are the flying drop kick, back breaker, flying tackle and airplane spin. Godoy features leg and arm holds as well as a good forearm clout.

Maroons Play Po'keepsie High Cagers Here Tonight

NFA After 36th Win On Ellenville Court

DUSO Basketball takes a step nearer the finish line tonight with a full schedule of games for the 10-team wheel.

Here in Kingston, Coach G. Warren Kias' Kingston High School cagers will entertain Poughkeepsie High at municipal auditorium. Game time is scheduled for 7:45 p. m. with a prelim getting things underway at 6:30 p. m.

With all hopes of a DUSO championship just about dashed following its upset defeat by Middletown Friday night, Kingston now must concentrate on cementing its hold on second place. The Maroons currently hold down second place by 1½ games.

Poughkeepsie, which has shown considerable strength at times during the present campaign, overpowered Liberty by 80 to 49 last Friday night. The Bridge City Blues are only two games out of second place.

NFA MEETS ELLIES

Newburgh methodically grinding out a patch to its fourth straight DUSO title, travels to Ellenville tonight to meet the ninth place entry. From all indications it looks like Newburgh's 36th straight victory and its 14th in a row for this year's labors.

Newburgh's 35th win and Kingston's third loss Friday night took some of the color off the much looked forward to duel between the two arch rivals on Tuesday, Feb. 24, in Kingston.

Before Friday night the game appeared to be the "big" one of the year. At the present time it appears just to be another game to complete the schedule.

Poughkeepsie at Kingston.
Newburgh at Ellenville.
Monticello at Middletown.
Fallsburg at Beacon.
Port Jervis at Liberty.

Baker Hands Brion His Worst Beating

New York, Feb. 17 (AP)—Pittsburgh's Bob Baker, ranked eighth in the latest ring heavyweight ratings, has given Argentine Cesar Brion one of his worst beatings.

The 210¾ pound Baker accomplished what Joe Louis, Ezzard Charles, Rex Layne and Roland La Starza were unable to do—put Brion on the floor. He couldn't keep him there after dropping him in the first and second rounds, but he pounded out an easy, unanimous 10-round decision last night at Brooklyn's Eastern Parkway. Bob Dunlap and Bernie Reynolds were the only other fighters to deck the 200½ pound Brion.

Can Take Punch

"He takes a punch better than anybody I ever fought," said Baker.

"Cesar didn't even know he was knocked down the second time," said Brion's manager Hymie Wollman. "He didn't shake off that first round punch until the fifth."

Koenig, Former KHS Cager, Is Promoted To Siena Varsity

Frank Koenig, Kingston freshman, is batting 1.000 for Siena College's cagers. The lanky 6 foot 4 center took one shot in a varsity uniform and made it.

Koenig hooked in a shot against Fordham Saturday night while only in the game for a minute and a half. Koenig had been elevated from the jayvees to third string varsity center.

He saw his first action against Seton Hall last Wednesday at South Orange, N. J., in a reserve role also. Koenig played only about a minute as the Indians lost to the top-ranked Pirates 62-49.

Against Fordham, however, Koenig's shot was more important. It helped the Indians upset favored Fordham, 61-57.

Koenig takes his second Siena trip this Thursday when the Indians travel to Philadelphia to play Villanova in the second half of a doubleheader. Syracuse and Penn play the opener.

U. S. Davis Cup Chiefs Get Blast

New York, Feb. 17 (AP)—Lefty Art Larsen, levelled a blast at the United States' Davis Cup chieftains today and said America would never win back the cup until it "gets some organization."

"The Australians work and plan on their Davis Cup teams—they're always building," the 27-year-old southpaw stylist from San Leandro, Calif., added. "That's where they have it over us.

"We don't know until five minutes before a match sometimes who's going to play for us. Then a guy is picked and the others get their morale shattered. We have no system, no organization."

Larsen, 1950 national champion and now third-ranked nationally, is here for the national indoor championships. Seeded No. 1, he won his opening match handily last night over 54-year-old J. Gilbert Hall of New York, 6-4, 6-2.

"I once wanted to play on the Davis Cup team more than anything in the world," Art said. "I thought it would be a great honor, a great thing for my tennis. But now it no longer matters—I don't care whether I ever play on the team."

Build Up Your Bowling By
Knockin' 'Em Down
With STEVE NAGY, Bowler of the Year

By STEVE NAGY
Bowler-of-the-Year

Just as yesterday's discussion dealt with applying proper finger action to the ball, today's lesson will concern itself with other fundamentals in releasing the ball at the foul line.

If you are throwing a back-up ball, the chances are your follow through closely resembles that of the accompanying photograph. With my thumb on the side and the palm of my hand facing upwards in this follow through, it is quite obvious I din't release the ball properly.

If I had, my follow through position would find my fingers definitely on one side and my thumb to the left of center with the back of my hand facing upwards.

You are almost certain to reach this correct follow through position if you keep your fingers on one side of the ball and your thumb on the other side throughout your approach to the foul line and turn your hand slightly to the left.

If you allow your hand to slip underneath the ball, however, it is almost impossible to avoid throwing a back-up ball.

Sports Leaders Ask Gambling Probe in Amateur, Pro Ranks

A "vast infiltration" of gambling and bribery into sports was acknowledged by a nine man committee created by a former U. S. attorney general which recommended methods of meeting the issue head-on.

Committee Chairman Francis T. Murray, athletic director of the University of Pennsylvania submitted the report to the U. S. attorney general and said it would be up to the Justice Department to release it.

The department declined to make the report public. Saying only that the more than 30 page document was under study.

Former Attorney General J. Howard McGrath organized the committee more than a year ago. The report was submitted to his successor, James P. McGrannery and is now before the present attorney general, Herbert Brownell.

Recommendations

The Associated Press learned yesterday that the report, aside from the congressional investigations, called for legislation to retard transmission of gambling information across state lines; punishment for bookmakers and individual bettors; an end to the subsidizing and proselyting of college athletes; the licensing of persons who wish to disseminate gambling information; laws to prevent using interstate facilities in connection with a bribe, and enactment by local governments of modern, effective and uniform legislation to combat gambling and bribery.

In addition to Murray the members of the committee were Dana X. Bible, of the University of Texas; Everett S. Dean, Stanford University; Ford Frick, baseball commissioner; Will Harridge, president of the American Baseball League; Ned Irish, president of Madison Square Garden; Gene Tunney, retired undefeated heavyweight boxing champion; Bert Bell, commissioner of the National Football League, and Alfred G. Vanderbilt, president of the Thoroughbred Racing Association.

Not Unanimous

McGrath formed the group following the basketball scandals. It has not met since submitting the report to the Justice Department.

Since the report was a composite of the individual members views, some of whom didn't agree with some recommendations, it was not unanimously approved.

It was noted in the report that a bill to start a congressional investigation is before the House Resolutions Committee in Washington.

Savoie Upsets Carter

Montreal, Feb. 17 (AP)—Armand Savoie's ring stock was boosted today as a result of an upset victory last night over Jimmy Carter, world lightweight boxing king. Savoie, Canadian lightweight champion, won a split 10-round decision in the non-title bout with a strong bid in the late rounds. He weighed 138¾ and Carter 136¼.

W and M Athletic Program Hit by Cribbing Scandal

Williamsburg, Va., Feb. 17 (AP) —The aged college of William and Mary faced a major athletic rebuilding job today in the wake of the nation's worst cribbing scandal since the expulsion of 90 West Point cadets in 1951.

At least a dozen athletes, including first string football and basketball players, were among an estimated 30 to 35 students dropped from the William and Mary rolls for violating the school's honor code.

College officials, beyond admitting that infractions of the honor system had occurred, maintained a tight-lipped policy and declined comment. They withheld names of those involved.

Second Big Scandal

It was the second big scandal to shake William and Mary, the nation's second oldest college, within a year and a half.

In August, 1951, there was a resounding athletic and administrative shakeup following disclosure that some athletes had been given undeserved grades and the transcripts of promising high school stars had been altered to make them eligible for college sports.

The basketball team lost five varsity players—two starters and the others front-line reserves.

Lose Co-Captains

The football team suffered the loss of next season's co-captains, Tom Koller of Trenton, N. J., and Jack Lewis of Pittsburgh. Both were outstanding on last fall's team.

At least six other varsity players were reported lost, too.

The basketball players who'll be missing are Lennie Drake, Joe Hume, Dick Savage, Dave Berry and Bob Hoitsma.

Although the school wouldn't say, it was learned from authoritative sources that most of those involved in the cribbing episode had not been guilty of direct cheating. Rather, they had violated the honor code by failing to report those who had.

Some Expelled

Some of those involved were expelled outright. Others—those who failed to report incidents of cheating — were suspended for one-year periods. Some of the students reportedly dropped out of school before the honor council acted.

The cribbing occurred in a class in the department of military science. The case was uncovered with the discovery that a copy of a final exam last month had been stolen. Copies were reportedly made and distributed among students.

Dates for Muskrat Season Announced

The closing dates for the muskrat trapping season have been announced by the Conservation Department as April 20 in the Northern Zone (where the season previously was listed as opening March 1) and March 25 in the rest of the State where muskrat trapping got underway Feb. 1.

Although the opening dates for trapping New York's most abundant furbearer were announced several weeks ago, it was necessary to delay decision on the closing dates because the late freeze-up made it impossible to make a muskrat survey as early as had been planned. The northern zone, incidentally, includes the Adirondack region east or north of the Oneida River, Oneida Lake, Barge Canal to Rome, the New York Central R.R. tracks, Rome to Albany and thence to the Massachusetts Line via the B & A RR.

Department officials reminded muskrat trappers in the Northern Zone that trapping is prohibited in four Washington County lakes (Cossayuna, Lauderdale, Dead and Schoolhouse) and in Rensselaer County's Burden Lake including shore areas for 100 feet back.

Robinson's 599 Tops Jacobson's

Warren Robinson stacked games of 205-216-178 for a pace-setting 599 series in the Jacobson Mixed League Sunday night at the Bowlodrome.

The rest of the top scores included Lou Navara with 487; Roy Geil 476; Rube Lewis 469; P. Jones 458 and M. Zaecheo 440.

Basketball Trade

Baltimore, Feb. 17 (AP)—The Baltimore Bullets last night traded their leading scorer, Freddie Scolari, and Don Boven to the Fort Wayne Pistons. In return they got Ralph (Buckshot) O'Brien, Jack Kerris and an undisclosed amount of money. Bob Elmer, Bullets general manager, announced the deal was made a few hours before the National Basketball Association trading deadline.

B. Walker was high scorer for Otisville with 21 points. Ferraro and Hutton sparked the Ulster county cagers with 13 and 10 points in that order.

Playing at Wallkill Prison Sunday, the Three Brothers suffered another close setback, 76 to 72.

BACK-UP—A back-up results if the hand is allowed to slip underneath the ball. (NEA)

By STEVE NAGY
Bowler-of-the-Year

Just as yesterday's discussion dealt with applying proper finger action to the ball, today's lesson will concern itself with other fundamentals in releasing the ball at the foul line.

If you are throwing a back-up ball, the chances are your follow through closely resembles that of the accompanying photograph. With my thumb on the side and the palm of my hand facing upwards in this follow through, it is quite obvious I din't release the ball properly.

If I had, my follow through position would find my fingers definitely on one side and my thumb to the left of center with the back of my hand facing upwards.

You are almost certain to reach this correct follow through position if you keep your fingers on one side of the ball and your thumb on the other side throughout your approach to the foul line and turn your hand slightly to the left.

If you allow your hand to slip underneath the ball, however, it is almost impossible to avoid throwing a back-up ball.

Sports Leaders Ask Gambling Probe in Amateur, Pro Ranks

Philadelphia, Feb. 17 (AP)—A full scale congressional investigation plus new laws designed to weed out gambling and bribery in amateur and professional sports have been demanded by top sports leaders of the nation.

A "vast infiltration" of gambling and bribery into sports was acknowledged by a nine man committee created by a former U. S. attorney general which recommended methods of meeting the issue head-on.

Committee Chairman Francis T. Murray, athletic director of the University of Pennsylvania submitted the report to the U. S. attorney general and said it would be up to the Justice Department to release it.

The department declined to make the report public. Saying only that the more than 30 page document was under study.

Former Attorney General J. Howard McGrath organized the committee more than a year ago. The report was submitted to his successor, James P. McGrannery and is now before the present attorney general, Herbert Brownell.

Recommendations

The Associated Press learned yesterday that the report, aside from the congressional investigations, called for legislation to retard transmission of gambling information across state lines; punishment for bookmakers and individual bettors; an end to the subsidizing and proselyting of college athletes; the licensing of persons who wish to disseminate gambling information; laws to prevent using interstate facilities in connection with a bribe, and enactment by local governments of modern, effective and uniform legislation to combat gambling and bribery.

In addition to Murray the members of the committee were Dana X. Bible, of the University of Texas; Everett S. Dean, Stanford University; Ford Frick, baseball commissioner; Will Harridge, president of the American Baseball League; Ned Irish, president of Madison Square Garden; Gene Tunney, retired undefeated heavyweight boxing champion; Bert Bell, commissioner of the National Football League, and Alfred G. Vanderbilt, president of the Thoroughbred Racing Association.

Not Unanimous

McGrath formed the group following the basketball scandals. It has not met since submitting the report to the Justice Department.

Since the report was a composite of the individual members views, some of whom didn't agree with some recommendations, it was not unanimously approved.

It was noted in the report that a bill to start a congressional investigation is before the House Resolutions Committee in Washington.

Savoie Upsets Carter

Montreal, Feb. 17 (AP)—Armand Savoie's ring stock was boosted today as a result of an upset victory last night over Jimmy Carter, world lightweight boxing king. Savoie, Canadian lightweight champion, won a split 10-round decision in the non-title bout with a strong bid in the late rounds. He weighed 138¾ and Carter 136¼.

W and M Athletic Program Hit by Cribbing Scandal

Williamsburg, Va., Feb. 17 (AP)—The aged college of William and Mary faced a major athletic rebuilding job today in the wake of the nation's worst cribbing scandal since the expulsion of 90 West Point cadets in 1951.

At least a dozen athletes, including first string football and basketball players, were among an estimated 30 to 35 students dropped from the William and Mary rolls for violating the school's honor code.

College officials, beyond admitting that infractions of the honor system had occurred, maintained a tight-lipped policy and declined comment. They withheld names of those involved.

Second Big Scandal

It was the second big scandal to shake William and Mary, the nation's second oldest college, within a year and a half.

In August, 1951, there was a resounding athletic and administrative shakeup following disclosure that some athletes had been given undeserved grades and the transcripts of promising high school stars had been altered to make them eligible for college sports.

The basketball team lost five varsity players—two starters and the others front-line reserves.

Lose Co-Captains

The football team suffered the loss of next season's co-captains, Tom Koller of Trenton, N. J., and Jack Lewis of Pittsburgh. Both were outstanding on last fall's team.

At least six other varsity players were reported lost, too.

The basketball players who'll be missing are Lennie Drake, Joe Hume, Dick Savage, Dave Berry and Bob Hoitsma.

Although the school wouldn't say, it was learned from authoritative sources that most of those involved in the cribbing episode had not been guilty of direct cheating. Rather, they had violated the honor code by failing to report those who had.

Some Expelled

Some of those involved were expelled outright. Others—those who failed to report incidents of cheating — were suspended for one-year periods. Some of the students reportedly dropped out of school before the honor council acted.

The cribbing occurred in a class in the department of military science. The case was uncovered with the discovery that a copy of a final exam last month had been stolen. Copies were reportedly made and distributed among students.

Dates for Muskrat Season Announced

The closing dates for the muskrat trapping season have been announced by the Conservation Department as April 20 in the Northern Zone (where the season previously was listed as opening March 1) and March 25 in the rest of the State where muskrat trapping got underway Feb. 1.

Although the opening dates for trapping New York's most abundant furbearer were announced several weeks ago, it was necessary to delay decision on the closing dates because the late freeze-up made it impossible to make a muskrat survey as early as had been planned. The northern zone, incidentally, includes the Adirondack region east or north of the Oneida River, Oneida Lake, Barge Canal to Rome, the New York Central R.R. tracks, Rome to Albany and thence to the Massachusetts Line via the B & A RR.

Department officials reminded muskrat trappers in the Northern Zone that trapping is prohibited in four Washington County lakes (Cossayuna, Lauderdale, Dead and Schoolhouse) and in Rensselaer County's Burden Lake including shore areas for 100 feet back.

Robinson's 599 Tops Jacobson's

Warren Robinson stacked games of 205-216-178 for a pace-setting 599 series in the Jacobson Mixed League Sunday night at the Bowlodrome.

The only other 500 was turned in by Leo Murray who posted 523.

The rest of the top scores included Lou Navara with 487; Roy Geil 476; Rube Lewis 469; P. Jones 458 and M. Zaccheo 440.

Basketball Trade

Baltimore, Feb. 17 (AP)—The Baltimore Bullets last night traded their leading scorer, Freddie Scolari, and Don Boven to the Fort Wayne Pistons. In return they got Ralph (Buckshot) O'Brien, Jack Kerris and an undisclosed amount of money. Bob Elmer, Bullets general manager, announced the deal was made a few hours before the National Basketball Association trading deadline.

GWS, School 5 Cop Grade League Tilts

George Washington School and School 5 registered victories in the Grade School Basketball League last week at the GWS court.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Here's How Champ Won Tourney Hand

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

The hand shown today was one of the most interesting in the world championship between the European and the American champions. B. Jay Becker scored a game for the American team in the "open" room, while one of the Swedish players failed to make three no-trump in the "closed" room.

Becker took the first trick with the ace of clubs and finessed the nine of hearts to East's ten. East returned the three of spades, and declarer won with the king. He next cashed the ace of hearts and gave up a trick to East's king.

When East now returned the jack of spades, Becker carefully held off. He took the next spade trick with the ace, entered dummy with the king of clubs, and ran the rest of dummy's hearts. He could then lead a diamond from the dummy, and East could not prevent declarer from making the ninth trick with the king of diamonds.

In the other room the South player never bid spades, and West's opening lead was a low spade. Declarer won, and ducked a low heart around to East. When East then returned a spade, South had to play low.

West won a spade trick and promptly shifted to the jack of diamonds. This forced out declarer's king of diamonds and established two diamond tricks for East. When East got in again with a second heart trick he cashed his two diamond tricks to defeat the contract.

Purpose of the program was to acquaint people of the community with the agencies involved in operation of the school and to answer questions.

Panelists were J. G. Wilkin of the board of education; Peter T. Sowa, chairman of the Citizen's Advisory Committee; Mrs. Leonard Gunsch, president of the Parents' Club, and Edwin Dudley, president of the Wallkill Teachers' Association. Three members of the school administration also served on the panel, namely Principal Robert J. Robinson, John Gardiner, adult education director, and John McElhenney, elementary grade supervisor.

Wilkin described the work of the board of education and outlined the duties of each member. The purpose of the Citizens' Advisory Committee, which now has 21 members, is to make recommendations to the board of education. Sowa, chairman of this committee, said that some of the suggestions were followed and others rejected. According to the speaker, the committee recently drafted a recommendation which provides for the purchase of a bus. It would be used to transport student spectators to and from athletic contests. He emphasized that the cost of purchasing this vehicle would in the long run be less than the cost of renting a spectator's bus every time there is a contest away. Sowa said that anyone was welcome to attend any meeting of the Advisory Committee. Suggestions from non-members will be accepted only if they are written.

Mrs. Gunsch stated that the purpose of the Parents' Club "shall be the stimulation of home-school relationships in understanding and providing for the children."

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Ring of Danbury, Conn., visited Mr. and Mrs. William Adams and sons Pat and Bill on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Davis of Lloyd visited Miss Glennie Wager on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Tony Mouzithras entertained visitors at their home on Sunday.

Mrs. Raymond Markle of Krumville has returned home after visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Brown here. She also attended the funeral of her grandmother Mrs. Jeremiah Wager at the Sutton Funeral Chapel in Clintondale on Sunday.

Before the meeting entertainment was provided by the adult education band under the direction of William Topping.

All Parents' Club members were exempted from paying dues this month and were requested to contribute that money to the polio fund.

Refreshments were served in the cafeteria after the meeting by the social committee consisting of Mrs. Charles White, Mrs. J. Cleveland, Mrs. Bernard Law and Mrs. E. Bedell.

President Gunsch also thanked the committee for the panel program, Mrs. Richard Reuthinger, Mrs. Paul Gaffney and Mrs. E. M. Harde.

Members of the Wallkill Fire Department responded to a call at the new radio coil plant on Commercial Row in Wallkill Tuesday when a spark from a welding iron ignited a can of spilled paint. The blaze had been extinguished by plant employes by the time the firemen arrived, according to Fire Chief Anthony Byczek. There was no damage.

The Wallkill Chamber of Commerce will hold its regular monthly meeting at 8 p. m. Monday evening in the cafeteria of Wallkill Central School.

J. Palmer Henderson of 1251 Paterson Plank road, well-known in Wallkill for his appearances with the Wallkill Reformed Church Choir, has accepted a position as music instructor in the Draper Central School, Schenevus.

Henderson, husband of Georgianna Stillwell Henderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Stillwell of Wallkill recently received a bachelor of science degree in education at New York University where he majored in music. Both Mr. Henderson and his wife have made frequent appearances in Wallkill as guest soloists, particularly in the Wallkill Reformed Church choir.

At one time, Henderson directed the Lincoln-Kiwanis Band and was director of the choir at the Reformed Church.

He will direct the band in his new assignment, and will teach band instruments as well as lead the chorus and glee club in high school department of the school at Schenevus. Henderson is a music teacher in Secaucus Schools.

There's Always a Murder will be presented by the Wallkill Teachers Association on March 27 at the Wallkill Central School. The play, published by Samuel French, is written by Ken Parker and directed by Miss Alice Owen and Miss Elizabeth Conklin. The play is for the benefit of the Scholarship Fund given by the Association.

The regular monthly meeting of the Wallkill Home Bureau unit will be held Tuesday, Feb. 17, at 11 a. m., in the community room of the Wallkill National Bank. During the morning session Mrs. Joseph Furman, secretary, will give a talk on History and Folklore of Ulster County. This will be followed by a business meeting.

In the afternoon, the main feature will be a Food Film which Bernard Law is securing for the Home Bureau. This will be followed by an exchange of recipes or household help. Each member should bring her own lunch.

Doc, 86, Still Practicing

Rochester, N. Y. (AP)—After 62 years of medical practice, Dr. Charles Reitz, 86, oldest practicing physician in the city, still puts in a full working day at his office and takes emergency calls on weekends. He accounts for his vigor and appearance, which belies his years, simply by saying, "Don't worry—don't hurry; that's all there is to it." Dr. Reitz put in 10 years of horse and buggy practice before he moved into the city and bought a one-cylinder Cadillac in 1900. Now he's delighted to see medicine in a sort of golden age of new discoveries to fight disease. He remembers when diseases like diphtheria, influenza, pneumonia, diabetes and typhoid fever were generally considered fatal.

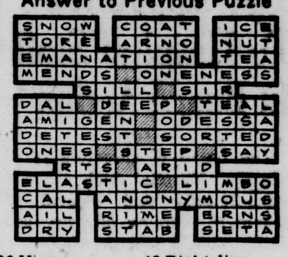

The belief that some people can change themselves into animals is found in all parts of the earth.

TB Cure Brings Gift

New York (AP)—The Japanese Pearl Growers Association recently sent a check for $1,000 to the Denver Sanatorium and Hospital for Jewish Consumptives in appreciation for the recovery at the sanatorium of James Kanai, one of their members. Kanai recovered from tuberculosis after 11 months at the sanatorium. The check was sent to Joseph Goldstone, president of the Imperial Pearl Syndicate of the United States and Chicago board leader of the relief society for the Denver sanatorium.

Extensive Line Of Frigidaires

An extensive new line of Frigidaire refrigerators was announced today by Joseph Scholar and Son, 65 North Front street, Frigidaire dealer in this locality.

At a special advance pre-showing of the firm's 1953 products in Albany, Joseph Scholar was shown the new models with improved Cycla-matic cooling and automatic defrosting, a new butter pre-server and roll-out shelves. Also previewed was a wide variety of newly styled electric ranges including some with new Quick-Clean ovens and one budget priced model with two ovens.

The food freezer-refrigerator combination with Cycla-matic cooling and automatic defrosting will be available this year in De Luxe as well as Imperial models, Scholar said.

Top model in the line is a new 10.8 cubic foot Cycla-matic Imperial, combining a separate sealed and insulated food freezer and refrigeration in a single cabinet, each with separate exterior doors. Cycla-matic refrigeration has been incorporated also into two new DeLuxe models, providing the same effective food-freezer-refrigerator combination heretofore found only in the top Imperial models.

There are two new Master refrigerators, including nine and 8.6 cubic foot models. One features automatic defrosting and the other finger-touch automatic Reset defrosting, Scholar announced.

The manufacturer's electric range line is comprised of a wide variety of models in 40, 30 and 21-inch sizes. The top model in the DeLuxe series is equipped with two complete broiling, baking and roasting ovens of the new Quick-Clean design and new Cushion door seals. Two ovens are also featured in one of the Master models in the budget priced category, the announcement stated.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Here's How Champ Won Tourney Hand

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

The hand shown today was one of the most interesting in the world championship between the European and the American champions. B. Jay Becker scored a game for the American team in the "open" room, while one of the Swedish players failed to make three no-trump in the "closed" room.

Becker took the first trick with the ace of clubs and finessed the nine of hearts to East's ten. East returned the three of spades, and declarer won with the king. He next cashed the ace of hearts and gave up a trick to East's king.

When East now returned the jack of spades, Becker carefully held off. He took the next spade trick with the ace, entered dummy with the king of clubs, and ran the rest of dummy's hearts. He could then lead a diamond from the dummy, and East could not prevent declarer from making the ninth trick with the king of diamonds.

In the other room the South player never bid spades, and West's opening lead was a low spade. Declarer won, and ducked a low heart around to East. When East then returned a spade, South had to play low.

West won a spade trick and promptly shifted to the jack of diamonds. This forced out declarer's king of diamonds and established two diamond tricks for East. When East got in again with a second heart trick he cashed his two diamond tricks to defeat the contract.

WALLKILL NEWS

Wallkill, Feb. 16—A panel discussion, This Is Your School, was held at the monthly meeting of Wallkill Parents' Club in the Central School auditorium Thursday evening. Purpose of the program was to acquaint people of the community with the agencies involved in operation of the school and to answer questions.

Panelists were J. G. Wilkin of the board of education; Peter T. Sowa, chairman of the Citizen's Advisory Committee; Mrs. Leonard Gunsch, president of the Parents' Club, and Edwin Dudley, president of the Wallkill Teachers' Association. Three members of the school administration also served on the panel, namely Principal Robert J. Robinson, John Gardiner, adult education director, and John McElhenney, elementary grade supervisor.

Wilkin described the work of the board of education and outlined the duties of each member. The purpose of the Citizens' Advisory Committee, which now has 21 members, is to make recommendations to the board of education. Sowa, chairman of this committee, said that some of the suggestions were followed and others rejected. According to the speaker, the committee recently drafted a recommendation which provides for the purchase of a bus. It would be used to transport student spectators to and from athletic contests. He emphasized that the cost of purchasing this vehicle would in the long run be less than the cost of renting a spectator's bus every time there is a contest away. Sowa said that anyone was welcome to attend any meeting of the Advisory Committee. Suggestions from non-members will be accepted only if they are written.

Mrs. Gunsch stated that the purpose of the Parents' Club "shall be the stimulation of home-school relationships in understanding and providing for the children."

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Ring of Danbury, Conn., visited Mr. and Mrs. William Adams and sons Pat and Bill on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Davis of Lloyd visited Miss Glennie Wager on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Tony Mouzithras entertained visitors at their home on Sunday.

Mrs. Raymond Markle of Krumville has returned home after visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Brown here. She also attended the funeral of her grandmother Mrs. Jeremiah Wager at the Sutton Funeral Chapel in Clintondale on Sunday.

Before the meeting entertainment was provided by the adult education band under the direction of William Topping.

All Parents' Club members were exempted from paying dues this month and were requested to contribute that money to the polio fund.

Refreshments were served in the cafeteria after the meeting by the social committee consisting of Mrs. Charles White, Mrs. J. Cleveland, Mrs. Bernard Law and Mrs. E. Bedell.

President Gunsch also thanked the committee for the panel program, Mrs. Richard Reuthinger, Mrs. Paul Gaffney and Mrs. E. M. Harde.

Members of the Wallkill Fire Department responded to a call at the new radio coil plant on Commercial Row in Wallkill Tuesday when a spark from a welding iron ignited a can of spilled paint. The blaze had been extinguished by plant employes by the time the firemen arrived, according to Fire Chief Anthony Byczek. There was no damage.

The Wallkill Chamber of Commerce will hold its regular monthly meeting at 8 p. m. Monday evening in the cafeteria of Wallkill Central School.

J. Palmer Henderson of 1251 Paterson Plank road, well-known in Wallkill for his appearances with the Wallkill Reformed Church Choir, has accepted a position as music instructor in the Draper Central School, Schenevus.

Henderson, husband of Georgianna Stillwell Henderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Stillwell of Wallkill recently received a bachelor of science degree in education at New York University where he majored in music. Both Mr. Henderson and his wife have made frequent appearances in Wallkill as guest soloists, particularly in the Wallkill Reformed Church choir.

At one time, Henderson directed the Lincoln-Kiwanis Band and was director of the choir at the Reformed Church.

He will direct the band in his new assignment, and will teach band instruments as well as lead the chorus and glee club in high school department of the school at Schenevus. Henderson is a music teacher in Secaucus Schools.

There's Always a Murder will be presented by the Wallkill Teachers Association on March 27 at the Wallkill Central School. The play, published by Samuel French, is written by Ken Parker and directed by Miss Alice Owen and Miss Elizabeth Conklin. The play is for the benefit of the Scholarship Fund given by the Association.

The regular monthly meeting of the Wallkill Home Bureau unit will be held Tuesday, Feb. 17, at 11 a. m., in the community room of the Wallkill National Bank. During the morning session Mrs. Joseph Furman, secretary, will give a talk on History and Folklore of Ulster County. This will be followed by a business meeting.

In the afternoon, the main feature will be a Food Film which Bernard Law is securing for the Home Bureau. This will be followed by an exchange of recipes or household help. Each member should bring her own lunch.

Doc, 86, Still Practicing

Rochester, N. Y. (AP)—After 62 years of medical practice, Dr. Charles Reitz, 86, oldest practicing physician in the city, still puts in a full working day at his office and takes emergency calls on weekends. He accounts for his vigor and appearance, which belies his years, simply by saying, "Don't worry—don't hurry; that's all there is to it." Dr. Reitz put in 10 years of horse and buggy practice before he moved into the city and bought a one-cylinder Cadillac in 1900. Now he's delighted to see medicine in a sort of golden age of new discoveries to fight disease. He remembers when diseases like diphtheria, influenza, pneumonia, diabetes and typhoid fever were generally considered fatal.

The belief that some people can change themselves into animals is found in all parts of the earth.

Extensive Line Of Frigidaires

An extensive new line of Frigidaire refrigerators was announced today by Joseph Scholar and Son, 65 North Front street, Frigidaire dealer in this locality.

At a special advance pre-showing of the firm's 1953 products in Albany, Joseph Scholar was shown the new models with improved Cycla-matic cooling and automatic defrosting, a new butter pre-server and roll-out shelves. Also previewed was a wide variety of newly styled electric ranges including some with new Quick-Clean ovens and one budget priced model with two ovens.

The food freezer-refrigerator combination with Cycla-matic cooling and automatic defrosting will be available this year in De Luxe as well as Imperial models, Scholar said.

Top model in the line is a new 10.8 cubic foot Cycla-matic Imperial, combining a separate sealed and insulated food freezer and refrigeration in a single cabinet, each with separate exterior doors. Cycla-matic refrigeration has been incorporated also into two new DeLuxe models, providing the same effective food-freezer-refrigerator combination heretofore found only in the top Imperial models.

There are two new Master refrigerators, including nine and 8.6 cubic foot models. One features automatic defrosting and the other finger-touch automatic Reset defrosting, Scholar announced.

The manufacturer's electric range line is comprised of a wide variety of models in 40, 30 and 21-inch sizes. The top model in the DeLuxe series is equipped with two complete broiling, baking and roasting ovens of the new Quick-Clean design and new Cushion door seals. Two ovens are also featured in one of the Master models in the budget priced category, the announcement stated.

The Rev. Frank Gollnick, chairman of the public relations committee, was authorized to proceed with the publishing of the annual report. Upon the recommendation of the building committee a contract was awarded for test borings, a preliminary to awarding the contract for excavation on the site of the proposed wing.

Present at the meeting were Frank Matthews, vice-president; Jacob Tremper, secretary; A. Raymond Atkins, treasurer, and the following trustees: Stephen D. Hiltebrant, George V. D. Hutton, George Yerry, N. LeVan Haver, Clarence S. Rowland, Lloyd R. LeFever, Allan L. Hanstein, Walter Williams, Rev. Frank Gollnick and Richard Kalish. In the absence of Schoonmaker, the first meeting he has missed since he was elected president in 1949, Matthews presided.

Colder Weather Is Forecast in East

(By The Associated Press)

Skies cleared and temperatures dropped in the storm-swept central part of the country today. A blast of icy air moved into northern midwest areas.

The storm that left from 3 to 8 inches of snow in parts of the midwest moderated as it moved eastward. Light snow fell early today in eastern and northern parts of the Great Lakes and in the northern Appalachians. As the storm moved eastward, falls decreased to generally an inch or less in Pennsylvania.

Readings were below zero across the upper Mississippi valley. It was 17 below in Grantsburg, Wis.; -8 at Iowa City, Ia.; and -7 at Fargo, N. D.

Chicago had its coldest day of the season, with the mercury plunging to zero and below in the metropolis and suburban areas.

The cold air extended to the southeastern part of the country where rain was reported. Colder weather also was in prospect for the eastern states. However, it was 17 early today in New York while at the same time it was 33 in Memphis and 60 in Miami.

Rain continued in the far northwest, and snow fell inland across the northern Rockies. Readings generally were around seasonal levels in the western states.

Holland Fund Is

our Holland flood relief campaign possible."

Everybody Gave

Comments heard from the volunteer solicitors as they turned in their collection all stressed the fact that practically no refusals were encountered. The total of the house-to-house canvass represents thousands of contributions, and nearly everyone contacted gave, even if only a small amount.

The campaign day Monday opened with a gala mood and with a feeling of optimism. Voluntary contributions received by mail prior to solicitation had mounted to $939 before canvass time. The Old Dutch Church had notified the committee of $164.56 received in a special collection at the church Sunday morning. The Lutheran Church of the Redeemer had also called on a collection raised by their parish.

Hear Flood Description

Mayor Newkirk opened the day with an early morning radio appeal to citizens, and C. J. van Rijn of Woodstock, who had returned from Holland on Sunday made an eye-witness report of flood conditions over WKNY during the afternoon. Every school child in the city brought home a handbill bearing a picture of Dutch boys with a windmill and carrying an appeal for a contribution. The Freeman featured a banner headline which served as a dinnertime reminder.

Mayor and Mrs. Newkirk, Jack Feye, Mrs. Richard Kalish, Victor Roth, Richard V. Roth and Harry Rigby, Jr., opened headquarters in the mayor's office at 7 p. m. By 7:05 p. m. Louis Schafer, covering part of the Second Ward for the Kiwanis Club, arrived with the first canister of funds. From then until 10:35 p. m., when Charles J. Turck, who was covering part of the Third War for the American Legion, brought in the final contribution, the mayor's large table was elbow-deep in quarters, half-dollars, bills and checks.

It was, in the words of one of the committee, "quite a festive occasion," with Alderman-at-Large Joseph Kelly, Alderman Sam Perry, Vice President Daniel Weisberg of B'nai B'rith, Val Skop and a group from the Sacred Heart Society, a delegation of teachers from the Teachers Federation, and other well-wishers stopping by during the evening to see how the drive was coming along and to offer their best wishes.

Security Plan Is Urged for 100,000

Albany, Feb. 17 (AP) — Gov. Dewey's administration today urged the legislature to make about 100,000 state and local public employes eligible for federal old age and survivors' insurance coverage.

The new program, which must be cleared with the federal government, was recommended by a special state committee headed by State Comptroller J. Raymond McGovern.

It would apply only to public employes who are not members of existing state or local retirement and pension systems and are not eligible for membership in such systems.

The social security coverage was opened to public workers by a 1950 amendment of the Federal Social Security Act.

Dewey told the lawmakers in a special message that "it is in the public interest that gaps in our security programs be eliminated without delay and I wholeheartedly commend the proposals of the committee to you for your favorable consideration."

Bills Offered in Legislature

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 17 (AP)—A proposed constitutional amendment to help water-short communities band together to combat dry spells has been given a new boost by a special state committee.

The 24-member committee, headed by comptroller J. Raymond McGovern, last night urged final legislative approval of the measure. Simultaneously it introduced bills to implement the proposed state-wide plan for water distribution.

The proposed amendment and the new measures, all aimed at heading off shortages like those that have cramped New York city and many western New York localities, would:

1. Permit localities to develop water supplies in excess of their own consumption and to sell the surplus to other communities.

2. Authorize localities to band together to set up water supply facilities.

Greater Savings

The committee said the program would result in fewer but larger water systems and would mean greater saving.

The proposed amendment was given initial Legislative approval in 1952. To become law, it must gain the approval of both Houses this year, or in 1954, and of the voters.

The committee was set up a year ago to study ways of stretching the state's water supplies for an expanding population.

The committee reportedly is seeking a state-wide system of water distribution to replace the present regional and local water authorities.

Meanwhile a Poughkeepsie Republican made a new pitch for a state preferential Presidential primary. The plan calls for voters of each party to ballot in the spring for candidates for the Presidential nomination in addition to delegates to the national conventions.

Says Voters Frustrated

A similar bill by GOP Sen. John H. Cooke of Alden was killed last year in the Republican-dominated Assembly Rules Committee after winning approval in the Senate.

A proposal to cerate a nine-member temporary commission to study possible revisions in the state public employes retirement system was introduced by two Queens Republicans.

Sen. Seymour Halpern and Assemblyman Samuel Rabin said the study would cover state and local pension systems.

Franchise taxes would be imposed for the first time on federal and state savings and loan associations under terms of new measures sponsored by the State Tax Commission.

Proposed Formula Same

The proposed tax formula would be the same as that governing savings banks—4½ per cent on net income or 2 per cent on total interest credited to depositors, whichever is higher.

The Tax Commission said savings and loan associations were "in active competition" with some functions of banks and other financial agencies. It noted that Congress had made savings and loan associations subject to federal income taxes for the first time in 1951.

Other newly introduced measures would:

Extend the State Commission on co-ordination of state activities one year, to March 31, 1954. The group is studying ways and means to streamline the state government.

Convert Great Meadow Prison in Washington county to an intermediate reformatory for young offenders requiring rigid discipline. (Assemblyman Anthony P. Savarese, Jr., R-Queens). The bill is part of the Dewey administration's prison-reform program.

Require an applicant for a hunting license to be fingerprinted by the issuing officer.

Grand Jury Sifts

providing for the New York police and district attorneys to investigate complaints of police brutality and report their findings to the Justice Department. The FBI normally handles probes of such complaints under federal civil rights procedure.

The reports said former Attorney General James P. McGranery learned of the agreement only last month, just before he left office, and promptly abrogated it.

McInerney, who had been in charge of the department's criminal division, has since been transferred to the chief post in the lands division.

Monaghan reportedly was in Washington yesterday to try to reinstate the agreement before the Federal Grand Jury could start its probe in the Jackson case.

The spokesman declined to say whether there ever was an agreement. He added only that Monaghan and department officials met for an hour and "official business was discussed."

Roy Wilkins, national administrator for the NAACP, last night sent Attorney General Herbert Brownell a telegram urging him to "stand firm" on the reported agreement termination.

The NAACP in New York, asking Monaghan's resignation, wired Impellitteri that the report of the agreement "terminates the usefulness" of Monaghan.

Negro city Councilman Earl Brown said he would introduce a bill prohibiting such an agreement and a resolution calling for an investigation of charges of police brutality in four other cases.

The American Civil Liberties Union issued a statement calling on Brownell and Impellitteri to investigate the reports. The ACLU said the reported agreement may be "in itself a violation of the federal civil rights statutes."

Federal civil rights laws provide up to one year in jail and a $1,000 fine for any one who deprives a person of his civil rights because of his color.

Mardi Gras Boils To Grand Climax

New Orleans, Feb. 17 (AP)—The simmering kettle of revelry in "the city that care forgot" boils over today as Rex, Lord of Misrule, reigns over New Orleans.

Hundreds of thousands will jam the streets for the climax of Mardi Gras carnival season.

Thousands of these merrymakers will be dressed as clowns, pirates, gorillas, flappers and other outlandish characters.

Stores and banks will be closed as the city gives its last and biggest road before the beginning of Lent.

Cathedral bells will ring at midnight and the devout will begin the 40 days of Lent—a period of fasting and penance.

Rex, head man of all the kings that have ruled New Orleans for the last 10 days, will ride his regal float through the milling crowds packing historic St. Charles and Canal streets.

Crawford Is Rex

Named Rex was a mechanical engineer, Charles G. Crawford. His queen is Miss Adelaide Wisdom, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Bell Wisdom.

Comus, king of the oldest carnival organization, will follow Rex in a torchlight parade tonight.

King Zulu will float down the Mississippi river in his royal barge and land at the foot of Canal street.

The torchlight parade of Comus ends the cardival for most people.

But for the socially prominent, the climax is yet to come.

Grand balls will be staged by both Rex and Comus. At midnight the two kings toast each other to signify the end of the carnival season.

At midnight the carnival is over and the religious theme will take its place.

Day of Prayer Is Proclaimed Here

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk today issued a proclamation designating Friday, Feb. 20, as the "World Day of Prayer."

This is done, he said, to comply with designation of the day by the General Department United Church Women of the National Council of Churches.

The observance is on an international, interdenominational and interracial basis to join the peoples of this world together in the furtherance of a belief in the theme for the day: "Christ, Our Hope."

The mayor calls upon "the people of Kingston and surrounding communities to observe this day by accepting this as a personal invitation to attend either or both of the meetings in the Fair Street Reformed Church at 2:30 and 7:30 p. m.

"If the duties of some are such," said the proclamation, "as to make it impossible, I urge them to pause in their work for one minute at high noon, to ask that God give that hope that is in Christ Jesus, light to guide us, courage to support us, and love to unite us."

The following were elected to the advisory committee of the School of Nursing: Miss Almena Porter, director of the School of Nursing; Miss Evelyn Morse; John D. Schoonmaker, president of the board of trustees; Arthur Laidlaw, superintendent of schools, Miss Esther Schisa; William B. Sheldon, hospital administrator; Allan L. Hanstein, Mrs. Harold S. Loughran and Dr. Frederic Holcomb, Sr.

This committee, representing a number of different organizations, reviews the activities of the School of Nursing and makes recommendations to the board of trustees.

Borings Authorized

The Rev. Frank Gollnick, chairman of the public relations committee, was authorized to proceed with the publishing of the annual report. Upon the recommendation of the building committee a contract was awarded for test borings, a preliminary to awarding the contract for excavation on the site of the proposed wing.

Present at the meeting were Frank Matthews, vice-president; Jacob Tremper, secretary; A. Raymond Atkins, treasurer, and the following trustees: Stephen D. Hiltebrant, George V. D. Hutton, George Yerry, N. LeVan Haver, Clarence S. Rowland, Lloyd R. LeFever, Allan L. Hanstein, Walter Williams, Rev. Frank Gollnick and Richard Kalish. In the absence of Schoonmaker, the first meeting he has missed since he was elected president in 1949, Matthews presided.

Colder Weather Is Forecast in East

(By The Associated Press)

Skies cleared and temperatures dropped in the storm-swept central part of the country today. A blast of icy air moved into northern midwest areas.

The storm that left from 3 to 8 inches of snow in parts of the midwest moderated as it moved eastward. Light snow fell early today in eastern and northern parts of the Great Lakes and in the northern Appalachians. As the storm moved eastward, falls decreased to generally an inch or less in Pennsylvania.

Readings were below zero across the upper Mississippi valley. It was 17 below in Grantsburg, Wis.; -8 at Iowa City, Ia.; and -7 at Fargo, N. D.

Chicago had its coldest day of the season, with the mercury plunging to zero and below in the metropolis and suburban areas.

The cold air extended to the southeastern part of the country where rain was reported. Colder weather also was in prospect for the eastern states. However, it was 17 early today in New York while at the same time it was 33 in Memphis and 60 in Miami.

Rain continued in the far northwest, and snow fell inland across the northern Rockies. Readings generally were around seasonal levels in the western states.

Holland Fund Is

our Holland flood relief campaign possible."

Everybody Gave

Comments heard from the volunteer solicitors as they turned in their collection all stressed the fact that practically no refusals were encountered. The total of the house-to-house canvass represents thousands of contributions, and nearly everyone contacted gave, even if only a small amount.

The campaign day Monday opened with a gala mood and with a feeling of optimism. Voluntary contributions received by mail prior to solicitation had mounted to $939 before canvass time. The Old Dutch Church had notified the committee of $164.56 received in a special collection at the church Sunday morning. The Lutheran Church of the Redeemer had also called on a collection raised by their parish.

Hear Flood Description

Mayor Newkirk opened the day with an early morning radio appeal to citizens, and C. J. van Rijn of Woodstock, who had returned from Holland on Sunday made an eye-witness report of flood conditions over WKNY during the afternoon. Every school child in the city brought home a handbill bearing a picture of Dutch boys with a windmill and carrying an appeal for a contribution. The Freeman featured a banner headline which served as a dinnertime reminder.

Mayor and Mrs. Newkirk, Jack Feye, Mrs. Richard Kalish, Victor Roth, Richard V. Roth and Harry Rigby, Jr., opened headquarters in the mayor's office at 7 p. m. By 7:05 p. m. Louis Schafer, covering part of the Second Ward for the Kiwanis Club, arrived with the first canister of funds. From then until 10:35 p. m., when Charles J. Turck, who was covering part of the Third War for the American Legion, brought in the final contribution, the mayor's large table was elbow-deep in quarters, half-dollars, bills and checks.

It was, in the words of one of the committee, "quite a festive occasion," with Alderman-at-Large Joseph Kelly, Alderman Sam Perry, Vice President Daniel Weisberg of B'nai B'rith, Val Skop and a group from the Sacred Heart Society, a delegation of teachers from the Teachers Federation, and other well-wishers stopping by during the evening to see how the drive was coming along and to offer their best wishes.

Security Plan Is Urged for 100,000

Albany, Feb. 17 (AP)—Gov. Dewey's administration today urged the legislature to make about 100,000 state and local public employes eligible for federal old age and survivors' insurance coverage.

The new program, which must be cleared with the federal government, was recommended by a special state committee headed by State Comptroller J. Raymond McGovern.

It would apply only to public employes who are not members of existing state or local retirement and pension systems and are not eligible for membership in such systems.

The social security coverage was opened to public workers by a 1950 amendment of the Federal Social Security Act.

Dewey told the lawmakers in a special message that "it is in the public interest that gaps in our security programs be eliminated without delay and I wholeheartedly commend the proposals of the committee to you for your favorable consideration."

Bills Offered in Legislature

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 17 (AP)—A proposed constitutional amendment to help water-short communities band together to combat dry spells has been given a new boost by a special state committee.

The 24-member committee, headed by comptroller J. Raymond McGovern, last night urged final legislative approval of the measure. Simultaneously it introduced bills to implement the proposed state-wide plan for water distribution.

The proposed amendment and the new measures, all aimed at heading off shortages like those that have cramped New York city and many western New York localities, would:

1. Permit localities to develop water supplies in excess of their own consumption and to sell the surplus to other communities.

2. Authorize localities to band together to set up water supply facilities.

Greater Savings

The committee said the program would result in fewer but larger water systems and would mean greater saving.

The proposed amendment was given initial Legislative approval in 1952. To become law, it must gain the approval of both Houses this year, or in 1954, and of the voters.

The committee was set up a year ago to study ways of stretching the state's water supplies for an expanding population.

The committee reportedly is seeking a state-wide system of water distribution to replace the present regional and local water authorities.

Meanwhile a Poughkeepsie Republican made a new pitch for a state preferential Presidential primary. The plan calls for voters of each party to ballot in the spring for candidates for the Presidential nomination in addition to delegates to the national conventions.

Says Voters Frustrated

Assemblyman Robert W. Pomeroy said that many voters felt "completely frustrated and blocked from any say in the selection of a party Presidential candidate."

A similar bill by GOP Sen. John H. Cooke of Alden was killed last year in the Republican-dominated Assembly Rules Committee after winning approval in the Senate.

A proposal to cerate a nine-member temporary commission to study possible revisions in the state public employes retirement system was introduced by two Queens Republicans.

Sen. Seymour Halpern and Assemblyman Samuel Rabin said the study would cover state and local pension systems.

Franchise taxes would be imposed for the first time on federal and state savings and loan associations under terms of new measures sponsored by the State Tax Commission.

Proposed Formula Same

The proposed tax formula would be the same as that governing savings banks—4½ per cent on net income or 2 per cent on total interest credited to depositors, whichever is higher.

The Tax Commission said savings and loan associations were "in active competition" with some functions of banks and other financial agencies. It noted that Congress had made savings and loan associations subject to federal income taxes for the first time in 1951.

Other newly introduced measures would:

Extend the State Commission on co-ordination of state activities one year, to March 31, 1954. The group is studying ways and means to streamline the state government.

Convert Great Meadow Prison in Washington county to an intermediate reformatory for young offenders requiring rigid discipline. (Assemblyman Anthony P. Savarese, Jr., R-Queens). The bill is part of the Dewey administration's prison-reform program.

Require an applicant for a hunting license to be fingerprinted by the issuing officer.

Grand Jury Sifts

providing for the New York police and district attorneys to investigate complaints of police brutality and report their findings to the Justice Department. The FBI normally handles probes of such complaints under federal civil rights procedure.

The reports said former Attorney General James P. McGranery learned of the agreement only last month, just before he left office, and promptly abrogated it.

McInerney, who had been in charge of the department's criminal division, has since been transferred to the chief post in the lands division.

Monaghan reportedly was in Washington yesterday to try to reinstate the agreement before the Federal Grand Jury could start its probe in the Jackson case.

If this were his mission, he apparently failed. A Justice Department spokesman told newsmen after Monaghan left that "there is no agreement—now."

The spokesman declined to say whether there ever was an agreement. He added only that Monaghan and department officials met for an hour and "official business was discussed."

Roy Wilkins, national administrator for the NAACP, last night sent Attorney General Herbert Brownell a telegram urging him to "stand firm" on the reported agreement termination.

The NAACP in New York, asking Monaghan's resignation, wired Impellitteri that the report of the agreement "terminates the usefulness" of Monaghan.

Negro city Councilman Earl Brown said he would introduce a bill prohibiting such an agreement and a resolution calling for an investigation of charges of police brutality in four other cases.

The American Civil Liberties Union issued a statement calling on Brownell and Impellitteri to investigate the reports. The ACLU said the reported agreement may be "in itself a violation of the federal civil rights statutes."

Federal civil rights laws provide up to one year in jail and a $1,000 fine for any one who deprives a person of his civil rights because of his color.

Mardi Gras Boils To Grand Climax

New Orleans, Feb. 17 (AP)—The simmering kettle of revelry in "the city that care forgot" boils over today as Rex, Lord of Misrule, reigns over New Orleans.

Hundreds of thousands will jam the streets for the climax of Mardi Gras carnival season.

Thousands of these merrymakers will be dressed as clowns, pirates, gorillas, flappers and other outlandish characters.

Stores and banks will be closed as the city gives its last and biggest road before the beginning of Lent.

Cathedral bells will ring at midnight and the devout will begin the 40 days of Lent—a period of fasting and penance.

Rex, head man of all the kings that have ruled New Orleans for the last 10 days, will ride his regal float through the milling crowds packing historic St. Charles and Canal streets.

Crawford Is Rex

Named Rex was a mechanical engineer, Charles G. Crawford. His queen is Miss Adelaide Wisdom, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Bell Wisdom.

Comus, king of the oldest carnival organization, will follow Rex in a torchlight parade tonight.

But another king will take the spotlight briefly before Rex and Comus close down the show.

King Zulu will float down the Mississippi river in his royal barge and land at the foot of Canal street.

As Zulu and his early-morning parade wave through downtown streets, he will toss out the traditional coconuts, taking care that no one is injured.

The torchlight parade of Comus ends the cardival for most people.

But for the socially prominent, the climax is yet to come.

Grand balls will be staged by both Rex and Comus. At midnight the two kings toast each other to signify the end of the carnival season.

At midnight the carnival is over and the religious theme will take its place.

Day of Prayer Is Proclaimed Here

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk today issued a proclamation designating Friday, Feb. 20, as the "World Day of Prayer."

This is done, he said, to comply with designation of the day by the General Department United Church Women of the National Council of Churches.

The observance is on an international, interdenominational and interracial basis to join the peoples of this world together in the furtherance of a belief in the theme for the day: "Christ, Our Hope."

The mayor calls upon "the people of Kingston and surrounding communities to observe this day by accepting this as a personal invitation to attend either or both of the meetings in the Fair Street Reformed Church at 2:30 and 7:30 p. m.

"If the duties of some are such," said the proclamation, "as to make it impossible, I urge them to pause in their work for one minute at high noon, to ask that God give that hope that is in Christ Jesus, light to guide us, courage to support us, and love to unite us."
